McLamb Leads In Race For Recorder; Changes Occur In Commissioners, Board Of Education

Ray H. Walton defeated S. Bunn Frink for the Democratic nomination for Senator from the 10th Senatorial District in the primary election Saturday and Odell Williamson won a clear majority in a three-man race for the Democratic nomination for House of Representatives.

In other contests, Sheriff E. V. Leonard won an easy victory over Milton J. Bowen for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff; Jack Brown defeated Elrich Hickman in a tight battle for the nomination for Clerk of Superior Court; and W. J. McLamb led a four-man field for the Democratic nomination for Judge of Recorder's Court.

In this latter race, there is a possibility of a second primary between McLamb and H. Mercer Johnson, who finished second.

Members of the Brunswick County Board of Elections were wrestling late last night with the knotty problem presented by the law governing nomination of five commissioners from six townships. They were agreed that Ira L. Chadwick was a nominee, representing Lockwoods Folly township; that the same was true of D. Bert Frink of Shalotte township, D. L. Ganey of Northwest and F. Herbert Swain of Smithville. The big problem came with the fifth nomination, which involved R. L. Rabon of Town Creek and Odell Jenrette of Waccamaw township.

Paradoxically, Rabon was sixth high man and Jenrette was seventh; but E. C. Blake, the fifth man in the voting county, was ousted when Swain was declared the winner by a 10-vote margin in Smithville. Rabon had 1722 votes to lead E. C. Mize in Town Creek, and one opinion shared by board members is that Rabon is the nominee, subject to a second primary call by Mize. Another opinion is that Rabon might be challenged for a second race by Jenrette, who polled 1678 votes.

There was no definite agreement reached Tuesday night before a recess was taken, and another session is slated for this afternoon.

Two old members of the Brunswick County Board of Education were upset in Saturday's voting, with one old member holding his seat. The losers were Roy Sellers of the Bolivia School District, who trailed Homer Holden in a three-man race. A second primary call is possible here, but Sellers has told Chairman H. Foster Mintz that he is not interested.

In Shalotte School District Chandler Rourk was defeated by O. K. Bellamy, but a third man in the race, Rozell Hewett, sets up the possibility for a second race.

Arthur J. Doshier won over Philip King in the Southport School District.

In the race for House of Representatives Williamson polled 2517 votes, followed by A. H. Ganey, Jr., with 1354 and O. W. Thorsen with 723.

In the race for sheriff Leonard polled 3259 to lead the ticket. Milton J. Bowen had 1314 votes. Brown had 2379 votes in the (Continued On Page 4)
