Halstead Holden Writes To Encourage Development Of Interest In Sports And Sportsmanship In County

Halstead Holden, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Holden of Shallotte, and student at University of North Carolina, is still keenly interested in high school sports in Brunswick county.

His own high school days were spent in Durham, where the family formerly resided. Keeping up with things through this paper while he is a student, he wrote this week, relative to sports. His letter is reproduced in full:

"After reading a paragraph from Mr. Keziah's column in last week's State Port Pilot, I am fully convinced that the paper and Brunswick county people are advocates of clean sports and sportsmanship. This is a good thing because clean sportsmanship builds character and promotes a high standard of morals. These are the things that every boy and girl needs, not only now but in the future.

"I would like to see the high schools in Brunswick county expand their athletic program. Athletic programs should not be limited to basketball and football alone. They should include other sports, such as football, track, tennis and swimming. A combination of sports is necessary for a well rounded program. High schools which have this type of program benefit very much, because they receive more publicity, produce better athletes, and in many instances gain financially.

"These programs might seem a little far fetched, but in the long run the advantages gained from such a well rounded program should certainly outweigh any complication or problem which might arise.

"The lack of funds should not be a prime hindrance. There are many ways in which funds can be obtained. Drives, individual contributions and effort. Efforts by social organizations and clubs are good examples. Moreover the local newspaper is an excellent tool for stirring up interest and possible financial security.

"All in all, it is a great idea, and maybe some day it won't be just a possible proposal, but a reality.

"R. Halstead Holden."

March Celebrated As Wallpaper Month

New York—The month of March has been officially designated as National Wallpaper orated as National Wallpaper Month. It will be dedicated to the improvement of public taste and the beautifying of American homes.

The recorded history of wall paper is a long one; it dates back more than four centuries. At first, wall paper was made by a cumbersome hand process and thus was excessively expensive, and its use was limited to the wealthy. In later years, however, the art spread, designs improved, and the cost naturally decreased as wall paper techniques improved.

Within the past twenty years American technical ingenuity has developed washable wall paper, printed in lightfast colors. Today, wall paper is practical as well as beautiful and is available in such wide varieties that there is a wall paper to fit every color scheme, every taste, and every model of living.

Improvement of public taste in decorating is a long-term continuing process. During National Wallpaper Month, all branches of the industry are making a concerted effort to emphasize their year-round program of helping American homemakers to beautify their home.

Shuttle Service

With Al Stanley and his automobile acting like a shuttle in a weaver's loom, WENC wrote another chapter in broadcasting history Saturday night when transcriptions of the county basketball finals were channeled into the station and put on the air.

The 16-mile journey was made with such smoothness that the slight breaks between records only dramatized the unique broadcast.

Twelve 15-minute recordings were required to complete the three-hour basketball menu.
