

Six indicted in LSD mailing

Six people were indicted last week for their alleged involvement in a drug deal that sent LSD by mail to a Leland home.

Detectives confiscated 35 doses of LSD, or lysergic acid diethylamide, a once-popular hallucinogen in the 1960s that has made a recent comeback especially among college students.

An informant told narcotics officers a mail shipment of the drug was expected at a home in Jennifer Court on May 5.

An arranged delivery of an envelope that contained a sheet of paper on which the liquid LSD had been dropped was allegedly seized. A search also found 14 marijuana seedlings planted in the ground and in flower pots.

LSD is often blotted onto paper to resemble pictures and then placed in the mouth by the drug user to obtain temporary hallucinations.

A Brunswick County Grand Jury indicted four Leland residents and two men from Minneapolis, Minn., on charges. They are:

•Jeff Asplund, 19, of Minneapolis; possession with intent to sell and deliver LSD, sale and delivery of LSD.

•Lawrence Dudley, 45, of 9262 Jennifer Court, Leland; maintaining a dwelling to keep and sell a controlled substance, manufacturing and creating marijuana.

•Joseph Peter Grandolfo, 37, of 9262 Jennifer Court; possession of a controlled substance, manufacturing and creating a controlled substance.

•Jeff Miller of Minneapolis; possession with intent to sell and deliver

LSD, sale and delivery of LSD.

•Lovinna Ann Miller of 9262 Jennifer Court; manufacturing and creating marijuana, possession with intent to sell and deliver LSD.

•Robert Allen Miller, 17, of 9700 Sturgeon Drive, Leland; possession of a controlled substance, manufacturing and creating a controlled substance.

Others indicted by the grand jury on charges last week were:

•Lloyd Lee Bolt, 26, of Leland; two counts breaking and entering and larceny, possession of stolen goods. Bolt is accused of breaking into a Winnabow home on May 4 and a home in Old Forest Estates, Leland, on November 19, 1992. A stove and refrigerator valued at $1,600 were taken from one home.

•Lamont Alonzo Burst, 18, of 270 Goodland Road, Leland; possession with intent to sell and deliver marijuana.

•Clintou Lindell Frink, 33, of 319 North Rhett Street, Southport; two counts conspiracy to sell and deliver cocaine.

•Curtis Gerald Frink, 22, of 319 North Rhett Street, Southport; two counts possession with intent to sell and deliver cocaine, two counts sale and delivery of cocaine.

•W. Niguel Lovett, 21, and Frantz Tramel Mercer, 26, both of 1722 R. E. Gore Drive, Supply, and Terrance Antwan Williams, 16, of Supply; armed robbery. They are accused of using a .38-caliber handgun to rob a clerk at Hewett's Store of $3.25 on March 31.

Southport man pleads guilty to reduced charge in robbery

A Southport man accused of robbing a convenience store clerk with a knife pleaded guilty in Brunswick County Superior Court last week to common law robbery.

Lewis Clayborne Wingfield, 58, of Brunswick Village Apartments, had been charged with armed robbery.

In an agreement with the district attorney's office, Wingfield avoided a trial and pleaded guilty to a lesser charge. He received a suspended prison sentence along with a 30-day active jail term.

Armed robbery with a dangerous weapon carries a mandatory minimum of 14 years in prison while common law robbery carries a maximum of ten and a minimum of three years in prison.

Judge Dexter Brooks issued a five-year suspended sentence and placed Wingfield on supervised probation, the first six months on intensive probation. He was also ordered to spend 30 days in the Brunswick County jail.

He was ordered not to possess, consume or have any illegal drugs, submit to searches and tests, enroll in an adult literacy course for reading and writing, to follow recommended assessment and counseling and to not go on the premises of the E-Z Way Grocery on North Howe Street.

He was also ordered not to communicate with the clerk or possess any knife or other deadly weapon.

Wingfield was charged with taking $155 in cash from the store while threatening the clerk with a knife.

The following cases were also heard by judge Brooks last week:

•Johnny Cobb, 45, of Rt. 1, Box 57, Leland; probation violation, continue on probation, comply with any payment of money.

•Ronnie Harold Jones Jr., 17, of Rt. 5, Box 119, Leland; admits probation violation, probation revoked, not benefit as committed youthful offender.

•Allen Piner, 41, of Rt. 5, Box 22, Leland; pleaded guilty to two counts sale and delivery of cocaine, maintaining a motor vehicle to keep drugs, possession of cocaine; NCDOC three years, recommends

DART program, $375 attorney fees.

•Blake Kennedy Hobbs, 17, of 529 Village Road, Leland; pleaded no contest to misdemeanor larceny of six Walker hound dogs on August 18, 1992, prayer for judgment continued, court costs remitted.

•Anthony Terrell Canty of Navassa; pleaded guilty to assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, NCDOC three years, supervised probation three years, not assault or harass prosecuting witness, submit to searches, Brunswick County jail

30 days, not possess any deadly weapon off his premises.

•Debra Robbins, 35, of Rt. 1, Box 55, Ballard's Mobile Home Park, Leland; pleaded guilty to three counts trafficking cocaine, NCDOC 12 years, DART program; pleaded guilty to three counts possession with intent to sell and deliver cocaine, three counts sale and delivery of cocaine, prayer for judgment continued term to term until scheduled for sentencing by the district attorney.
