"Average prices by grades in most instances were unchanged to higher, although several declines were noted.
Gains were mostly $1-$3 by grades. Some declines were noted of $1-$2, this in the primings, though tabulations showed generally prices held even.
Deliveries in primings continue to decrease with leaf and smoking leaf in sharp increase. Principal offerings were low to good leaf, low and fair primings, fair and good lugs, low cutters and nondescript.

Flue-Cured Stabilization for the two belts took in about 7.2 percent of the offerings last week. The gross take so far is 8 percent. Deliveries to FC as the same juncture last year ranged about 16 percent.
Further south in the Georgia-Florida markets, only six markets remain open, these due to close Wednesday. Sales last week saw a $53.28 average. Season average is now $58.10 against $57.25 for last year. Volume is her skipper. The popular R & S Amusements were headed back to town. It was mighty early, but the first camellia blooms of the season had been reported by Orton Manager Jim Ferger. The Red Cross workroom was preparing to close after 2 years of busy wartime activity; a report appeared on the society page of the marriage of Miss Bette Marie Botton to Coast Guardsman Ormond Leggett; and the editorial writer, then as now, was advising tobacco farmers to spend the proceeds from their crop wisely.

August 17, 1949: North Carolina Baptists were awaiting delivery of a deed to Fort Caswell for a reported purchase price of $86,000. A lesser undertaking by a smaller Baptist group was the parsonage project being started at Soldier Bay. Still on the subject of church news, the steeple of the Southport Presbyterian Church had been struck by lightning.

Capt. Fred Willing had made fishing news that week with a 65-lb tarpon. This fish, coming immediately following a spectacular catch of a 122-pounder the week previously by Capt. Bill Styron, helped establish the fact that tarpon could be taken in this area by means of rod and reel. On the society page there was the picture of a new bride, Mrs. Percy Lee Pair, nee Miss Betty Todd Corlette. Our Not Exactly News editor was needing the prospective candidates for a local high school football team to get out and practice in light togs if they wanted to boost financial interest in their project; the advertising section spoke of the tobacco market and its $52.81 average; and there were other advertisements heralding the back to school items being pushed by Brunswick merchants.

Five years later and fishing news still was prominent on the front page of The Pilot. Four salfish had been brought in by Southport charter boatmen. There had been an official visit to Sunny Point by General Charles G. Halle, Division Engineer for the Corps of Engineers, Atlanta, Ga. Sunday movies made their debut at the Amuzu with "The Best Years Of Our Lives." Southport was getting a new business, a G. I. Surplus store.

The Rev. L. D. Hayman had written from Carolina Beach to announce that he had purchased the "Silver Spray" and would be ready to carry out fishing parties the following season. He spoke of plans for retirement from the N. C. Methodist Conference at the fall session. Thompson McRacken, displaced Walden Creek melon grower, reported a bumper crop over at Fort Caswell; an emergency appeal was being made for funds for support of National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis; and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Garrett had moved here from Aruba following his retirement from Standard Oil Co.

up to 156.4 millions against 133 millions in 1958.

The famed Dead Sea Scrolls owe their discovery to sheerest accident, the National Geographic Magazine says. In 1947 a Bedouin boy, searching for a stray goat in the desolate Wilderness of Judea, idly cast a stone into a small opening among the cliffs bordering the Dead Sea. He heard the shattering of pottery, investigated, and found several large earthen jars. In them were aged scrolls wrapped in foul-smelling linen. His discovery set off a concentrated search that yielded many priceless documents.
