Pedestrians To Get Checked By Highway Patrol

Cpl. O. H. Lynch Warns That Pedestrian Safety Week Will Be Observed October 9-15

There wil be a new type of traffic violator in conrt next week and the week following.

He'll feel a litle foolish there because he or she will have been on cause he or she wil havebeen on foot and not on wheels.

But, says Cpl. O. H. Lynch, these people will be there because they will have been walking the highways in such a manner that will lead to collisions, to injury, to death.

Beginning Monday and running If the pedestrian is an adult they'll receive citations for breaking the state pedestrian laws.

The law requires that pedestrians walk facing the side of the is people walk on the side of the road where the cars appoaching are cloest.

And the law also requires that when cars approach, if the pedestrians is walking on the side of the roadway itself, he must get off and give right-of-way to the

TIME and TIDE

October 9, 1935, and a front page headline told of the conviction of Dillon Jenrette for second degree murder and of his sentence by Judge Clawson Williams, to serve 20-30 years. The Southport plant of the North Carolina Fisheries, Inc., had been opened with the late Chas. E. Gause as manager. And a front page feature told of the place in history that had been earned by Fort Caswell

Twenty-five years ago this week the editor wrote that it would would be a good thing to have a fire escape leading from the courtroom; home economics and public school music had been included in the curriculum of Southport High School after an absence of several years; and application had been made for a truck franchise to supplement the freight-hauling efforts of the W.B.&S. from Southport to Wilmington.

The late H. M. Shannon had been named chairman of the Local Draft Board. That action was reported in our issue of October 9, 1940. Another front page story told of the appointment of J. J. Hawes as chairman of the Brunswick County Board of Elections. Proof positive that this was the political season was summed up in the announcement that a Four-County Democratic Rally would be held in Whiteville later in the month.

A Brunswick county man had shot and killed a $350 mule while trying to kill a chicken with a rifle; Mrs. Maxine Fulcher had been hostess at a birthday party for her son, Phillip Agnew, on his 7th birthday; and 21 Brunswick county young men had enlisted in the U.S. Army.
