Wants Farmers At Field Day

County Agent A. S. Knowles Thinks That Visit To Test Farm At Willard Will Be Inspiration

County Agent A. S. Knowles says that a number of Brunswick county farmers have indicated to him their intention to attend the Field Day at the Coastal Plains Experiment Station at Willard tomorrow (Thursday). Most of these men are interested in cattle and producing feed for them, and the trip to the experiment station is expected to furnish a good lesson in this phase of farming. During the past year the Brunswick farmers have shown an increased interest in the raising of livestock. The fact is admitted that the county lacks the number of cows and other animals for which feed can be produced. The Willard meeting will give farmers who are interested in cows an opportunity to learn from experts something relative to the feed and care for such animals.

The news around Shallotte high this week consists mostly of the students having spring fever. This has resulted in many parties.

Friday was the day for parties and egg hunts in the classrooms. Many classes in grammar school had baskets with candy. Games were played and everyone had a good time.

The faculty as well as the students were glad to get out early Friday.

Since Thursday everyone has been talking about the movie. The name was "The Corsican Brothers" and it was very good. More like it, Mr. Stone!

The second year home economics girls are now cooking some very tasty dishes, and hamburger seems to rate tops.

Mary Emma Mintz and Sylvia Sermons are going to Raleigh to a F. H. A. meeting April 30. They will represent the Shallotte club.

Betty Jane Downer, one of our seniors has written a class poem called "Advice From The Seniors". She will say it at the banquet.

In and around the campus: Billy Gray, Scott McKeithan, Albert Parker, Elmer Dance, Willard Todd, and Jack Robinson were seen going out to play baseball Wednesday. Everybody was seen chatting about Walban Thomas winning the fight Thursday night. . . . Hannah Tripp and Olive White were singing "Get Along Home, Cindy", Wednesday. Miss Johnson was carrying Easter baskets to her room Thursday. . . . Albert Parker and Elmer Dance were seen walking quickly and inconspicuously 'out of Mr. Grahl's World History 11 Class Friday. . . The Junior Beta Club members were enthusiastic over their new pins which came Friday. We bet they sleep with them on at night. . . Miss Frye's Math 1 students were rejoicing over not having a test Friday. . . Audrey Gore, Locky Robbins, Ruth Grissett, Louise Hewett, Hannah Tripp, Amelia Kirby, and Myrna Clemmons were seen buying candy from Mrs. McKeithan last week. Carolyn Smith and Joan Bennett were chatting in study hall. . . A visitor in one of Mr. Nies' study halls last week proved to be a dog. . . Evidently it came in without being seen until the whole class saw it at one time. You can imagine the uproar in the class. . . Mr. Stone made a sad announcement last week, or he made it appear like it was. When we found out we were going to have a 20 minute recess before lunch it didn't seem very sad. . . Miss Gasque and Miss Platt were seen in Wilmington Thursday after school. . . Jau-nith Holden, Hannah Tripp, Joseph Carter and Mark Gray were at the dance Saturday night.

So long until next time.

We're back again to tell all the gossip around Bolivia high school, and this week we have a double load.

The fifth grade gave an Easter play last week called "The Wonderful Message". It was very interesting to all who saw it. Everyone that is except the freshman class. The reason it was not very interesting to them was because after chapel they were scheduled to have a science exam. It was a nice play. Congratulations, Fifth Grade, for doing such a swell job.

Mr. Page attended a teachers meeting in Asheville last weekend. We really missed him at school last Thursday and Friday, especially in algebra class.

There was quite a bit of excitement around Bolivia high this past week when news got around that Harriette Yount was missing, but they found her and she wasn't lost. That really gave us a scare.

The Bolivia boys and Leland boys played a very interesting baseball game last week. Although Leland won its no sign that Bolivia will get whipped every-time, or at least we hope they won't.

Seen around enjoying school this week were Betty Padgette, Elizabeth Johnson, Myrtise Hickman and Betty Jacobs in the detention hall Monday afternoon. We're always glad to have visitors at our school and we want everyone that comes to visit to feel welcome.

We hope everyone had a grand Easter- we did.

Well that about winds things up this week, so look for us next week.

had placed only two witnesses on the stand to testify as to the circumstances surrounding the slaying of Mrs. Shelley in Tabor City on the night of March 25. Floyd's bond was fixed at $25,000 and he was still in jail today. It was reported, however, that bond will be posted possibly tomorrow as soon as South Carolina certification has been granted.

Bond for Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Floyd set at $500 each and the bonds were signed by Nathan Wilson of Tabor City. They were released soon after the inquest.

Although officers had quoted Mrs. Graham as saying that she shot Mrs. Shelley and then critically wounded her husband, it was apparent at the inquest that such a version of the death was not going to stand up.

Several hundred persons, most of them from Whiteville and Tabor City, crowded into the Court Room to manifest their curiosity over which of the conflicting accounts of the so-called love triangle slaying would be supported in sworn testimony.

Emmett Graham, 38-year-old Mullins barber, who was the central character in the triangle, was first to take the witness stand. Just recovered from the critical injuries received when he was shot through the abdomen, Graham was nattily attired in a brown sport coat and grey trousers. Colors of his flashy tie blended harmoniously with his grey-streaked hair which has a wavy, screen-star appearance.

The allegedly much-married Graham told the jury that he was present when Mrs. Shelley was shot and fatally wounded in the southern portion of Tabor City on Friday night, March 25. He said he and Mrs. Shelley were sitting in the front seat of Mrs. Shelley's automobile as they waited for her two children to attend a motion picture at a Tabor theatre.

TOOK AIR VACATION
Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Wells went on a vacation by air last week, flying to Ohio to see Mrs. A. H. Marshall and Mrs. Josephine Styron. From there they flew to New Jersey for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Yaskell. This was the first plane ride of either of the Southporters.

CANCER GOAL FOR

enough funds are made available to push forward the work of research and to bulwark the frontal assault of detection and treatment, we can be most optimistic about the outcome.

"It is true that the discoveries now made in the laboratories may not be put to practical use for years to come but our best medical authorities tell us that the basic mystery of cancer is being unraveled. In the meantime advances in surgical and radiation treatment are being discovered and put into practice, resulting in more and more lives saved.

"As Dr. Charles S. Cameron, medical and scientific director of the American Cancer Society recently pointed out, the prospects of controlling cancer have never been brighter."

The campaign chairman said reports on progress of the drive would be made from time to time through the press. He expressed appreciation of the organization for the cooperation given by this newspaper in bringing the work of ACS to the public's attention.
