BEN McDONALD Reports

Automation, automatic machinery operation that either replaces human beings or cuts down on the number of workers, is costing about 38,000 jobs a year in North Carolina. That's what is meant by the expression, "North Carolina must run like mad to stand still" as more and more industrial potentials are explored. As a result of automation, 20,000 jobs disappear yearly in farming, just to mention one phase of employment. St. Andrews Presbyterian College, Laurinburg, the consolidated Presbyterian college, is named for the patron saint of Scotland and a form of his, "Sandy", came to be the nickname for all Scotchmen. Versatile Myron Tupper, fieldman for North Carolina Pulp Company, and a MSgt in the National Guard, has a miniature paper making machine (make the finished product from pulp) which he will demonstrate before any school group-contact him in Whiteville. Robin Williamson, of Conway, S. C., has won more beauty contests than any other girl in the world—39 firsts. N. C. State Highway Patrol Sgt. A. H. Clark's avocation is his Blanden county farm. . . . And that's the thirty mark for this week.
