Award At State Fair

AWARD AT FAIR—Brunswick county 4-H'ers are a mighty happy group with the $225 meritorious award given their exhibit at North Carolina State Fair this year. Their beach erosion control exhibit was one of 18 chosen to show in competition at the Fair. Complete with sound effects, it was one of the hits of the show.

TB Testing In Brunswick On New Program

Brunswick County Health Department this week received supplies for a tuberculin testing program in the schools throughout the county.

The Health Department plans to test first and ninth graders as is advised by the U. S. Public Health Service. Purpose of the test is to find those children who have been in contact with an active case of tuberculosis and who have been infected with the tuberculosis germ.

Particularly in the first grades, a child's environment has been limited to family and close neighborhood friends, so that a positive reaction to the tuberculin test leads to finding the person with active tuberculosis among that limited number of persons.

Any child with a positive reaction to the test will be given further tests and a chest x-ray and all immediate family and close friends called in for x-ray and testing.

The test to be used in the schools is called the "TINE" test and consists of a small unit, one to each child, which is completely harmless and does not hurt. It is useful in a screening program, since it can be given in the classroom, requiring no more than 15 minutes per class and disrupting the class schedule very little.

In addition to the test itself, the SENC Association has finished a leaflet and letter for each child to take home to his parents explaining the purposes and routine of the test and a handbook and letter to each teacher and principal involved in the testing.

The Board of Education in Brunswick County considers the tests of enough importance that they have asked that the home economics students be included, with the Board paying for those tests.

Separately, the counties in southeastern North Carolina would find the TINE test too expensive to be used. Together (Continued On Page Four)

Board Gives Approval For Action Plans

The Brunswick County Commissioners were given a briefing on Monday, by Brig. Gen. James Glore, vice-chairman of the Brunswick County Community Action.

The Brunswick county organization was not accepted by the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington for the policy reason that the population was too small to operate at an efficient administrative expense ratio.

Effort was then directed toward organizing a tri-county group to improve the condition and SENC-LAND COMMUNITY ACTION came into being which includes the counties of Bladen, Brunswick and Columbus. Considerable effort has been expended upon the new organization and it is now at the stage of electing officers; completing the project application for Program Development Funds and adoption of articles of incorporation and by-laws. All these are sufficiently progressed to believe that the completed effort can be taken to the OEO in Washington by approximately November 10.

As a result of the briefing the board of commissioners unanimously declared their support of the project and approved the proposal which was submitted to OEO.

Project Gets Good Report

Lt. Colonel Beverly C. Snow, Jr., District Engineer, Wilmington Army Engineer District, announced this week that as a result of a recently completed survey by his office he had recommended to higher authority a modification of the Atlantic Intra-coastal Waterway existing project to provide for Federal maintenance of the access channels to the State-provided Small-Boat Harbor at Southport. Major General George H. Walker, South Atlantic Division Engineer has concurred in Colonel Snow's recommendation. In accordance with the law the report is being referred for review to the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors in Washington, D. C.

The survey was authorized by a resolution adopted 16 July, 1958, by the Committee on Public Works of the United States House of Representatives, concerning which a public hearing was held at Southport on March 30, 1962. In the investigation for the survey report the reporting officers found that additional harbor area and a small-boat harbor were needed. However, while the investigation was in progress the State of North Carolina, under authority provided to the North Carolina State Ports Authority, constructed a small-boat harbor at Southport which provides for existing and reasonable prospective watercraft navigation in this coastal area. Federal maintenance of the access channels to the small boat harbor project could be justified economically by benefits estimated to be about $15,500 annually. The benefit to cost ratio would be 7.7 to 1.0.

The general navigation project of the State-provided small-boat harbor would include an entrance channel, 150 feet wide and 400 feet long; an eastern harbor-access channel, 70 feet wide and 430 feet long; a western harbor-access channel, 60 feet wide and 185 feet long. (Continued On Page Four)

Mrs. Glore To Head District Teacher Group

Mrs. James Glore, of the Southport High School faculty, was elected Southeastern District President of the Classroom Teachers Division of the North Carolina Education Association at their meeting in Fayetteville last week. The Southeastern District is comprised of ten counties. Mrs. Glore has been a teacher in the Southport school for the past six years. She holds a BS degree from Indiana State Teachers College and a MS degree from Ohio University. She has done additional graduate work at the American University and Indiana State University. She has served as a Worker Analyst and a Personnel Officer with the U. S. government. Mrs. Glore is a member of several honorary organizations. (Continued On Page Four)

Williams Named To Head Schools

W. N. WILLIAMS

William N. Williams, assistant superintendent for the past two years, was named Monday to the post of superintendent of Brunswick County Schools. Action by the Brunswick County Board of Education was by unanimous action.

Named to fill the vacancy as assistant superintendent was Ralph King, teacher of vocational agriculture since 1956.

Williams, who also served for two years as principal at Southport High School, is a native of Columbus county. Prior to coming to Brunswick he was principal for four years at Guide-way School. He is a graduate of Wake Forest College where he majored in English. He received his masters degree from University of North Carolina with a major in Secondary Education and Public School Administration.

He is married to the former Monnie Long of Columbus county and they have two daughters. They lived in Southport for two years prior to moving into their home at Twin Lakes, near Sunset Beach.

King is a graduate of N. C. State and also has his master's degree. He is a native of Brunswick county, the son of the late Elroy King, a former member of the board of county commissioners.

In other action by the board Monday they met with the county commissioners to discuss financial problems.

They also approved the sale of two automobiles formerly used in the driver education program and offered at public auction Monday. One went to Clifton Wilson for $1,630, the other to Percy R. Hewitt for $1,725.

At their last regular meeting the board of education went on record favoring the Road Bond Issue.

Homecoming To Be Observed

The New Hope Presbyterian Church of Winnabow, will hold its annual homecoming on Sunday. The schedule of services is as follows: Sunday School at 10 a. m.; Morning worship at 11 a. m.; dinner on the grounds at 12:30 p. m.; service of song and fellowship at 2 p. m.; memorial service for deceased members and friends of the church at 2:30 p. m.

The morning service will be conducted by the Rev. Robert R. Childs, Jr., and the sermon will be by the Rev. James B. Tubbs. The Rev. Thomas McKay, pastor of Zion Methodist Church of Town Creek, will preach the sermon for the memorial service.

The public is cordially invited.

Varied Program For Halloween

There will be ghosts and goblins at Southport's annual Halloween carnival on Friday, October 29, with the Southport Parent-Teacher Association as sponsor.

The carnival will be open from 2:30 to 3:15 for bus children, but the real festivities will start about dark.

The carnival will be preceded by a fish supper in the school lunch room beginning at 5 o'clock. After the supper the kids will crown their King and Queen. The crowning and the costume parade to take place in the auditorium at 7 o'clock.

As soon as the parade is over the gym will open and booths this year will consist of the following:

Sunny Point Draws Visitors

Rear Admiral E. W. Sutherland, Deputy Commander, Military Traffic Management, and Terminal Service, this past week paid a visit to the Military Ocean Terminal, Sunny Point.

Accompanying the Admiral was Colonel R. T. Looper, Director of Terminals, MTMTS. Upon his arrival in Wilmington, the Admiral was met at the airport by Mayor O. O. Aillsbrook and presented a Key to the City.

During his visit to Sunny Point, the admiral also toured historic Southport and at that time received another key, this time to the City of Southport, the key being in the form of a tie clasp.

Brunswick Has Certificate Of Cattle Health

Dr. H. J. Rollins, Veterinarian for the North Carolina Department of Agriculture visited the Agriculture Extension office at Supply last week to present to Brunswick county a certificate of recertification for Brunswick as a brucellosis-free area.

Brunswick was one of 14 counties in 1960 to be certified as brucellosis-free and this year is the first to be recertified.

Brucellosis is a serious disease of cattle and swine and is commonly known as Bands Disease, or contagious abortion. The disease is so serious because it can be transmitted to humans. The same bacteria causes undulant fever in humans and is most likely transmitted in milk.

Brunswick livestock producers are to be commended for their part in the eradication of brucellosis in the county. They are also urged to help keep the disease out of the county in the future by purchasing animals that have been tested and found to be free from the disease. Bringing in infected animals from other areas is the most likely source of the disease.

Growers are also encouraged to have the cows on their farms tested periodically. All that is necessary is to notify the County Extension Officer of the number of cows to be tested and it will notify the Federal Veterinarian who is stationed in Elizabethtown. As soon as he has enough requests to justify a trip to the county or is in the area he will make the tests without charge. The number of tests made will count toward another certification in the future if no brucellosis is found.

Swine growers are reminded to be on the look-out for hog cholera. It is hoped that this disease can be eradicated some time in the near future. Anyone who knows of any outbreaks of cholera should notify the County Extension Office, which can get assistance from the Federal Veterinarian in controlling this disease.

Methodists To Hold Roll Call

Members of Trinity Methodist Church will observe Roll Call Sunday this week with a special emphasis upon having every living member present for morning worship service.

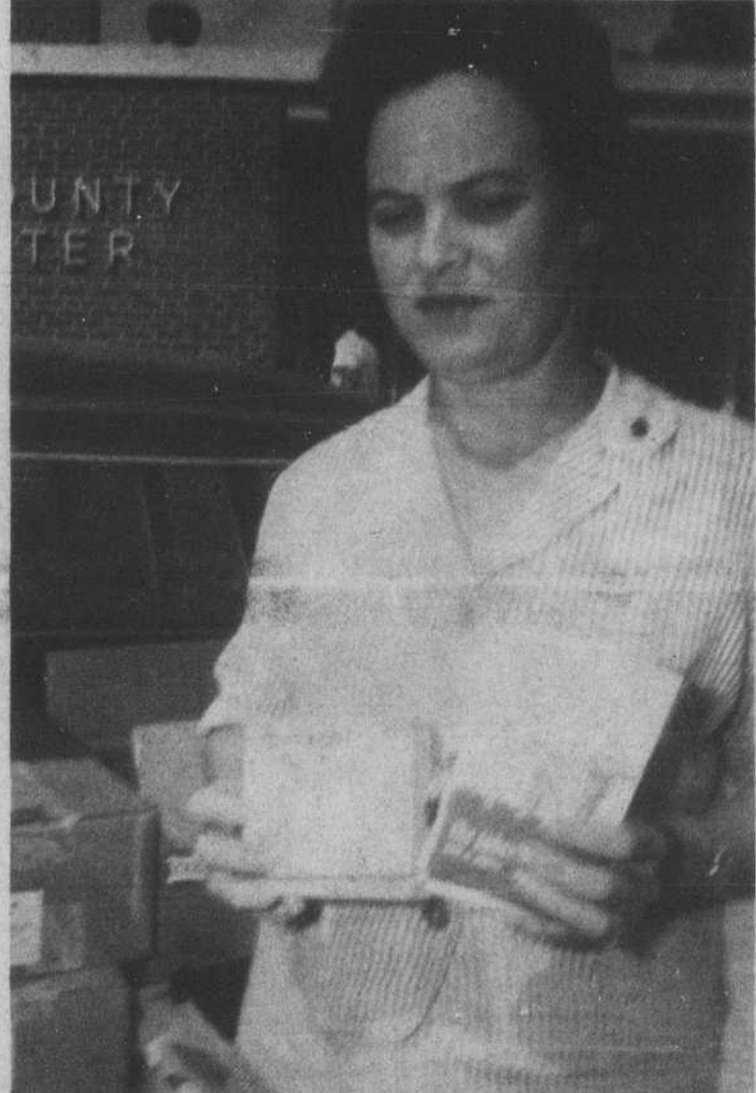

Letters have gone out to local members, as well as to those who have moved away, urging a full attendance for this special observance.

This means that it also has the earmarks of a homecoming or church picnic, for dinner will be served on the grounds following preaching services.

The roll call ritual will be faithfully performed, since it is the feeling of church officials that at periodic intervals it is well for those in attendance to be reminded of the identity of the full membership.

Already there has come word that former residents are making plans to visit Southport during the coming weekend and to join in observance of this event. This will be the second such occasion for Trinity Methodist Church, the first having met with gratifying success.

Mrs. James Bellamy

Southport Woman District Director

Mrs. Bobby Jones, president of the Southport Junior Woman's Club, was elected Monday as Junior Director of District Eleven at its meeting at St. Paul's church in Carolina Beach.

New District President will be Mrs. E. P. Blanchard of Rose Hill. These and other officers elected on Monday will assume their duties at the time of the state convention next May. Mrs. Jones will replace Mrs. W. P. Reynolds of Clinton and will have four clubs under her guidance.

The Southport Woman's Club, through its president, Mrs. James M. Harper, Jr., invited the district to hold its 1966 fall meeting in Southport and the invitation was accepted. During the business session the two Southport presidents gave reports on the best project during the past year of the two clubs. Mrs. Jones reported on the Art Festival sponsored by the Juniors and Mrs. Harper reported the Heritage Show as the best project of the Southport Woman's Club.

Others who attended the meeting were Mrs. W. S. Norman, Mrs. L. D. Hayman, and Mrs. E. C. Blake of the Woman's Club and Mrs. A. H. Gainey, Jr., of the Juniors.

Club women representing fourteen clubs in a five-county area of eastern North Carolina heard Mrs. Fred B. Bunch, Jr., of Statesville, president of the N. C. Federation of Women's Clubs, challenge them to greater involvement in the affairs of today's changing world. "What Do We Have to Offer?"

MRS. BOBBY JONES

was the theme of Mrs. Bunch's address.

Presiding was Mrs. George L. Sutton of Mt. Olive, district president.

Mayor Henry Saunders of Carolina Beach welcomed the visitors. Extending greetings from the host club was Mrs. William Benway. Mrs. Haywood Faircloth of Clinton responded. Other district clubwomen participating during the assembly program prior to luncheon were Mesdames W. F. Adcock, J. W. Allen, W. T. Perkins, E. P. Blanchard, J. D. Jordan and W. H. Sloan.

Time And Tide

There was a sports note on the front page of our edition for October 16, 1935; Frank Niernese, a Southport boy, had won the fall tennis tournament at High Point College for the second year in a row. He also was a varsity basketball player under Coach Virgil Yow. A front page photo showed workmen atop the steeple of Southport Baptist Church, repairing damage caused by a recent bolt of lightning.

Friendship Baptist Church in Waccamaw township was to be host later that week at the annual meeting of the Brunswick Baptist Association; Belk's in Wilmington (it was Belk-Williams back in those days) had men's suits advertised for $18.94--and they were all wool; but on the editorial page the editor had a piece about "The High Cost of Living."

It was the fall of 1940, October 15 to be exact, and R. Gregg Cherry was coming here for a political speech in the courthouse. Col. Earl I. Brown has been named District Engineer for the Wilmington District, U. S. Army Engineers. Senator J. W. Bailey had been a visitor in Southport aboard the engineer's yacht, Kitty Hawk. A service station man had lifted the hood of a car owned by a Shallotte citizen and had discovered a bird nest on top of the engine--"Guess This Motor Hummed Like A Bird," quoth the headline. The congregation of Mt. Pisgah Baptist Church were hosts to the Brunswick Baptist Association of that year.
