

Animal aid center itself requires help

The Southport-Oak Island Animal Reprive has taken in nearly 50 homeless or injured dogs, cats and kittens and now needs animal-lovers to volunteer to either keep an animal in their home for a week or two, or come out to the reprive and help brush and walk the dogs.

Without the help of local volunteers, the reprive will have to close at the end of the month, said wildlife rehabilitator and reprive director Jeannine Friday.

There are nine dogs, 16 cats and about 20 kittens now at the reprive waiting to be adopted. Friday said the dogs in particular need attention and affection. Kids or any dog-lovers could come to the reprive to walk or brush the dogs, or perhaps take them to the beach and walk them on a leash. Most of the dogs are house-trained and love the water, Friday said.

Those who would like to get more involved can keep a dog or cat in their home for a week or two. The animal would belong to the reprive, and the volunteers would not be adopting the animal, Friday stressed.

In addition, she said, any donations of dog or cat food, and especially cat litter, would be greatly appreciated.

If the reprive is forced to close, however, Friday said her wildlife rehabilitation service will continue, and anyone can call her 24 hours a day to report an injured animal.

For more information on the reprive or wildlife rehabilitation, persons can contact Friday at 457-6340.

Pets of the week

An adult, female Siamese cat with blue eyes is now available for adoption at the Brunswick County Animal Control Center. She is said to be very friendly, very loving and has beautiful markings. The adoption fee is $10 and there will be no charge for a rabies vaccination since she has already had her shots. Several kittens are also available at the shelter. The adoption fee for them is $2 per kitten and the fee for a rabies vaccination is $7.

Two "real cute" puppies are also up for adoption. They are both female and appear to be part Labrador. One is white with tan spots and one is blonde. They are said to be very affectionate and very playful. The adoption fee is $5 per puppy and the fee for a rabies vaccination is $7.

For more information, persons should contact the animal control center at 754-8204 or call toll-free 1-800-233-2169.

Coring is employee of month

Billy Coring was named employee of the month at the New Bolton Center.

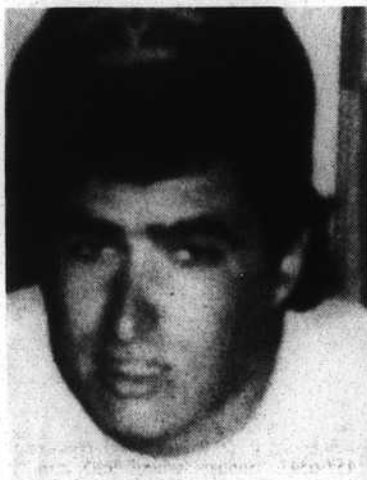

The animal hospital is affiliated with the University of Pennsylvania at New Bolton.

Coring is a large animal attendant in the critical care unit and has been employed at the center for the past three years.

Associate dean Bruce Rappoport congratulated Coring for the honor, noting his performance is "a substantial contribution to the New Bolton Center's continued position as a leading large animal treatment center and research facility."

Coring was also commended for being a role model for other employees.

As employee of the month, Coring was awarded a certificate of recognition, a $50 bonus and $50 for a celebratory lunch with his co-workers. Coring is the son of Charlotte Cochran and Bill Coring of Southport.

Saturday's (world's largest ice cream) sundae was served in a more sanitary fashion than in the good ol' days, but always the helpings came up plentiful, and with a great big smile. The shade beside the Fourth of July headquarters building helped festival visitors enjoy the treat.

There was a good time both on stage and off Friday and Saturday as the Old Dock cloggers entertained in Franklin Square Park. Visitors there could enjoy the stage show, browse among the arts and crafts exhibits or visit Franklin Square Gallery.

BCC orientation scheduled

An orientation for new curriculum students at Brunswick Community College is set for Tuesday, July 14.

Both daytime and evening sessions will be offered for those who plan to enroll at BCC this fall. "The new-student orientation will provide valuable information about the college," a release stated.

The morning program will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the student center, located in the administration building on the college's main campus near Supply. Prospective students will be given an introduction to the campus, an overview of programs and services offered by the college and specific information about registration. Curriculum program advisers will then discuss their respective programs with the group.

Those students who have not previously taken the ASSET inventory for academic success may take it at 10:45 a.m. The complete testing takes approximately two and a half hours.

The student orientation evening session begins at 5:30 p.m. in the student center. The same format as the daytime session will be repeated.

For further information, persons should telephone the Brunswick Community College Office of Student Services at 457-6329 from the Southport-Oak Island area, 754-6950 or 343-0203.
