

The Pirate Log

By: The Three Buccaneers (Kat, Jan and Peg.)

Since the Pirate Log got lost last week, we are now making up for two weeks. First we will tell you about last week.

Because more money is needed for the athletic association the students are selling caps, Shalotte stickers and giving programs to raise the needed money.

On Thursday night, October 20 the Pirates trounced Tabor City by a score of 14 to 6. For the winning team Floyd Kirby, Jr., made 8 of the points while Thomas Gray made 6. Although it was very cold, spectators turned out with much spirit. The following night the junior varsity team played the Loris junior varsity. The game ended with a 0 to 0 tie.

The sophomores have elected the following class officers: Rose Marie Gray, president; June Clyde Caison, vice-president; Ada Ensey, secretary; and Joan Bennett, Mary Gwen Chadwick, Carolyn Smith and Geraldine Browning, social leaders.

Witches, black cats, and eek! GHOST! It sounds scary but it all adds up to Hallowe'en, and Hallowe'en adds up to fun.

Monday the "Jolly Roger" staff had its first meeting. Although we think there is no better than out last year's annual, many improvements are planning to be made on our second annual. The staff is as follows: Faculty advisors: Miss Tencie Frye, Miss Betty Neville; editor-in-chief: Audrey Milliken; business manager: W. J. McLamb; assistant editor: Mary Gwen Chadwick; assistant business manager: Floyd Kirby, Jr.; class editor: Selene Register; sports editor: Scott McKeithan; activity editor: Kathleen Clemmons; assistant activity editor: Ida Ruth Galloway; photography editor: Bill Gray; make-up editor: Billie Kate Leonard; advertisement manager: Geraldine Cox; assistant advertisement manager: Joseph Carter; circulation manager: Gertrude Hewett; assistant circulation manager: Carol Ann Sellers.

This being the week of the carnival, it was a very busy week. The students co-operated nicely in helping to get things ready. The first part of the week was spent mostly in getting the prizes for the game and fish pond. We would like to thank the merchants who donated the prizes and tell you where the money we received went. The high school put on the carnival so naturally the money went to each class. The juniors are using part for the banquet and the seniors, of course, need theirs; and the rest is going to the science department and the home economics department. Thursday was spent decorating and making posters and getting the last minute fixings for Thursday night done. At last, the big night came. In the front hall hats, horns, toy spiders, and other things to make the carnival more creepy. In the library bingo was played. The winner drew a number out of a box which corresponded with a prize. Next door, the senior classroom, was the "graveyard of the teachers. Among the graves were Mrs. Margaret Russ, Mr. Gene Reese's, Mr. L. Mintz, and Miss Neville's. In the sophomore girls room was the "House of Horrors". When you once went in you doubted getting out alive. The fish pond was in the fifth grade room. The fortune teller occupied the eighth grade room while Madam Fifi, the woman who ate and talked under water, entertained in the sophomore boys room. Next to the fortune teller was the art gallery. Also another interesting side show was in the freshman girl's home room. The room visited the most was probably room 14. Why? Well, there's only one answer, food. Hot dogs, drinks, sandwiches, cookies, candy, and chewing gum was sold. The main show began at 9:30 with Freddie Lott, the announcer. There were poems, stunts and songs. Among them was the mule from another world. (It must have been because it could do math). The high light of the program was the crowning of the king and queen. After the close race it was announced that Bunky Bellamy, a sophomore, was king and Betty Jo Long, a freshman, was queen. Runners up were Jackie Leonard, Carolyn Smith, Rosa Lee Clemmons, James Robbins, Blondie Hewett and Billy Grey. Next on the list was the selling of the cakes to the highest bidder. Yum-yum. Last was the announcement of the door prize won by Etherage Stanley, a junior.

We're sure that the carnival was enjoyed by everyone. It not only helped us for entertainment but now can have part of the necessary equipment needed for our school.

Seen Around: Mrs. McKeithan seeing spooks, before Hallowe'en, in French 1. . . . Everybody cleaning up Friday . . . Amelia Kirby talking off for the ballgame at Aynor Friday . . . Mack Hewett making use of the corn used for bingo, and we don't mean playing bingo either . . . Gladys Hewett all dressed in red to play basketball . . . The first year typing students making more mistakes than ever . . . Betty Lou Williams and Faye Hewett dressed as gypsies at the carnival . . .

calling everybody "Cub" . . . All of Mr. Reese's classes having, well, shall we say a party with failing grades served as refreshments, the first of the week . . . And everybody wearing the Shalotte caps once more.

The movie shown Friday was "Gallant Journey" starring Glenn Ford and Janet Leigh.

Next week we will tell you about a basketball game between the team and the freshmen. Until then, so long.

High Times

By: Lib, Jan, Toog and Glo

The excitement of Hallowe'en is slowly fading away, but it left just loads of news. Now to get started.

Friday night was the big night for the people of Southport. When we say the people we mean the older folks, too. The costume parade was very interesting and colorful and started the carnival off on the right foot. Then came the crowning of the King and Queen. For those who don't already know Douglas Watts and Barbara Hewett reigned over the carnival. Their court consisted of Linda Hickman, Billy McDowell, Charlotte Spencer, Billy Drew attendants; Norman Harrelson and John Plaxco as crown-bearers; Tommy Harrelson and Carolyn Ramseur, thainbearers.

With the portion of the program simply and beautifully done the crowd rushed to the gym. There they found everything from Mr. Robinson yelling at his bingo stand to the mysterious fortune teller. The house of horrors really lived up to its name, eh Bobby? To the old and young alike the hall of fame proved interesting and in some cases amusing. We want to thank the grade mothers and the others who played a part in making our carnival a success.

As we know even after this the fun wasn't over for the younger set. That was the point where the older people started worrying about their lawn furniture, their windows, their cars and anything else they happened to have out. The fun was harmless, though, in most cases and no serious damage was done.

Thursday was another exciting day for the football team. A thrilling game was played with the Junior Varsity of Wilmington. The Wildkittens won a victory 21 to 0.

The next game is with Shalotte on Thursday. If you want to see a real battle here's the game you should see. Come on folks. The boys need your encouragement to help them win. How about it? Let's win Thursday!

Over at the gym Friday we saw Billy Doshier and Bobby Cullis fixing the house of horrors . . . We saw all the high school students turning out for the football game Thursday afternoon . . . We saw different groups really having a good time with their mischevous pranks around town Friday night . . . We saw Sue Williamson and Rebecca and Catherine McRackan in Wilmington Saturday afternoon . . . At school Monday morning we saw quite a few sleepy heads trying to recover from the week end . . . During activity period we had King Douglas, Darrell Fisher, Ed Hanson, Harold Spencer, Billy Doshier, Agnew Fulcher and others helping us remember the news of the past week. But even with their help it does give out-so until next week—so long.

TWO HELD FOR

Apparently all were drinking, but at the inquest Mary Ray testified that she and Magdalene were both drunk. The four men were not drinking, she said. She further testified that after her sister was missing from the car they went on for a short distance and then returned, picked her up and carried her to the hospital where she died.

The coroner's jury was composed of Ellis Ganey, Elmer Ramsey, George Ramsey, C. A. Montgomery, J. F. Coleman and G. R. Cherry. They found that the woman came to her death from unknown cases and recommended that Lois and Bernice Johnson be held for grand jury action.

in the beer parlor, some in the home of the negro and some in his car. In addition to beer, it appeared that drinks of something much stronger was served over the counter. Several glasses, said to have been smelling of whiskey, and a small funnel was found on a shelf under the counter, according to Deputy Sheriff Odell Blanton, who was a member of the raiding party.

Only Bellamy and his wife were in the establishment at the time of the raid. The whiskey and wine was seized and Bellamy was arrested on a charge of possession for the purpose of sale. Stansland, Deputies O. W. Blanton, G. D. Robinson and Ganey.
