

A STRUCTURE BEARING little resemblance to the old Watson home was moved from the site this week, making room for a new Peoples Savings and Loan Association building on the corner of Howe and Nash streets. The upper floor and porches were removed from the Watson house, allowing the remainder to be moved to another part of town. The old home reportedly will be restored.

The Brunswick County ASCS Office has announced that the 1973 Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP), which was terminated in December 1972, has been reinstated.

Streaking Fad Hits Southport

James D. Skipper III, 17, of Southport, was arrested Sunday night and charged with indecent exposure by Southport police.

Arresting officer George McCracken said Southport's first streaking incident was reported Sunday about 10:25 p.m. by Brian Grimes, proprietor of Convenient Food Mart. McCracken said another complaint was received later from the Amuzu Theatre.

The boy ran naked from the store to the cinema along Howe St., McCracken reported. McCracken arrested the youth at the corner of E. Moore Street and Dry Avenue. He said the unclothed boy was in a car with three other people.

Skipper was reportedly placed under $200 bond and has been scheduled for a court hearing in District Court May 21.

Donald Allison Bellamy, 17, of Southport was charged by Southport police Saturday with assault and battery. He will face a hearing in District Court next Thursday. Arresting officer was George McCracken.

John M. Miller, 23, of Southport, was arrested Tuesday by Southport police
