Plans Continue For Vet Reunion To Be Held Here

Wilmington Light Infantry Will Combine Forces With Trench Mortar Battalion September 20-22

Members of The Reserve Corps of the Wilmington Light Infantry, the majority of whom trained at Fort Caswell for overseas duty during World War I, together with groups of World War I veterans who were in Trench Mortar and Anti-Aircraft Batteries that were formed there, will hold a reunion next week at the Fort and at Southport.

Arrangements for the Fort Caswell reunion are being made by various committees, headed by Chairman G. Pearl McKeithan, J. Kyle Bannerman, George Sloan, Jr., R. Oscar Grant, Marvin B. Register, L. S. (Stuck) Everett, George Sloan, Jr., and Cutlar Moore and others.

Co-Chairman James Hall Holmes reported that the WLI reunion group will join veterans of Batteries "B" and "C," 2nd Trench Mortar Battalion, which have arranged to hold reunion meetings at Caswell and at Southport, September 20-22.

Holmes reported that Co-Chairman McKeithan had received letters from Roy B. Parks, R-D-1, Park Lane, Carbondale, Illinois, who is in charge of the Trench Mortar men planning on attending the reunion.

Parks wrote McKeithan that Clyde S. Trester, Chairman of the Trench Mortar men, had yearned to go to Caswell for this 1963 reunion, but he died in a Veterans Hospital in Chicago, so Parks assumed the chairmanship of the group.

Details of the programs for the various reunion groups will be released next week, McKeithan reported, but tentative plans call for a luncheon to be served by the Ladies Auxiliaries in Franklin Grove in Southport Saturday at noon.

Sales Time Cut This Week For Tobacco Market

Unprecedented Action Is Taken To Give Relief To Over-Taxed Redrying Plant Facilities

Tobacco sales time will be cut from five and one-half to four hours beginning Wednesday on the Border, Middle and East tobacco belts.

The selling time will be cut Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Monday of next week.

The Bright Belt Warehouse Advisory committee meeting in Raleigh yesterday at the request of the Imperial Tobacco company of Richmond, Va., and a leading buyer for the foreign markets recommended to the association sales committee that the shorter hours be adopted. The recommendation was adopted.

Imperial made a plea Saturday for relief saying their re-drying facilities are tied up and that one of two things had to be done to offer them relief. . . cut down on their leaf buying or cut selling time and give their factories a chance to catch up.

Members of the advisory committee from Columbus county are Clyde Wayne of Brunswick, farmer representative and Roscoe Coleman of Tabor City, warehouse representative. Both men attended the called Sunday afternoon session.

During the discussion it was brought out that Imperial has been buying about 10 per cent of sales on county markets for the past eight days. Apparently the "block" is coming from the Eastern Belt where Imperial is buying about one-third of the sales.

The unprecedented action, in that this is the first time sales have been curtailed by the request of one buying company, will impose a hardship on farmers and warehousemen in this area. Warehousemen on local markets have full sales scheduled through the rest of this week. The hours cut-back will

Thomasboro Man Tuesday Victim Of Hit And Run

Ralph Marlowe Dies In Hospital Following Fatal Accident On U. S. 17 Early Tuesday Morning

Brunswick county's fifth traffic fatality occurred early Tuesday morning when an automobile ran off U. S. 17 in Thomasboro and killed a Negro man who was walking beside the road.

Ralph Marlowe, who is in his late 40's, died in Doshier Memorial Hospital in Southport early Tuesday morning after being hit by a 1963 Chevrolet, reportedly driven by Ernest Casey Kelly, 45, who did not stop.

Kelly, who is charged with hit and run driving that resulted in death, is being held in Brunswick County jail in Southport under a $15,000 bond. A preliminary hearing will be held in Recorder's court in Southport on September 23.

According to Patrolman J. W. Lashley of the Wilmington office, Marlowe was walking from North to South facing traffic at 7:15 a. m. when Kelly ran off the side of U. S. 17 approximately 1,000 yards from the Thomasboro intersection. Marlowe's leg was torn off at his hip and knocked about 200 feet down the highway.

Kelly continued on his trip to Wilmington without stopping. "I thought I hit a dog or cat," Kelly said. "My God, I wouldn't hit a human being and keep on going. I'm not that kind of man!"

An unidentified person called the Highway Patrol office in Wilmington and Patrolman Lashley, who was in the area, was called to the scene.

In the meanwhile, Marlowe, the father of nine children, was taken to the Southport hospital where he died before 9 a. m. He had just returned to work after being badly burnt during a fire aboard a boat in Southport last year.

During the investigation of the accident Patrolman Lashley received a call describing Kelly's car. He also found out that Kelly's car had run off the road several times before the accident.

A roadblock was established with the aid of the Brunswick County Sheriff's Department and Kelly was apprehended by Patrolman Lashley at the intersection of U. S. 17 and 74-78 near Wilmington before 10 a. m. Tuesday morning. Kelly, a textile salesman who

ASC Ballots Due Back September 13

Brunswick County Farmers Urged To Complete Slate Of Officers And Return To ASC Office

All Brunswick county farmers voting in the ASC Community Committee elections must return their ballots by Friday, according to Manager Ralph Price of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service in Shallotte.

The ballots were mailed to Brunswick county farmers on September 3 and must be returned to the Shallotte office or postmarked by Friday.

"The importance for each county farmer casting his ballot in the election can not be overemphasized," Manager Price said. "These farmer-elected committees play a very vital role in the local administration of all ASCS programs. The farmer committee system has been in effect for 30 years. Through these 30 years it has been found to be the most effective method of administering farm programs."

Manager Price said further that the local community committees are the real key to the success of all programs. Election of the best men possible for these positions is very important.

Jaycees Calling Another Meeting

County-Wide Session At Bolivia Will Be Held To Consider Plans For Industry Hunt Effort

An organizational and planning meeting involving the four Jaycee chapters in Brunswick county will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at Bolivia High School to discuss industrial development, according to Chairman W. A. Powell.

A call to establish a county-wide industry-hunting organization in Brunswick county was issued at a meeting of the Bolivia, Leland, Shallotte and Southport Jaycees in August. Both Ted Davis and W. W. Barnes, officials of the State's Division of Commerce and Industry said the reason the county is lagging behind the rest of the state in industrial development is the lack of an organization.

Both men recommended forming a new county-wide group to help lure new industry to Brunswick county. "A local development organization is essential in finding industry and it should be county-wide to have more people involved," Barnes stated. Davis said the reason Brunswick County has added only one industry since 1954 is because there is no development group here. "You have not been working full time for industry in Brunswick county," he said.

After the meeting, the four Jaycee chapters agreed to hold separate meetings to discuss plans to finance a development group. In order to hold a special election to finance a development organization a petition signed by 500 persons would have to be presented to the board of commissioners. They would then call an election of the matter. If approved by the

Referendum Is Set November 19

"Nickels For Know-How" Gives Farmers Chance To Approve Participation In Research

The County Referendum Committee for the Nickels For Know-How Program met at the Extension Service Office last Thursday to set up polling places and make plans for getting the program before the people of the county, reports A. S. Knowles, Acting County Extension Chairman.

The County Referendum Committee is composed of Paul Brown, Chairman, George Skipper in Northwest Township; Homer Holden and Roy Swain, Town Creek Township; L. P. Richardson, Smithville Township; Ira Chadwick, Lockwood Folly Township; James Bellamy, Shallotte Township; and J. W. Stanley, Waccamaw Township.

The referendum will be held on November 19. Every person that buys feed or fertilizer will be eligible to vote. The Nickel For Know-How Program has been operating in North Carolina for 12 years. It is said by Agricultural leaders to be the most effective program ever started for keeping agricultural research, extension, and teaching out front in North Carolina. Each ton of feed or fertilizer purchased adds another nickel to this promotion fund. L. Y. Ballentine, Chairman of the State Committee, says the program had a lot to do with keeping North Carolina farm income up during the last 10 years when most states experienced a decline.

Polling places set up by the County Referendum Committee for convenient voting of eligible persons are: Midway Service Station between Supply and Southport, G. W. Kirby and Sons of Supply and ASCS Office in Shallotte, Washam, Warlick and Harelson Company Store in Shallotte, J. S. Parker and Son Store at Grissetown, Wards Store in Longwood, Lonnie Evans Store at Ash, Pearl Vereen's Store at Exum, D. H. Hawes & Sons Store at Bolivia, A. P.
