The purpose of this school is to assist our religious leaders in this section to see the great opportunity for Christian service here and work together more effectively in accomplishing the common task of enlisting the people in religious programs that will touch the lives of every person in our communities. Better leadership in all of our churches of all faiths is definitely needed in order to realize the cooperation necessary for effective ministry to all groups of people.

"The unity in the religious thinking of a community is said to be an excellent index to the social, educational, business and religious progress of that community. It is certainly complimentary to a community to have a school where there is sincere thinking together by religious leaders about our religious situations and the best way to meet the needs of all our citizens. This school is for both laymen and ministers, and should aid them in knowing how to work together in the common task of all churches. A trained laity in the churches is equally as necessary for sound church progress as for the clergy to be trained well.

"The faculty of this school is composed of men of leadership ability and experience. Dr. L. E. M. Freeman, long time teacher of Bible in Meredith College and popular lecturer in religious institutes, will teach pastors each night, beginning at 7 o'clock. His theme will be Biblical and feature the Old Testament Prophecy as applied to our time. Daily the pastors will sit with Dr. Freeman and discuss the subject, 'The Religious Situations in America.' Dr. Freeman has made a diligent comparative study, for many years, of Protestant groups with other religious groups in our county and the world. His counsel is often sought relative to right relationship, and most effective work, with other religious groups outside of Protestantism. Dr. Freeman is tolerant, keenly observant, magnanimous in speech, and generally helpful in classes and conferences.

"Dr. R. K. Redwine, general manager of Caswell Baptist Assembly, will teach deacons during the week. He is well qualified to lead in a helpful study of 'The Deacon and His Work.' He knows from experience the work of deacons in the local church and how they might work together in lar-

High Times

By: Glo, Toog, Phill and Boyce. Another week of excitement, news, gossip and basketball games. Yes, we have had rather a busy week and quite a time trying to gather the news for you.

First of all is our news about the Southport-Leland games. Our girls lost by a score 37 to 22. Rebecca McRackan was high scorer with Catherine as runner-up. Our boys did better and won by a score of 43 to 36. Bobby Spencer was high scorer with Billy McDowell next.

Friday night we played Waccamaw in our local gym. The girls won 50 to 27 with Rebecca McRackan high scorer and Catherine McRackan as runner-up. Our boys were lucky, too, and won 33 to 18. Bobby Spencer was high scorer with Gene Russ trailing.

ger communities for most effective results. Laymen who are not deacons are welcome to his classes.

"The lecture hour—8 p. m.—will be the time when the public is invited. Dr. J. C. Canipe will be the speaker for Monday. He is superintendent of evangelism in the N. C. Baptist Convention and president of the Fruitland School for Ministers, Henderson, N. C. Dr. M. A. Huggins, executive secretary of State Baptists, will be heard Tuesday. Dr. Richard Young, chaplain of our Baptist Hospital, Winston-Salem, and an outstanding counselor in the field of pastoral counseling, will speak Wednesday. Other speakers of note will address the group Thursday and Friday nights.

"An open forum will follow the address. There is no charge, of course, for the class sessions or the addresses.

"Invitations have been sent to pastors and deacons of the Dock, Bladen, Robeson, Brunswick and Columbus Association."

Candidate For CORONER

I wish to announce my candidacy for the office of Coroner of Brunswick county, subject to the will of the voters in the Democratic Primary.

It has been my pleasure to serve the citizens in the past in this important office, and if again nominated and elected I pledge myself to fulfill the duties of Coroner to the best of my ability.

JOHN G. CAISON

Gene Fullwood telling everyone about the movie Wednesday night. J. B. Helms, Douglas Watts, Russell Kincaide and Ed Hanson writing papers for Miss Long. Darrell Fisher trying some new hairdos in history class. The home economics class cleaning the windows and putting up clean curtains. Everyone having a good laugh on the "Hadaool Yell". Elizabeth Lupton with her head in a biology book during activity period. Prof. C. N. Sanders giving a scolding to Lattitia Hickman, Stuart Arrington, Patricia Adams, Karen Swan, Mary Ann Loughlin, Harriett Corlette and Loretta Spencer for going to class late.

Ed Hanson really going to town talking during activity period about his biology. Iris Rabon blushing in bookkeeping while having the hick-ups. Elliott Hickman, Bill Cranmer, Bobby Cullis and Bertram Burris making book reports during activity period. The sporting around their nifty red sweaters. G. W. Fisher, Gene Russ, Nancy Swan, Janice Swan, Billy Doshier, Danny Harvelson, Billy McDowell and others slaving away in the new bookkeeping work books. All the students enjoying their half day off last Monday. Boyce Spencer dusting shelves in the library. Some of the senior girls keeping classes while the teachers were having a meeting. Tuesday the Juniors holding a meeting to decide on their Junior play and to order the books, which you will hear more about later.

The fourth period history class going to court to listen to some of the cases which proved to be interesting. Ramona Frink and Delight Gay busy studying chemistry. The English classes, happier now that they are beginning to study literature. Peggy Arnold and Joan James chatting during study hall while Tommy Bowmer seemed to be interested in the basketball score book. Rebecca and Catherine McRackan sporting new permanent-which are cute. Well folks, the time has come at last, Harriett Corlette has her driving license so, stop, look and listen!

So long for now!

County Agent A. S. Knowles Pleased With Improvement Shown In Condition Of Permanent Pastures

County Agent A. S. Knowles stated this week that he has recently visited several pastures that were planted last fall. He found them doing nicely and some are now being grazed lightly.

Among the pastures he has visited are those of Ben Hewett, Rifton Sellers, B. R. Sellers, B. A. Williams, Ed Simmons, Floyd Phelps, Frank Norris, J. C. Stantland, J. B. Bennett, Charles Sikes, Herbert Russ, Ed Clemmons, Riley Clemmons, Clarence Lenton.

The county agent says that it is important to maintain the fertility of the land on which it is desired to produce good pasture. On sandy soils where the grass is turning yellow it may be very helpful to apply 200 pounds of 14-0-14 fertilizers per acre. On heavier soils where good stands were secured of ladina clover and fescue, it may be advisable to use 400-pounds of 0-10-20 fertilizers per acre.

has application forms for living ex-prisoner of war benefits for the payment of compensation to a member of the military or naval forces of the United States who was held as a prisoner of war by an enemy government after Dec. 7, 1941. Such compensation is payable at the rate of $1 for each day of confinement on which the enemy government failed to furnish the quantity or quality of food required by the terms of the Geneva Convention of July 27, 1929.

A noi pros with leave was taken in the following cases: Dewey Lee Robinson and brothers, neglected; Earl Benton, Grover Hickman, Wilbur Frink, Zeb Davis, Wallace Hickman and Harold Hickman, violating oyster law; Boyd Robinson, assault with a deadly weapon.

Among the civil matters brought before the court this week was the request by Attorney Emmett Bellamy for Judge Frizzelle to sign an order restoring two deposed members to the school committee at Shallotte. Judge Frizzelle declined to have any part in this matter, and said that now that it is up for appeal before the Supreme court he would hesitate to attempt to intervene.

The order would restore Dennis Hewett and J. P. Russ to the Shallotte school board to replace Dr. M. H. Rourke and V. E. Galloway.

The commissioners named in the Esco Clemmons, et als, vs R. D. White reported sale of the property in dispute for the sum of $3,360. The court ordered expenses to be paid and the money divided according to the previous order.

The case of O. R. Smith vs O. D. Smith and wife postponed pending a survey by the county surveyor.

The following divorces were granted: Charity Bland Causey vs

BIG SHIPMENTS

Continued From Page One bound for Pittsburg, consigned to dealers who looked after retail trade. The lead had some 12,000 feet and was a part of regular truck shipments.

A huge pile of two-inch cypress planking that had just come through the planner, was awaiting immediate shipment by rail from Navassa to Chicago. It was just a part of regular shipments consigned to the U. S. Government. Other shipments, consigned to various northern cities go forward each week.

In addition to the shipments to distant points the company has a big business throughout Brunswick and adjoining counties. An injury of Felton Garner at Bolivia this past week revealed that he had a million feet of lumber on hand at that point, much of it already finished and in readiness for shipment. Much more was on the yards and the tin, awaiting the finishing process.

MENHADEN BOATS

(Continued from page one) tice of keeping its men employed during the rough weather season, the factory has been a distinct help this year to a large number of shrimp boats. It has been buying all the menhaden these boats produced at prices ranging up to $6.60 per thousand.

The production of these shrimp trawlers is said to point conclusively to the menhaden being present all along the coast in great numbers. It is a well known fact that the trawls dragged along on the floor of the ocean usually catch the fish that are swimming very low, practically on the bottom. Real hard freezes will drive the menhaden to the bottom, where they can be caught. This year there have been no freezes, but the boats have been making fair catches and this is said to be conclusive evidence that the fish are in the water in great numbers.

COMMITTEE WILL

Continued From Page One pose the executive committee. 3. The Board of Managers to provide ways and means for securing the necessary funds with which to keep in order the cemeteries and also provide a reserve fund as outlined in the report of the committee.

The plan calls for enlisting the several organizations, and that the qualified members as such will be a part of the general association and will elect its representative respectively to serve on the Board of Managers for one year or such term as the board may provide. Audit of funds received and the manner of expenditure and the state of the reserve or endowment will be made annually. It is the hope of the committee which presented the plan that each organization and individual will cooperate. The matter will be presented to them for action as soon as possible.

The committee making the report is composed of L. D. Hayman, Davis Herring and Louis Hardee.

SOUTHPORT CLUB

Continued From Page One ing was a report of the cemetery committee which has been seeking to work out plans for perpetual maintenance of the two burial grounds serving this community.

The club also voted to sponsor a dance on Saturday, February 4, with music to be furnished by the Behrman band of Wilmington.

Attention was directed to the District Lions Convention this week at Goldsboro, with special emphasis upon the Southport club having representation.
