Three County Teachers On Special Duty

Brunswick county was represented at the North Carolina Advancement School in Winston-Salem on Wednesday when three local teachers registered there and are teaching during the winter 1966 session. They are Kenneth Bellamy, Brunswick County High School, and Van Walker Galloway and Alvin Leon McCoy, Lin-coln High School. The School is now in its second year as a residential research laboratory for eighth-grade boys of good ability who haven't been achieving up to their potential. Students are nominated by their home schools to

Funds Alloted For War On Poverty

SENCland Community Action, the tri-county agency to Inc., fight the war on poverty in Bladen, Columbus and Brunswick counties, has received a $46,868 in federal funds to undertake a community action program under the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964.

The exact amount of the grant was announced by Sidney H, Woolner. acting regional director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, in a telegram to the organization's offices in Whiteville. Chairman of the three-county group is Brig. Gen. James Glore

Mrs. Hewett Is Fund Chairman In Heart Drive

Mrs. Freeman Hewett of Shal-lotte has been named 1966 Heart Fund Chairman for Brunswick County according to Stanley Knowles, president of the Brunswick Heart Association.

The new chairman of the local Heart group's 1966 fundraising activities will appoint area community leaders to direct the various aspects of the annual Heart Month effort in behalf of the North Carolina and American Heart Associations, of which the local organization is a division.

The new chairman pointed out that heart disease is the leading cause of death in Brunswick and that some 22,000 North Caro-linians died last year as a result of cardiovascular disease, At present death rates, some 10,000 will fall victim to heart disease, which now results inmore deaths than all other causes combined.

The annual Heart Fund contri-butions support the Heart Association's programs of public health education, professional in-formation, heart research, community service, and public information, Mrs. Hewett said. Mrs. Hewett aided the 1965 Heart Chairman, Mrs. William Leadford of Shallotte, with the drive. Also Mrs. Hewett is a Community 4-H Leader, Secre-tary of the Brunswick County Farm Bureau and is very in-terested in the growth of her community and county. State Heart Fund chairman for North Carolina is William C. Friday of Chapel Hill, president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, National Heart Fund Chairman is Owen Cheatham. Chairman of the Board of Georgia Pacific and a trustee of Duke University.

The Brunswick County Farm Bureau opened a new office in Shallotte Monday morning, announced president Ira L. Chadwick this week,

The new office, located on Main street adjacent to the Shallotte Jewel Shop, will be open for services from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. Monday thru Friday, stated Chadwick.

Hospitality Is Extended Fam After Shipwrec

Cornelius Greenway and members of his family have good reason to be thankful for the hospitality of Brunswick county residents following the loss of most of their personal belongings when their floating home, a 65-foot motor schooner, went aground and capsized at Lockwoods Folly Inlet three days before Christmas.

The Mary J. Rafferty, a yacht registered in California, ran aground in the waterway when she apparently strayed from the channel.

The schooner when hard aground as the tide was ebbing; and as the tide went out, th yacht heeled over on the bas and was holed. When the tide rose, the hull filled with water and the boat did not right it. self, and the water level went above the deck vents. The 60-foot cutter Blackberry and a 36-foot cutter went to the scene of the accident with pumps, but could not empty the hull because of the water flowing into the deck vents.

The Oak Island Coast Guard Station said they decided to wait until the tide receded, and then began pumping before the aground.

She was taken under tow by the fishing vessel Nena Fay of Shallotte, and with the two cutters still along side pumping to keep the yacht afloat, she was taken to Gregorys Railway at Shallotte Point. Greenway, who holds an im-pressive list of degrees from various colleges and universities throughout the world, has a wife, Maria, and four children, a daughter and three sons. Another child is on the world the sole child is on the way. of the three-month sessions and are accompanied by 20 or 30 teachers from the public school systems. The latter, called "visiting teachers," take an active part in the teaching program at the School, as well as participate in seminars and discussions.

A new schedule will go into effect this session wherein all academic classes will be given during the morning, with afternoons devoted to individualized instruction, physical education and intramurals. The after-supper hours of from 6:30 -8 p. m. will offer an enrichment program of classes in such things as art, crafts, shop, camping skills, and music. From 8-9:30 p. m. students will be in their rooms studying, reading or talking to their house advisors (young men who are assigned to a group of about 15 students and take responsibility for these boys during afterschool hours). Another innovation this session will be the offering of academic electives on Saturday mornings. Each boy will be required to sign up for two courses which will be related to their regular academic subjects--such as drama, journalism, lapidary,

The WSCS of Shiloh Methodist church will sponsor a ham and chicken supper at the church, Saturday, beginning 6 p. m. Homemade pies and cakes will also be available. Proceeds will be used for the Church Building Fund. The public is invited. The church is located on Highway 87, near Maco, at Leland.

Southport and Dr. W. C. Keith of Elizabethtown is vice chairman. Dr. Jesse C. Fisher Jr. of Whiteville is present of the group.

Officials have stated that the group plans to hire a staff as soon as possible and to develop projects to participate in the war on poverty.

The staff will include an executive director for the three-county area and a coordinator for each of the three counties. General Glore, who currently is in Washington on a special assignment in civilian status for the U. S. Army, was unavailable for comment on this latest development, but Dr. Keith, the vice chairman, said that the committee will now begin screening applicants for the job of director. "We do not intend to be stamped in this matter, for we consider it to be of utmost importance to get a good man," said Dr. Keith.

Exise Tax Is Off Phone Bill

The first telephone bills carrying the reduced federal excise tax were mailed to Southport-Long Beach area customers this past weekend. They reflect the reduction of the federal excise tax from 10 to three per cent. The reduction will mean an annual savings of about $13,600 for Southern Bell customers in the Southport-Long Beach area, H. F. Kincaid, local manager said. Telephone customers in Brunswick and Columbus Counties will realize in annual savings about $107,600. Kincaid explained that the entire benefit from the reduction will go to the customer. "The excise taxes on telephone services will be removed under the law, which was enacted by the 89th Congress and signed by President Johnson on June 21, 1965. The remaining three per cent, Kincaid said, will be reduced by one per cent a year until the whole tax is eliminated on January 1, 1969.

"We at Southern Bell are very happy to see this tax on the way out," Kincaid said. "No other utility service still carries such a tax."

Long distance telephone service has been subject to excise taxes since 1932, and local service since 1941, Kincaid said. Intended first to finance public works projects and services, and

The date was January 15, 1936, and the cenotaph standing in the Southport cemetery honoring two groups of pilots who were lost at sea was the subject for an illustrated feature story. Another front page picture showed the contrast between a stand of timber from forest fires had been kept away and with one where fires which had taken their annual toll. News of particular interest to folks of the Shallotte area told of plans by Dr. M. H. Rourk to move to that community for the practice of medicine.

Bad roads had forced the temporary shutting down of Waccamaw High School; a quarter page advertisement proclaimed in big type that "$25 A Month Now Buys A New Ford V-8."

A Forest Service lookout tower and a close-up of a towerman on watch provided the front page picture for our edition of January 15, 1941. Plans were being made for an all-day meeting of the Brunswick REA at Waccamaw High school on the following Saturday. Former Postmaster L. T. Yaskell had jumped the gun and had brought in a string of freshwater fish, the first of the season; the editor ran down a bunch of rumors that had to do with defense installations in this area; and the H. S. Ward Store at Hickman's Crossroads had burned on the previous Sunday night.

It was Jan. 9, 1946, and men were still coming home from World War II. One was Lt. David Watson, who had served as a Navy Courier in the Southwest Pacific. A check-up revealed that a total of 13 persons had lost their lives at the Jackies Creek Bridge in the past 5 years, and a drive was on to remove this death-trap from U. S. No. 17.

The annual membership meeting of the Brunswick REA was set for Old Dock school on Saturday of the next week; there was talk of building a skating rink at Long Beach; and the local seafood firm of Downing and Swan had made application for permission to construct a packing house and dock.
