Court Defendant Asks For Story

Usual Thing Is For Man In Court To Shun Publicity, But Not Robert L. Stanley, Convicted Of Wrecking Jail

Every week this paper has to gently but firmly refuse to leave anything out when it is found on the books of the Recorder's court. In that case everything that goes in has to come out.

This week there happened a heretofore unheard of opposite from the routine. Robert L. Stanley, of Shallotte, approached a reporter with a bill he had received. The bill was for the sums of $33.05 for a fine and costs for being drunk and an additional $49.45 for wrecking the Brunswick county jail where he was incarcerated for a short time.

"I want you to make a good long story about it," said Mr. Stanley. "It was the first time I ever had a key turned on me."

"Did you wreck the jail?" asked the reporter, referring to the bill and noting the item for $49.45 for repairs.

"The Jailer said so," said Mr. Stanley. "I don't know about it."

All I know is that they charged me $33.05 for getting locked up anywhere. If they choose to do so they could spend the summer at any or several beaches. They always pick Holden Beach, however, and are set up for the summer down there now.

LIKES HIS BEACH

The family of Guy Boetly, of Mt. Airy, have a large and well-appointed trailer home in which to live when they want to go anywhere. If they choose to do so they could spend the summer at any or several beaches. They always pick Holden Beach, however, and are set up for the summer down there now.

CORN ALSO HURT

Several lower Shallotte and Waccamaw township farmers, seen this week, said that the damage to crops from rain in their sections was not confined to tobacco. A great deal of corn was also badly hurt.
