

Miss Betty Jo Darnell Is Bride Of Billy Ray Cheers

The wedding of Miss Betty Jo Darnell and Billy Ray Cheers took place in Bolivia at 3 p. m., June 23 at Bethel Methodist Church.

The Rev. Harry Jeanneret officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Eula Jeanneret, wife of the minister, and Mrs. Neta Stokes of Georgetown, S. C., were the organists.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Darnell of Bolivia. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cheers of Supply.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white lace over taffeta with a scalloped neckline, made by Miss Rebecca Burton of Bolivia. Her finger-tip veil fell from a crown of silk organza leaves entwined with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and a white orchid with satin streamers.

The maid of honor, Miss Sandra Holden, of Supply wore a dress of blue taffeta with a pink chiffon overskirt and matching headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations with pink and blue satin streamers.

The bridesmaids and junior bridesmaids, dressed identically as the honor attendant, were Miss Iris Salter of Sea Level, Miss Gail Hewett of Supply, Miss Linda Darnell, sister of the bride, Miss Kim Nowell of Henderson and Miss Neva Carol Nance of Columbia, S. C. Tina Nance of Columbia, S. C., and Randy Rem of Henderson served as flower girl and ring bearer.

Jack Cheers served as his brother's best man. Ushers were H. T. Hale of Henderson, Hamp Faulk of Charleston, S. C., and Jimmy Darnell of Bolivia.

A reception was held in the social hall of the church where Mrs. J. B. Newell, Mrs. Charles Renn, Mrs. Helen Hale, all of Henderson and Mrs. R. H. Faulk of Charleston, S. C. officiated at the punch bowl and in serving the cake.

The couple will live at 518 Carolina Avenue in Norfolk, Virginia, where Mr. Cheers is stationed with the U. S. Navy.

Elvis Has Come Far During The Last Half-Dozen Years

Six years ago the No. 1 record favorite was a newcomer named Elvis Presley, and his first million-seller record, "Heartbreak Hotel", had finally ended its long run.

Six years ago this very month he recorded the record that would sky-rocket him to fame, "Hound Dog" and "Don't Be Cruel".

The motion picture companies wanted Elvis quick. They made "Love Me Tender" and released it in November, 1956. All along Hal Wallis was taking more time making "Loving You". This was released in August, 1957. Most people considered this his best picture. It had technical and a very good supporting cast.

Though Elvis was a singer, his great ambition was to become an actor. In his next two pictures "Jailhouse Rock" (released November, 1957) and "King Creole" (released July, 1958) his acting improvement could be noted.

Shortly before "King Creole" was released, Elvis entered the army and about a year later his fans were seeing a double feature reissue of "Loving You" and "King Creole". All this time his records were still keeping him the No. 1 man in music. As a welcome home, M. G. M. reissued "Jailhouse Rock". Elvis' popularity had slipped a little while he was in the army because rock'n'roll was on its way out.

In November, 1960, he came back strong in "G. I. Blues" which was appropriate because of his recent army release. In December of the same year "Flaming Star" was released. This is considered his worst picture. Actually it was a good western, but it wasn't a musical as his others had been. "Wild In The Country" was the same way, and he proved that he was a good actor. This was released in June, 1961.

It was November, 1961, and Elvis was back again in another Hal Wallis production. This time it was "Blue Hawaii". Wallis had previously made "Loving You", "King Creole" and "G. I. Blues".

In May, 1962, Elvis was in "Follow That Dream". In this he was a successful comedian, having engaged in a bit of comedy in "G. I. Blues".

Elvis will be seen in "Kid Galahad", "Mister Will You Marry Me" and Hal Wallis' "Girls, Girls, Girls".

VISITS PARENTS
Yeoman 1C Billy Williams and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Henry Williams during the Fourth of July holiday. He is stationed at Jacksonville, Fla., at the Naval Air Station.

"G. I. Blues" and "Blue Hawaii" are his most song-filled, colorful and enjoyable movies. They can be seen Friday and Saturday, July 27-28, at the Amuzu Theatre in Southport. This is probably the last chance to see them because they are going out of release in August.
