Booth Funded For Lightship

Frying Pan Lightship Commission members have received funds to build a booth at the site of the nautical museum.

The county Resources Development Commission last week voted to fund the project up to $1,000. Lightship members estimated the cost of construction at the $1,500.

Lightship Commission members Mrs. Cecelia Franck and Mary Kesmodel said the booth would serve as a "temporary security gate."

The development commission suggested the lightship members secure bids and material for the booth in Brunswick County.

The development commission decided additional funds will be "deferred pending the outcome of the booth construction."

N-Brunswick Tops West 9

Data: LYNN SCOTT

LELAND — Two-run doubles by Winning Pitcher Billy Milligan and his battery-mate, Catcher Oliver Brown produced the runs that gave Coach Bruce Pfeifer's North Brunswick Scorpions baseballers a 9-7 win over the West Brunswick Trojans here, Friday afternoon.

Milligan, who came on in relief of Starting Scorpion Hurler Tony Long in the second inning and gave up but 3 hits, fanned 5 and walked but 1 over the remainder of the route, posted the mound win as his club came from behind. Joey Brooks went the route in losing for the West team.

Milligan also doubled in the tying runs in the bottom of the successful Scorpion 6th when the locals charted their winning margin. Then, Brown, who paced all hitters with 3 for 4, blasted his double to tally the go-ahead runs. Milligan, Billy Best and Terry Skipper each had a pair of hits for North Brunswick.

Mike Varnum and Aldwin Smith had a pair of safeties for Coach Anthony Davis' losing Trojans.

North Brunswick hosts New Hanover's jayvees from Wilmington here, Tuesday at 4 p.m.; West Brunswick goes to Whiteville to begin its first official Three Rivers Conference baseball card, Tuesday, at 4 p.m.

Hawaii Brought Into Classroom

Miss Brightie Holden and her third grade class at Bolivia Elementary School have brought Hawaii into the classroom.

As one enters the room, one sees Hawaii come alive in numerous ways. One wall has an array of colorful posters made by the pupils illustrating various aspects of Hawaii. Among these are "The Map Location of Hawaii," "A Hawaiian Girl," the state flower "Hibiscus," "Volcanoes," and "The Hawaiian Islands."

Other colorful items catch one's interest and one is drawn to a closer look at the class' handiwork. First there is a display of outriggers made from woodcraft materials. Other spots of color and craft are the leis and flowers made by the pupils.

Paintings, drawings and stories make up a large display as one moves to another area of the classroom. After much research and discussion each pupil drew or painted, and wrote about what he or she had learned about the newest state.

Illustrations of beaches, villages, palm trees, pineapple plantations, fishing, and surfing were a few of the attractions.

To further make Hawaii come alive, the class concluded its study with a festive and appropriate luau, having made their costumes for the occasion. The pupils pretended to take a trip by steamship to Honolulu, the capital, for their luau and gave important ideas to visiting parents.

During the feast a group of girls did their version of a hula dance in native costume.

Fresh pineapple from Hawaii, coconut cupcakes, Hawaiian citrus juices, and apple slices were enjoyed.

"This is truly an example of the creative process at work, with the children themselves working in a free atmosphere to bring another state into their learning environment," said Miss Holden.

Shady Forest Matter In Mill

A proposed bill to incorporate Shady Forest has been sent to the Senate Committee on Local Government.

Introduced last week by Sen. Arthur Williamson, the bill would appoint a mayor and council to serve until municipal elections in 1975. Proposed council members are Lamb, Leonard and Hundley, and Foster for mayor.

The bill provides for a non-partisan, plurality election system.

The new city would reportedly border on the edge of the extra-territorial area of Sunset Beach - the point to which zoning power reaches.

John Michael Miller, 23, of Southport was charged Friday by Southport Police Officer John Eagles with driving without insurance and no license plates. Miller is scheduled for a hearing in District Court Monday.

Joy Arnold D. Gregory of Southport was charged Tuesday by Southport police with transporting tax - paid liquor, assault and resisting arrest. John Bowen was the arresting officer. Mrs. Gregory will face a hearing in District Court April 1.

Charlie Sellers of Yaupon Beach was charged Tuesday with assault, resisting arrest and public drunkenness by Southport officer John Bowen. Sellers is scheduled for a hearing in District Court April 1.

BRINGING HAWAII into the classroom at Bolivia are members of Mrs. Brightie Holden's third grade. The class displayed posters and other material concerning the 50th state and also participated in a luau and hula dancing.
