ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

The following invitation which has been received in Southport is of interest to the many friends here of the bride-elect, a former resident of Long Beach:

Mr. and Mrs. Carvie Wesley request the honor of the presence at the marriage of their daughter, Eva Mae, to William Edwin Elliott on Saturday the second of February at six o'clock in the evening at the Memorial Methodist Church, Spring Hope.

WOMAN'S CLUB

Feature of the regular meeting of the Southport Woman's Club Wednesday was a Time Magazine quiz, conducted by Mrs. E. Bussell. First prize was won by Mrs. Dallas Piggott.

Two new members were voted into the membership of the club. They are Mrs. Bryant Potter and Miss Annie M. Newton. Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. M. R. Sanders and Mrs. H. W. Hood.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Price Furless was guest of honor at a surprise birthday party last Thursday evening at the apartment of Miss Maude Inman. Guests had assembled before the arrival of the honoree, who was greeted with a chorus of "Happy Birthday." Following several contests, delicious refreshments of cake and ice cream were served to the following guests: Miss Lottie Mae Newton, Dwight McEwen, Rev. Paul H. Fields and Mr. and Mrs. James Harper.

BUYS CAFE

Mr. and Mrs. F. London Lewis, formerly of Southport, have bought the Orton Cafe near the ship lay-in-basin at the Brunswick river bridge. They are now open for business there.

HINTS TO Farm Folks

For a fireplace fire that gives cheer and comfort in winter and also burns wood most efficiently, foresters of the U. S. Department of Agriculture offer some suggestions. It is a mistake, they say, for the excessively neat housewife to keep all ashes cleaned from the fireplace. The ashes should be kept level with the andirons to provide a bed for glowing charcoal which will yield steady heat and help ignite new logs as they are added.

Before laying the fire, put one log on the floor of the hearth against the back wall and behind the andirons. This backlog keeps the draft from drawing the fire directly into the masonry and wasting heat.

Split wood kindles more easily than whole round logs.

Softwoods from cone-bearing trees make a quicker and hotter fire but also a shorter-lasting fire than hardwoods. The lighter hardwoods make a hotter and shorter-lasting fire than the heavier hardwoods. Woods that give the most heat for their weight are: oak, hickory, sweet birch, hard maple, rock elm, locust and longleaf pine.

A combination of hard and soft wood, such as oak and pine together, makes a successful fire. Woods that throw off sparks are chestnut, butternut, tamarack and spruce. These should burn only behind a screen. Green wood is poor in heat value because of the water it contains. Anywhere from 25 to more than 50 percent of the weight of green wood is water, depending on the variety. The heat required to drive off this moisture is lost as far as warming the room is concerned.

Dry seasoned wood kindles more quickly and is easier to tend and regulate than wet or green wood. Drying wood for a short time is better than not drying it at all. To hasten drying, split the green logs into small sticks. Another disadvantage of green wood is that it leaves more creosote, soot and other deposits in the chimney than dry wood. Foresters say that if green wood must be used, it should be put on a hot fire.

Farmer Makes Profit In Dairy

An example of what a farmer, operating on a small scale, can do with a few dairy cows, is demonstrated by Guy Anderson of Brasstown, Cherokee County.

Since August 1, Anderson's milk checks from these four dairy cows have totaled $329.78, after his haul bill was deducted. In addition to the milk sold off his farm, two and a half gallons per day were used for home consumption.

From August 1 to December 31, Anderson spent $88.75 for feed and the rest was grown on the farm. Part of this feed went to his dry cattle and calves, explains assistant farm agent, Lemuel Goode of the State College Extension Service, so the cows producing milk didn't use this entire amount of feed.

Anderson was one of the first farmers in the county to seed ladino clover on his farm. At the present time, he has seeded 21 acres of pasture and meadow to this clover. Results have been so good that Anderson plans to include it in all of his pasture mixtures.

Want To Grow Fishing Worms

RALEIGH.—Would you like to grow some fishing worms? Without cracking a smile, the Museum division of the State Department of Agriculture has released detailed information on how to grow earthworms—fishing worms to you.

Frank Meacham, Zoologist and author of the treatise, declared that "in this day of home or farm fish ponds, the lowly earthworm, or fishing worm, is rapidly gaining in importance."

"And, too, when one fishing party reports that $18 was spent for worms alone, it indicates somewhat the pecuniary value attached to them," added Meacham.

According to him, caution must be exercised in feeding worms so as to avoid over-feeding and having the unused feed souring the soil, causing damage to its inhabitants.

Business Loans For Servicemen

Business loan provisions of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 have been broadened to permit any normal business enterprise to be financed initially, Robert S. Matthews, Jr., contact representative in Wilmington for U. S. Veterans Administration, said today.

Proceeds of business loans may be used for the purpose of engaging or pursuing a gainful occupation.

Law now includes such loans applied toward the cost of acquiring for such purpose: land, buildings, supplies, equipment, machinery, tools, inventory, or stock in trade.

Another use is the cost of the construction, repair, alteration, or improvement of any realty or personality, for business purposes, or to provide the funds needed for working capital.

Business loans may be used for any of these specified purposes in connection with bona fide pursuit of a gainful occupation by a Veteran's ability and experience and the conditions under which he proposes to pursue such business or occupation, must be sure that there is a reasonable likelihood that he will be successful. Purchase price paid or to be paid by the veteran for such property, or the cost of such construction, alterations, or improvements, must not exceed the reasonable value thereof as determined by proper appraisal made by an appraiser designed by the administrator.
