

West Brunswick Trojans were a happy bunch Saturday after the third-place Waccamaw 2A Conference team went all the way to the state championship. The Trojans defeated previously unbeaten teams each of the final three weeks to claim the title.

'Never a spare moment' West took different approach to Chapel Hill and title match

CHAPEL HILL -- After learning from his players that the 1991 West Brunswick Trojans had difficulty focusing on playing the North Carolina 2A championship game against eventual winner Thomasville last December, new West Brunswick mentor Jim Brett prepared a game plan last week which included different travel plans prior to Saturday's state title game against Maiden's Blue Devils.

"They never had a spare moment," Brett said in the winning locker room after the regular North Carolina High School Athletic Association post-game interview at Kenan Stadium on the University of North Carolina campus.

Instead of taking his players to Chapel Hill on Thursday like previous coach Marshall Seay did prior to last December's state title contest, Brett waited and took his players Friday morning. Brett, his staff and players attended Friday night's 3A title game and then went straight to bed to rest for Saturday's noon kickoff.

The Waccamaw 2A Conference has received quite a bit of statewide recognition during the past couple seasons. While the Trojans were finishing second and third only to peak in the playoffs, East Bladen and Whiteville were winning regular season titles. The Trojans' state title once again establishes the Waccamaw as one of the Old North State's strongest football leagues. Maiden's Tom Brown has coached his Blue Devil teams to a 41-8-1 record during the past four seasons and Maiden has an all-time playoff record of 14-12. A native of Lewiston, Pa., and former Lenoir-Rhyne College football standout, Brown has coached the Blue Devils to a 177-49-6 mark during his 24-year stint.

Careerwise, Brown's record stands just one game below the 200-career win mark at 199-69-7. Brown's son Brian guided the Fred T. Ford girls basketball team to a state 3A championship earlier in 1992, so this was a unique father-son combination going for state titles this year.

Brett, an Ahoskie High School graduate, has a 19-year head coaching mark of 163-61 and was recently named Waccamaw 2A Conference coach of the year. The Trojans were averaging 315 yards per game in total offense prior to the Maiden contest with 280 of that coming via the rush.

Ball control was the ultimate key to the Trojans' success as Brett's team averaged 15 more offensive plays than opponents prior to the state championship contest.

Defensively, West Brunswick yielded 127 yards per contest -- 95 on the ground. Since 1972, the Trojans have recorded a 11-6-1 mark in post-season play in seven trips to the 3A and 2A playoffs.

The running duo of West Brunwick senior fullback Aaron Butler and junior Steve Holmes finished the season in superb fashion. Holmes, who led the rushing game against Maiden with two touchdowns and 76 yards on 13 carries, finished the campaign with 166 carries and 1,386 yards. Butler carried 203 times for 1,318 yards. Holmes was voted the West Brunswick defensive player of the game while Holmes captured offensive honors.

Antoine Ikard, North Carolina's all-time leading prep rusher, gained 308 yards against West Davidson in a playoff game. He also had three 200-plus games during the regular season. Ikard became the state's all-time leading rusher in the 21-0 victory over Thomasville in the 2A western finals.

The victory over Thomasville, a 21-6 victor over West Brunswick in the 2A finals a year ago, was Maiden's 300th football victory. The bruising Blue Devils averaged 340 yards an outing on the ground behind Ikard, but were held to just 207 against the Trojans.

However, the Wolfpack, which fell to St. Pauls, would have had its hands full if they had to play West Brunswick in the eastern finals. The Trojans, who have had six straight winning seasons, may have handled the Whiteville defense in a much different fashion the second time around.

Lemon picked a plum in Brett

When Marshall Seay resigned as West Brunswick football coach last spring Trojan principal Ed Lemon, a strong believer in a quality athletic program, had a lot of choice plums to pick from. Seay's five winning seasons in succession and the state runner-up finish made the West Brunswick job attractive.

Contrary to popular belief, former Tabor City and Wallace-Rose Hill mentor Jack Holley, who left Wilmington Laney after the principal who hired him was transferred, was never seriously in the running for the West Brunswick job. Lemon wanted a coach who would stick for a number of years and Holley didn't fit that bill. He also may have been a bit too controversial for Lemon and the community.

Lemon knew from observers across the state that Brett has one of the best football minds around. And with his class and charisma, he was a natural for the job.

Ironically, Brett was scheduled to be interviewed for the South Brunswick job after Glenn Sasser resigned but the interview was canceled by then-principal Mose Lewis, who decided that he needed to look no further when Bill Hewett wanted to leave Whiteville.

A few years ago, no one in his right mind would have said Brunswick County could attract the top football coaches in eastern North Carolina to their programs. That's not the case anymore.

Bill Hewett at South Brunswick and Jim Brett at West Brunswick have three state championships in their garages along with a bundle of conference championships and playoff victories.

Let's hope Hewett's Cougars turn the corner next season and Brunswick has two of the top 3A teams in North Carolina. Wouldn't a West Brunswick-South Brunswick eastern final one season make everyone smile?
