Dr. Richard Conrad, at the controls, and H. A. Templetion, the man with the can in his hand, are members of the Brunswick County Airport Commission who have found that their duties are not entirely administrative. They are shown here engaged in a mowing operation which has been done on a volunteer basis this summer by persons interested in the development of the airport facility. The plane in the background is owned by Donald McHose, Southport resident. The tractor and mowing machine are on loan from National Development. (Photo by Spencer)

Superior Court Criminal Term Here Last Week

In their report to Judge C. W. Hall last week members of the grand jury reported they did not inspect the schools and jails since they had met with the board of commissioners and the board of education to discuss in detail and at length their recommendations made last spring. The jury reported that it had inspected the courthouse and had found it to be in satisfactory condition.

Charlie L. Clemmons, Jenelle Blocker, Latham Earl Terry and Paul D. Galloway all faced charges of breaking, entering and larceny. One count against each was not pressed, but they pleaded guilty to the other two charges and were given sentences of 6-8 years each.

H. Victor Stanley, charged with murder, entered a plea of guilty to involuntary manslaughter. He was given a sentence of 4-5 years, suspended upon condition that he be on probation for a term of 5 years and pay costs.

Frank S. Walezak, Joseph L. Dunn and Joseph B. Moore were charged with larceny of an automobile but pleaded guilty to unlawful taking of an auto. Each was given a sentence of 60 days, suspended upon payment of $50 for their court appointed attorney, costs of the case and good behavior.

Joe Brown and Henry Graham were charged with rape, amended to assault with intent to commit rape. They pleaded guilty to assault upon a female and were given sentences of 2 years of the roads, with work release treatment being recommended by the court.

William Allen was found guilty of assault with a deadly weapon and was given 9 months on the roads.

Archie Allen pleaded guilty to charges of assault with a deadly weapon and was given 18 months. This was suspended upon condition that he pay $346 damages to Cottingham and costs of the case. Payments to be made at the rate of $50 per month until completed.

$15,000 Load Of Tobacco In Swamp

An estimated 20,000 lbs. of tobacco belonging to Mack Canady, Jr., Nakina farmer, is shown afloat in the canal beside Highway 130 near New Britain bridge after a truck in which it was being hauled to market ran off the causeway before day this (Wednesday) morning. The driver was Roscoe Long, who says he had to leave the (Wednesday) morning. Long received minor injuries and truck was comparatively undamaged. The loose leaf tobacco, tied in sheets was about 65-percent soaked in swamp water. Canady said his crop is covered by Federal Insurance. (Photo by Spencer)

Begin Drive To Raise Funds For Boy Scout Work

By JAMES F. HOWARD
The annual Boy Scout fund drive will kick off in Brunswick county next Tuesday morning when a group of civic leaders in each community throughout the county begin asking their friends and business acquaintances for a contribution to help finance this vital part of American boyhood.

Most of our political leaders and practically all of our military greats received their early leadership training in the patrols and troops of the Boy Scout program, General William C. Westmoreland, now commanding our troops in Viet Nam, was one of those who received this training some thirty or thirty-five years ago. General Lew Walt, one of the toughest generals the Marine Corps ever had, was another.

The Boy Scouts of America program got its start in 1910 when the founder, Dan Beard, organized the first troop. Since that beginning, some 57 years ago, more than 38 million boys have been exposed to the lasting inspirations of Scouting and, currently, there are more than four million American boys enrolled in the scouting activities taking place today. In Brunswick county the Boy Scout movement is more active than it ever has been, more boys are receiving this vital training than ever before and our civic leaders will take this opportunity to insure the funds for another full year of activity.

The county chairman for this year's drive is Harold Aldridge of Southport, Brunswick County Health Inspector. For his community chairman Aldridge has selected William B. McDougle, Jr., for Southport and Long Beach, John Coker for Leland, and James Rabon for Bolivia.

Chairman McDougle of Southport has announced that Kirby Sullivan, local attorney, will be the finance chairman for the Southport drive. Others taking a leading part in Southport will be Dempsey Hewitt, representing the Jaycees; George Parker representing the Lion's Club; Mrs. Roscoe Rogers representing the Live Oak Garden Club; Mrs. Josie Smith representing the Woodbine

Group Decides To Make Study About Hospital

A group of citizens met last night at Shallotte to discuss further plans for the establishment of the Western Brunswick Hospital District and voted to make a request of the Hospital Care Commission that final action of creating this district be delayed until a further study and serious effort can be made to establish one hospital district for the entire county.

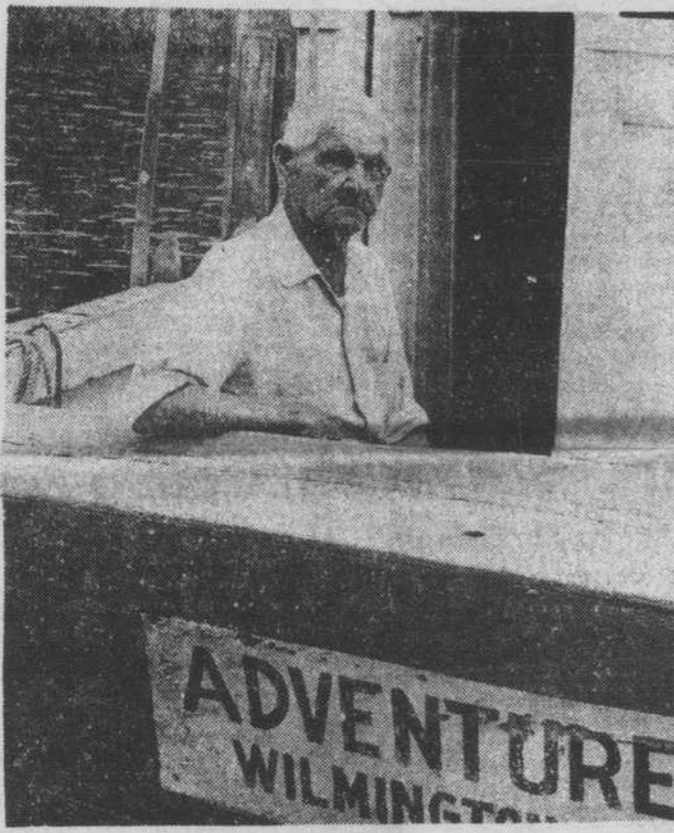

The meeting was presided over by Aubrey Johnston, who has served as chairman of the committee that has been working on the project to secure improved medical facilities for residents of the lower part of Brunswick county.

The Tuesday night meeting was called to consider a report of the meeting held in Southport last Monday night with William Henderson, director of the Medical Care Commission. In his appearance before the group last week and in other appearances in Brunswick this official had made it clear that his commission could not lend financial assistance to more than one hospital district in a county with the population of Brunswick. He expressed the hope that something could be worked out for the establishment of a new hospital to be centrally located within the county.

Earlier at a mass meeting of Brunswick county citizens at Shallotte there had been an unanimous vote in favor of establishing a hospital district to include three townships, Lockwoods Folly, Shallotte and Waccamaw.

The motion to delay this final action pending further study was made by Joe Stanaland, seconded by Paul Dennis.

The board of county commissioners at the Southport meeting had expressed a willingness to cooperate with the Medical Care Commission by appointing a study commission to develop facts regarding the desire for one new, centrally located hospital.

Lonnie Evans Again Heads Committee

The Brunswick County ASC Convention met this (Wednesday) morning and elected Lonnie Evans a member of the County Committee for a three year term. The committee then reelected him chairman, a position which he has held for the past 15 years.

Other members of the county committee are J. E. Holden, vice-chairman, and I. A. Potter, member, both of whom are holdover members of the county committee. Alternates for the county committee are Curtis Hewitt, Shallotte, and George Skipper, Leland.

The following were elected members of their respective community committees in balloting by mail which was in progress during the first part of September; the first named is chairman, second vice-chairman, third vice-chairman.

Lennon Favors Beach Coverage

In hearings before the House Subcommittee on Housing, Congressman Alton Lennon appealed for prompt action to initiate a national program of flood insurance. He spoke in support of legislation he had introduced for the purpose.

Lennon advised the committee that the citizens and property owners of coastal North Carolina have through the years been subjected to the harrowing experiences of storms and hurricanes and suffered severe losses from water damage.

The bill would provide a joint venture between the Federal Government and the private insurance industry. During the early stages of the program insurance would be available only for family residential properties.

"It has been apparent to me for sometime that flood insurance at reasonable cost is possible only for family residential properties.

"It has been apparent to me for sometime that flood insurance at reasonable cost is possible only with federal and insurance-industry participation in underwriting the risks involved," Lennon told the committee, "I am pleased that private insurance companies will cooperate as a pool to sell and service flood insurance coverage," he added.

Lennon urged the committee in the public interest to bring the essential program for the protection and assistance of homeowners in flood-prone areas to a prompt vote.

Time And Tide

Thirty years ago this week shrimping news was of main interest around Southport. In one day the preceding twenty tons of shrimp were brought in here. About 100 shrimpers were operating, with others arriving from other North Carolina ports to join the fleet. The captains there regarded the good to pass up. The fleet of trawlers also brought much work to the Oak Island Coast Guard Station, which had the responsibility of watching over the shrimpers.

Brunswick county deputy sheriff risked his life in the apprehension of a burglar. Dillon Ganey surprised the thief, deflected his weapon and seized him. The late Charles H. House was appointed county tax collector, replacing the late K. Milliken.

Twenty-five years ago this week campaigns were being conducted for the collection of scrap metal to be used by the armed services. The most recent was conducted by the boys and girls of Southport High School. Progress was being made in the making of surgical bandages for the wounded overseas.

A report was made by the rationing board of the county during the preceding month; farm machinery was being rationed at the county office; and Waccamaw Bank and Trust Co. was doing satisfactorily in its first few years after organization, as was reported in a statement released by bank authorities.

Fifteen years ago this week a survey was taken concerning the dredging of Lockwoods Folly Inlet. Owners of boats using the channel complained of the difficulty in navigating the passage to the fishing grounds which lie just off the mouth of the inlet.

Sport fishing was getting better, with most catches being over 100 bluefish or Spanish mackerel; the Southport High School band was showing improvement under Paul Pittinger, the conductor; a front page picture of the Amuzu theatre in Southport appeared and a huge dredge was in the Southport harbor, ready to be used at Sunny Point.

Ten years ago this week 9.24 inches of rain was recorded during a weekend storm here. This was the second highest recorded in Southport, the record for any 24-hour period being 11 inches.

Plans were being made to map the city of Southport. Plans also included the erection of street markers; a commission was formed for the purpose of locating new businesses in Southport in the surrounding area; Dr. M. H. Rourke was installed as head of the district Lions Club.

Another sailfish was brought into Southport as mentioned in the Mallison column.

Development Of Telephone Meeting Slated Thursday

Atlantic Telephone Membership Corporation will hold its Tenth Annual meeting Thursday night, at 8 o'clock, in the Shallotte High School auditorium.

Chief Judge Raymond B. Mallard, who heads the new North Carolina Court of Appeals, will deliver the principal address.

Judge Mallard, who had served as Resident Superior Court Judge for the Thirteenth Judicial District since 1955, was appointed the first Chief Judge of the new Court of Appeals by Governor Dan K. Moore in August. Prior to his appointment in 1955 as the first Superior Court Judge from Columbus County, Judge Mallard practiced law in Tabor City. He also served as county attorney, tax collector, and member of the legislature. From its inception in 1939 until his appointment as Superior Court Judge in 1955, Mallard served as legal counsel for Brunswick Electric Membership Corporation. The new Court of Appeals will begin hearing cases after October 1.

A review of growth and progress made during the first 10 years of operation, as well as reports on current operations, will feature the annual meeting reports. Future growth and plans will also be discussed. Directors will be elected from District 5, the Supply-Holden Beach area; and District 7, the Winnabow area.

Erlich Hickman and the T-lightners will provide the entertainment.

Gift mementos will be given to each member attending the meeting. A grand door prize will be awarded plus many other door prizes. Refreshments will also be served.

Teacher Group

Alpha Delta Kappa, honorary teachers sorority of Brunswick county, held its first fall meeting September 23, visiting the museum-visitors center at Brunswick Town.

After the business meeting, everyone enjoyed a picnic lunch, then visited the museum for a program which reviewed the early history of the site, which was quite fascinating. From the ruins of the Town, imagination of the visitors could visualize how the town once looked.

Special Classes Helping Adults

Brunswick County Schools again this year will make available to the adult citizens of the county almost any type of training requested, according to Ralph C. King, Assistant Superintendent of Brunswick County Schools.

The requirements for starting any type of course is to have a minimum of 15 students to enroll.

As the county and area become more industrialized and jobs are made available, it becomes more important that adults be trained or retrained in a job skill and in many cases raise their basic education level in order to meet job qualifications, King said.

All schools, with few exceptions carried on educational programs for adults during the past school year. Some of the adult courses held last year included: Welding, farm records, income tax and social security, brick-laying, diesel engines, tractor maintenance and mechanics, bookkeeping, typing, basic education, academic education, preparatory for taking high school equivalency test and others.

The Cape Fear Technical Institute is a major resource used by the county in providing adult education programs. This institution provides assistance in the way of organizing courses, supervising courses, and supplies certain equipment and supplies and perhaps most important, that of providing qualified instructors.

"We are very much indebted to the Cape Fear Technical Institute for the very fine assistance given us in providing quality training programs for adults," King commented.

Many of the local vocational departments also offer adult training for various groups of adults in the county. Some courses have been offered by these departments in cooperation with the State Department of Public Instruction.

Adults interested in enrolling in an adult course should contact local school officials, according to King.

The North Carolina Fisheries Association will meet in New Bern Thursday, in the Craven County Court House. The time of the meeting is 4 p.m.

An afternoon meeting has been called because the fisheries public hearing by the Board of Conservation and Development will be held that evening at 7:30, also in the Court House. It is hoped that attendance at each will be improved by holding them on the same day.

Several important items will be discussed, including the association's entertaining the Board of Conservation and Development, the coming referendum by dealers, and the State Fair.

Featured is a report by Nelson Taylor, who had to excuse himself last meeting because of an unavoidable conflict.

The treasury is getting quite low, so the Treasurer asks that all dues be paid up.
