Everyone seemed to be very pleased at the type of activity that went on during the holidays. Parties and movies seemed to occupy the spotlight. Not many diamonds were displayed but other type of jewelry could be seen from 9th grade through 12th.

We would like to congratulate the senior class for their unselfish act performed prior to the Christmas holidays. Instead of the traditional party held in the classrooms the day before the holidays they took their money and bought their advisor, Mrs. Hankins, a beautiful white skirt from the
