Shallotte Hosts District Meeting Of B&PW Clubs

Women Of District 8 Attend Meeting Held At Sunset Beach Restaurant

The Shallotte Business and Professional Woman's Club played hostess for the District 8 Fall Meeting, September 10, at the Sunset Terrace Restaurant at Sunset Beach.

Forty-four members and guests were registered by the local club president, Miss Ruth Galloway, and each lady was presented a lovely rose corsage, compliments of Shallotte Florist. Mrs. Stella Spencer, special guest, was presented a beautiful mum corsage.

The program was opened with the invocation, given by Mrs. Althea Canady of the Wilmington Club. Miss Galloway, representing the local club, gave the welcome address and in return, Mrs. Beth Batten of Whiteville gave the response.

The ladies were entertained with special music by Miss Rachel Robbins of Supply. After the solo by Miss Robbins, a delicious seafood dinner was enjoyed by all.

Following lunch came the business on the program, led by Mrs. Johnnie Schuler, the district director from Rockingham, and Mrs. Stella Spencer, the state president, from Lenoir. Programming and business for the coming year was discussed.

The meeting was adjourned and a social hour was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Eva Gray, of the Shallotte club presided over a table of delicious punch and cookies.

Each lady left expressing her enjoyment of the meeting and her appreciation for the many souvenirs donated by the local firms.

Dr. M. H. Rourk In Heart Post

Shallotte Physician Accepts Appointment As Medical Representative For Brunswick County Heart Council

Dr. M. H. Rourk of Shallotte has accepted the responsibility of acting as Medical Representative for the Brunswick Heart Council, it was announced this week.

Dr. Rourk, in taking the post is joining many of the nation's leading heart specialists and physicians now working closely with the heart program.

In accepting his volunteer post, Dr. Rourk pointed out that through the North Carolina Heart Association, an affiliate of American Heart, he can provide members of local health professions with research reports and other medical materials designed to help diagnose and treat the cardiovascular diseases. Physicians may also receive printed information to give their heart patients.

"These booklets," Dr. Rourk said, "deal in simple terms with various heart and blood vessel diseases and are written to reassure the patient and help him cooperate with his physician for his own improvement."

Telephone Coop Meeting Planned

Fourth Annual Meeting To Be Held September 28th At Shallotte High School Auditorium

The fourth annual meeting of the members of the Atlantic Telephone Corporation will be held in the auditorium of Shallotte High School at 8 o'clock next Thursday night, September 28.

Fred L. Brown, manager of the corporation, said that he "hopes a substantial part of the 1,300 members attend the meet, where they will have the opportunity to elect seven directors, to listen to reports, and to participate in the transaction of any other business which might appear on the agenda."

The cooperative telephone corporation, presently serving the greater portion of Brunswick County has two exchanges the main plant at Shallotte and one situated at Bolivia. Officials recently awarded contract to T. L. Dyard and Sons, a Statesville concern, in the amount of nearly a quarter million dollars, for the addition and strengthening of lines strung by the cooperative.

The contract hinges upon the approval of the Rural Electrification Administration.

A third exchange, at Longwood in the southwestern part of the county, is being readied and is expected soon to be in operation. The Atlantic Telephone Membership Corporation, starting operations only a few years ago, almost as a desperation move to institute rural telephone service in one of North Carolina's most rural counties, has flourished.

According to Manager Brown, "This membership corporation is a good example of what can be accomplished when a group of de-

State Industrial Education Folks Meet At Beach

Assistant Directors Of N.C. Industrial Education Centers In Yaupon Beach Meeting

A statewide conference of Associate Directors of North Carolina Industrial Education Centers was held Sunday through Tuesday noon at Yaupon Beach. This was a quarterly meeting and was attended by 22 of these men, who were accompanied here by their wives.

Charles D. Bates, State Superintendent of Industrial Education, was in charge and also present for the meeting was Paul Weatherly, Assistant State Superintendent of Industrial Education. The latter is well-known in Brunswick county, having formerly been a member of the faculty at Shallotte High School.

One of the most interesting side-trips during this meeting was a Monday afternoon visit to the Marineology Department at Southport High School. Here they heard instructor Thomas C. Bowmer explain the objectives of his course and had an opportunity to inspect the classroom and shop.

The visitors were intrigued by this pioneering effort in industrial education, and asked many questions regarding the interest and progress. Several of them declared that they were favorably impressed with the local teaching effort in this field.

Two consultants at this meeting, at which program planning was the prime consideration, was Dr. Durwyn Hard, professor of Industrial Education at N. C. State, and Anthony J. Bouvacqua, coordinator of the materials labrator.

A feeling of great relief came over the town last night shortly after 9 o'clock when Mrs. C. Ed Taylor, local observer for the U. S. Weather Bureau received a telephone call from the Wilmington station saying that gale warnings could come down from the local display tower and that all danger to this area from Hurricane Esther had passed.

A few minutes later this word was flashed from Wilmington television and radio stations, and Brunswick county residents were able to come off their hurricane watch and to go to bed in peace.

For three days the citizens of Southport had been listening to the grim warning: "Esther is a very dangerous storm, with winds to 150-mph and gusts up to 200 . . . last located so many miles from Savannah and headed in a northeasterly direction which should bring it in to shore somewhere along the North Carolina Coast . . ." They had wondered if the first shore onslaught would be expended at and near Southport, and what would be left of human endeavor along the Cape of Fear.

In little knots, shrimpers and commercial fishermen conversed of former storms rode out in years gone by, and there were those who shook their heads and after a bit of mental arithmetic, dolefully prophesized that Esther might come in at high tide and wash everything away. One old-timer was overheard to blame it all on the splitting and the fusion of the atom. "In my honest time,"

New Lake Honors Governor Sanford

Congressman Alton A. Lennon Principal Speaker At Boiling Springs Dedication Program Sunday

A crowd estimated at from 2,500 to 3,000 persons was on hand Sunday afternoon to hear Congressman Alton A. Lennon dedicate the newly constructed dam at Boiling Spring Lake and name it the Terry Sanford Dam, in honor of the Governor of North Carolina.

Representing the governor was Ernest E. Parker, Jr., of Southport, who is a member of the Board of Conservation and Development. He expressed regrets on behalf of the governor that he was unable to be present for this occasion, and Parker assured the developers of Boiling Spring Lakes that Governor Sanford will visit the site at his earliest possible convenience to see the dam which was named in his honor.

Viewing for interest in the Sunday afternoon proceedings was a colorful ski show, staged by members of the Charleston Ski Club and the Southport Ski Club; and a real, live elephant, Suzy Q, who held a magic attraction for the youngsters in the vast throng of people who literally covered the embankment of the dam and many points of vantage about this beautiful man-made lake.

James M. Harper, Jr., served as master of ceremonies for the occasion, and following the invocation called upon J. Drayton Hastie, president of Boiling Spring Lakes, Inc., for a welcome. He gave a brief summary of efforts that have been made during the past year to create a big, attractive residential development; and he outlined plans for the future. These include the construction of an 18-hole golf course, site of which already has been designated and donated by the corporation.

Frederick Willetts, Sr., was next introduced. He is vice-president of Boiling Spring Lakes, Inc., a member of the board of directors and also a member of the board of directors for Reaves Broadcasting Corporation. He pointed out some of the accomplishments of the development during its early stages, and painted a rosy picture for the future. He then introduced a number of distinguished visitors from Wilmington, including Mayor O. O. Alsbrook and Mrs. Hannah Block, mayor pro-tem.

The master of ceremonies then introduced a number of Brunswick county guests, most of them county and municipal officials.

James C. Bowman, former Brunswick county Representative to the N. C. General Assembly, introduced the speaker, Congressman Lennon. The congressman recalled that early efforts toward development in Brunswick had faced the impediments of lack of highways, lack of electric current and lack of communications.

"These all have been licked," he said, "for today we have a splendid network of highways throughout this county. REA provides electricity for homes and businesses in every section; and the residents of Brunswick are enjoying the services of their co-

Superior Court Adjourns Early Due To Storm

Trial Of Leland Robbery Case Continued Again Due To Alleged Illness Of One Defendant

A one-week criminal term of Brunswick County Superior Court was adjourned in early afternoon on Tuesday with over fifty percent of scheduled cases in a heavy docket tried, well in advance of a threatened hurricane.

The case of John Whaley, Virgil Sanderson and Troy Brown, charged with the armed robbery of a service station near Leland during last December, was continued until the January term of Superior Court, due to one of the defendants, Sanderson, being a patient at a Wilmington hospital following a reported emergency operation for ruptured appendix.

The case had aroused great interest in the county and undoubtedly contributed to the overflow crowds of spectators which had thronged the courtroom during Monday and Tuesday sessions. As it now shapes up, the trio will not be tried until more than a year has elapsed since the crime with which they are charged.

The following cases were disposed of in the abbreviated term: Carl M. Barefoot, charged with robbery, entered a plea of forcible trespass and was fined $50 and costs.

Charlie F. Bell, charged with drunken driving was found guilty of careless and reckless operation and was fined $50 and costs.

Agnes Clemmons, charged with fornication and adultery and second count of vagrancy, received a nol pro on both charges.

George E. Lovette, charged with robbery, received court-directed verdict of not guilty.

E. L. Lovette, charged with two separate counts of fornication and adultery and vagrancy was found guilty and fined $50 and costs.

George E. Lovett and William R. Lovett, charged with public drunkenness, were both fined $25 and costs.

Roland E. Lerschall, charged with reckless operation of a motor vehicle, was found guilty of driving too fast for road conditions and paid $25 and the costs.

Ance Nelson drew a nol pro on a whiskey charge.

The case against Dalton R. Norton, charged with manslaughter as a result of an automobile wreck, was continued.

Frank Prevatte was found not guilty of public drunkenness.

Gertrude Richardson, charged with vagrancy and fornication and adultery, drew a nol pro on both counts.

Hilton Robinson, charged with robbery, was found guilty of forcible trespass and fined $50 and costs.

The case of James H. Bernard, charged with breaking and entering and larceny and receiving, was continued.

The case of Roland Brinston, charged with assault with deadly weapon with intent to kill, was continued.

Earl Lee Clemmons was found guilty of drunk driving and fined $100 and costs.

The grand jury returned no true bill against Harlee Hewett, charged with speeding.

Continue Plans For Mass X-Ray In This County

Free Chest X-Rays Will Be Available In Attempt To Control Tuberculosis In Brunswick

In the first complete mass X-ray survey to be held in Brunswick County since 1950, some 60 percent of all citizens over 15 years of age are expected to benefit.

At a meeting held in Southport last Friday, representatives of the three cooperating sponsors, the State Health Department, the Brunswick County Health Department, and the Southport Woman's Club, ironed out the last kinks in the ambitious project, which gets underway in Southport on October 3.

Present at the meeting, were Dr. William Smith, head of the tuberculosis section of the State Board of Health, and A. G. Chiswell, technical advisor in charge of arrangements.

The survey will be conducted for 15 days and will reach into all sections of the county by mobile X-ray unit. The cooperating agencies, in an effort to reassure the public, released the following information:

The survey will be completely voluntary in character, and no one will be forced to participate. The X-ray takes will require only two minutes per exposure and do not necessitate removal of clothing; the pictures will reveal enlarged heart, spinal or rib deformities, as well as lung-shadows (t. b.); there will be no charge whatsoever. The X-ray films will be sent to Raleigh for development and reading, and people will be notified of the result within two or three weeks afterward.

Many of the statistics turned up in the survey planning are interesting. For example there are 13,000 persons 15 years of age and upward in Brunswick, and, at the rate of several hundred X-rays taken each day of the survey, it is hoped that approximately 60 percent of these will be X-rayed.

If the pictures reveal anything of suspicious nature, a larger X-ray can be taken at Shallotte or through a personal physician.

In 1950 and during the last mass X-ray survey, some 6,000 exposures were made in Brunswick County. Reading of these films revealed 41 cases of sus-

Register Protest In Farm Election

Brunswick Farmers Enter Protest Of Certain Irregularities Which They Charge Occurred

Formal complaints charging irregularities in the recently-held election of Community Committee-ASC 1962 farm program have been lodged with the ASC board at Shallotte.

Affidavits from five of the six precincts participating in the election, which incidentally resulted in a record vote turnout, were drawn up, signed, notarized and turned over to members of the Brunswick county bar, who agreed to represent the dissatisfied farmers without charge.

On Monday of this week the complaints were formally laid before the ASC board by Southport attorney E. J. Prevatte, representing the plaintiffs. Lonnie Evans, chairman of the board, promised that the charges will be investigated and that a hearing will be set.

The protests came from Waccamaw township, Smithville township, Shallotte township, Lockwoods Folly township, and Town Creek township. The only township involved in the election which has not as yet protested the procedures as practiced during the vote is Northwest.

The complaints, as outlined in the formal protests lodged, range from rewriting with two different types of pencil and opposite handwriting, to removal of ballots from the polling place without count, and their "transfer to secret and unknown designations."

Listed below are the new Committees, with the chairman shown first, followed by vice-chairman, regular member, 1st. alternate and 2nd alternate:

TIME and TIDE

The first special edition of The Pilot we ever attempted was the issue for September 23, 1936, and in it we made a conscious play for fall vacation visitors, believing then as now that this is one of the most delightful seasons in this area. One headline took satisfaction in the fact that a hurricane had bypassed Brunswick in its path to the mainland in another state. There was a feature story on the Cape Fear Pilots, with photos of the seven active members of the local association. Throughout the fourteen pages of this edition there were pictures of people and places of interest in the town. Scenes of fishing and of catches of fish predominated. There were ads, too; most of them proclaiming the fine natural attractions for vacationists and retirement living here in Brunswick.

Five years later, in our edition for September 24, 1941, there was another headline expressing relief that another hurricane had bypassed Brunswick. There had been a military atmosphere in the town during the past week, as soldiers from Fort Bragg were at the old CCC camp site on field maneuvers.

The nation was on daylight savings time, but on the following Sunday all clocks were to be moved back one hour. Homecoming services were scheduled for the following Sunday at Zion Methodist Church; a runaway barrage balloon had come to earth near Shallotte; and there had been other visits in the Southport harbor from British warships.

The headlines for the September 25 edition of The Pilot in the
