

James Bellamy, Chairman of the Brunswick Soil & Water Conservation District, is presenting a check to Douglas Dennis and Calvin Evans for expenses in attending the Conservation Workshop to be held at N.C. State University during the second week of June. Looking on is Michael Russ, their FFA Advisor, who will also be attending as an adult counselor.

Brunswick Youth Attend Workshop

Doug Dennis of Longwood and Calvin Evans of Ash will attend the Conservation Workshop which will be in Raleigh at N. C. State University the week of June 7.

The conservation districts sponsor the workshop each year for outstanding young men who are interested in learning more about the conservation of natural resources. There are studies in woodland, wildlife soil and water conservations.

The Brunswick Soil & Water Conservation District is sending Calvin and Doug. Both young men have shown much interest in farming and are outstanding agricultural students, as well as being active in other school activities.

James Bellamy, Chairman of the Brunswick Soil & Water Conservation District, says that the district is very fortunate in being able to send two boys of such outstanding ability and accomplishments.

Michael Russ, Vocational Agriculture teacher at Waccamaw, will attend the workshop as an adult counselor.

The workshop will give the ones attending the opportunity for an intensive learning experience, but will also allow time for recreation and socializing.

A scholarship is available for the most outstanding student.

School Funds

acceptable level.

"The State of North Carolina has provided current expense funds with few exceptions since the 1930's to provide a minimum program of education for all public school students. State current expense funds are not used for school plant maintenance and for a few other current expense needs which demand that some local funds be made available in order to provide even a minimum program. In recent years, the federal government has provided current expense monies through the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, Public Law 874, Public Law 815, and occupational education programs. While the state and federal monies assure all local units a minimum educational program, improved and expanded programs are more often found where they are substantially supported by local resources. In view of the financial data for recent years in Brunswick County, indications are that the local current expense funds have been considerably less than the state average.

"Two indications of insufficient operating funds are the student fee schedule and the operation of school stores for the purpose of providing local school operating expenses in several schools of the administrative unit. In many cases, fees work undue hardships on students and parents unable to pay them. Citizen support of adequate tax measures may be damaged by such programs of assessment in that the school might be financially able to offer a course through a fee system; whereas, if the course or program was not being offered, public interest might be aroused to the end that adequate tax measure would be made available.

"The erection and maintenance of school buildings is the responsibility of the local administrative unit; however, the state and federal governments, on occasions, have helped on a limited basis in recent years with construction funds. Various methods available for financing the construction of school facilities are tax levies, bond issues, borrowed money, and as mentioned above federal and state grants and/or loans on a limited basis.

"This section of the report contains financial information of the Brunswick County Public School System."

ship is scheduled to depart Friday.

Other entertainment has been planned during the remainder of their stay in port, with the ship's officers being guests at a dinner this (Wednesday) evening at Chez Steak. Recreation including tennis, golf and horseback riding is being arranged to suit the pleasure of the guests.

A large crowd was on hand to watch the big sailing ship come up to her berth, and throughout the afternoon and early evening there was a steady parade of traffic as visitors came to the waterfront for a close-up view of this strange vessel.

Those who go aboard come away with the feeling that they have had a visit to another world of sea travel as there is a strong tendency aboard the Eagle to keep things the way they were back in the days of sailing ships.

Terry Sanford

E.L. Pettiford said that it as an honor to have as a guest one of North Carolina's best known leaders in the fields of politics, religion and education.

In addition to his post at Duke, Sanford is also chairman of the Board of Trustees at Methodist College in Fayetteville.

Prior to the graduation ceremony on June 2, the B.C.S.H. seniors will hear a Baccalaureate sermon by Dr. Grady Davis, Dean of the School of Religion at Shaw University in Raleigh.

Both the graduation and Baccalaureate exercises will be open to the public. Seats will be reserved for the parents of graduating seniors in the B.C.S.H. gymnasium.

drug use, even pot smoking. And a felony conviction in a drug case means loss of citizenship, he added.

Lt. Grohman's presentation included the display of posters, newspaper clippings, photographs and other graphic displays of what happens to people who use drugs - serious illness, crippling injuries, even death.

High School Principal E. L. Pettiford, in thanking Lion Club President Fraser Law, said many students had come to him expressing appreciation for the drug lecture and saying they had not realized before the dangerous consequences of drug use.

The new DMT facilities are part of the company's overall program to meet the rapidly increasing demand for "Dacron", the leading polyester fiber. "Dacron" is used in a wide range of wearing apparel, home furnishings and industrial applications.

The first units for the manufacture of "Dacron" polyester fiber at the Cape Fear site started up in July, 1968. Expansions have been under way continually with the latest development being additional facilities for the manufacture of filament yarn.
