For Exercises Walker To Resign Long Beach Post

Dan L. Walker, who has served for the past four years as town manager at Long Beach, has advised Mayor E. F. Middleton that he will submit his resignation at the next meeting of the town council on November 19. He also requests the mayor to arrange to have an auditor check him out at that time.

The concluding paragraph of Walker's letter follows:

"The past four years have been full ones for all of us due to the phenomenal growth of the Town. Time and hindsight, I am sure, will uncover fields in which we could have improved. I am also more confident that the future will show that we have laid or planned a foundation upon which solid healthy growth may be built. My activities during these four years have been challenging and have been enjoyable and well worth the sometime trying and exhausting efforts."

The board of commissioners appointed a committee of two to work with the Long Beach Volunteer Fire Department in planning a fund-raising drive.

Funds raised by the fire department will be used to buy a site and materials for a new fire house, according to Fire Chief Nick Coleman. He said members of the department would supply labor at no charge.

Appointed to the commissioner's committee were the two resident commissioners on the board, W. W. Vennel and E. W.

The board also heard from a group of builders regarding the lack of a building code tailored to Long Beach. Clay Jordan, Long Beach superintendent of Public Works and Town Building inspecto, reported on a meeting of local builders. Jordan said the builders want a firm and specific building code, and they want it

W. B. Mintz of Freeland has been named Brunswick County Chairman of the Rural Americans of Johnson-Humphrey. This is a nationwide, non-partisan, educational effort headed by Robert W. Scott, Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor, to inform rural people about what the two presidential candidates have to say about the farm program. Upon being named Brunswick County Chairman, Mintz said. "Every farmer and small-town business man who is dependent upon agriculture for his livelihood should study the issues and what the candidates have to say about them. In my opinoon," continued Mintz, "there should be no question as to which candidate would be the choice of the farmer if he will look at their voting record and read what they have to say concerning agriculture.' Mintz added that the Rural Americans for Johnson-Humphrey effort was being waged in the interest of farm and farm-related businesses,

"We have been losing our freedom in America because we think we can vote for economic security instead of working for it", Morehead Stack, co-chairman of the Goldwater for President district committee told some 127 residents at the supper-rally. "We denounce government give-a-ways when the other fellow gets it, but not when it comes our way", he declared. "The American people have had a misplaced faith in governmental power and it has grown, expanded and centralized. We have forgotten that any government powerful enough to give away can also take away".

Stack said he was a strong supporter of Senator Barry Goldwater, Republican candidate for to a high school diploma. Classes in academic areas are a part of the expanded adult education program. The particular type course to be discussed next Wednesday is of seventy-two hours in length and is designed primarily for persons who dropped out of high school in the tenth or eleventh grades. The only age requirement is that students must over 18 years of age. Exceptions may be made in the case of students under 18 whose classes have graduated from high school.

There is no maximum age limit. The course consists of instruction in the areas of math, English, science, and social studies. Upon completion of 72 clock hours of review in these areas the students are advised by their instructor as to whether they are ready to be tested for the diploma. Experience has revealed that 60 percent of the students have received sufficient review

Adult classes in academic areas are part of the expanded adult education program which in Brunswick county is co-sponsored by the Board of Education and the Cape Fear Technical Institute.

Academic courses are of three types: (1) those designed to give nstruction in basis reading and writing, (2) those dealing with a review of elementary school curriculum, (3) those leading to a high school diploma. Although the meeting on October 28 will be primarily concerned with the third level, persons interested in either of the other levels are welcomed

Adult Education courses in vocational subjects are still available. Last year classes were conducted in many areas including welding, electrical house wiring, small engine repair, bookkeeping, navigation, and diesel machinics. Persons interested in this type of training should contact Assistant Supertendent of Schools W. N. Williams at the Board of Education Office in Southport. The primary requirement for organizing s is that at least ten adults be interested in taking a particular course.

Members of the Board of County Commissioners met in special session here this afternoon and rejected the only bid received on the Brunswick County Boarding Home when that property was offered for sale at public auction today (Wednesday) at noon.

The commissioners voted to take the property off the market. A. V. Phelps, Jr., of Leland was the only bidder. His bid was $10,000.

The sale was conducted by County Attorney S. B. Frink, who gave as his opinion that the clause providing that the property must continue in use as a boarding home is valid. About 30 persons attended the auction, including three members of the present board of county

Shiloh Church was organized in the year 1900. Serving as the first trustees of the Church were the late G. W. Benton, J. W. Mintz, and A. S. Benton. The first pastor was the late Rev. J. T. (Tom) Browning. Since most of the building was done locally by the men of the community, it was necessary to hold Services in the community school house which was located approximately one mile from the present site. It took almost 2 years to complete the church. Services were held for the first time in the church on the 2nd Sunday in June of the year 1902. At the time the church was organized, there were ten members, Today the membership is 72. A new educational building to serve the growing needs of the community was completed in

Art Treasures From Southport Go On Exhibit

St. John's Art Gallery opened its 1964-65 season with an exhibition, "Treasures of Southeastern North Carolina," a collection of over 150 privately owned pieces from homes in the counties of Brunswick, Duplin, Columbus, New Hanover, Onslow, Pender and Robeson. The exhibition includes paintings, sculpture, furniture and decorative objects.

Paintings and sculpture range from the early Flemish and Italian to the contemporary. Furniture in the collection includes fine examples of English, French and Early American tables, desks, lowboys and chairs. Among the decorative items are a 13th century Chinese Budda, 17 pieces of 18th century pewter and a Dresden coffee service. Other sculpture by Epstein in-

Beach Grass Is Now Available

A beach grass, that has proven quite effective in stopping erosion is being grown and offered for sale by the Division of Forestry of the State Department of Conservation and Development. Known as American Beach

Grass, it has been used rather extensively on the New Jersey coast for control of wind and water erosion, according to Phillip A. Griffiths, Assistant State Forester in charge of Forest Management and Nurseries for the C & D Department.

Griffiths said that the grass has proven so effective in experimental plantings last year on the North Carolina coast that the Division of Forestry stepped up its production of this grass for the next planting season this fall and

Orders for American Beach Grass, which costs $7.50 per 1,000 FOB the State Nursery at Clayton, can be placed through the office of the County Forester or from the County Farm Agents office in Brunswick County.
