The food, the shopping and the roller coaster rides were almost as exciting as the competition itself. The 65 members of the North Brunswick High School band traveled to Williamsburg, Va., May 20-24 to compete with bands from across the country and returned home with two big trophies. They took third place in Class AA parade band competition and first place in Class AAA concert band competition.

"I thought we played the best we ever had," said Brandy Hickman. "We showed our hard work." Director Brian Benton was proud not only of his band's achievements, but also of members' good behavior on the trip. "Everywhere we went they were complimented on how well they behaved," he said.

This was the first time many of the students had been so far away from home without their parents, Rhonda Clemmons pointed out. Joe Crowder was impressed how smoothly the trip went with limited problems. "We all got along," he commented. Heather Frazier said the best part of the trip was riding the roller coaster in Busch Gardens. Wendy Ganey liked shopping at the outlet stores near Williamsburg. Shannon Dorsey said the food was "expensive but good," while Christy Mintz complained because they couldn't find Sundrop to quench their thirsts. A number of band members created a music video, which Carrie King said was played at Busch Gardens. The students performed in Vogue's "Never Going to Get It". The students raised $20,646.46 for the trip. They held car washes and yard sales, ran the football concession stand, sold peanuts and barbecue dinners to collect the money, Benton said. Rhonda Clemmons thanked the community for its help in making the group an award-winning band. "It gives a more positive image of our school. We've done so well. We brought something positive back to North Brunswick," she said.

South's ROCAME chapter has banquet, notes winners

The fourth annual banquet for the South Brunswick ROCAME chapter was held May 26 at the Western Sizzlin' Steakhouse near Southport. Approximately 30 students, parents and coordinators were in attendance. Mrs. Reeda Hargrove, county coordinator, was the mistress of ceremony. She gave the welcome and Dr. William Flythe, chapter adviser, said grace. Flythe also introduced the guest speaker after dinner. The speech was given by Terri Smith, a 1992 graduate of South Brunswick High School, who joined ROCAME when she was in the seventh grade. She attended the summer science camp and participated in many ROCAME activities through the years. She represented South Brunswick at the county, regional and state levels in engineering and quiz bowl activities.

She was a member of the ROCAME quiz bowl team that won the state championship a few years ago. Her outstanding achievements in ROCAME, school and the community led to her being named last year as ROCAME student of the year at the jamboree. Smith enrolled at North Carolina A&T State University last fall and selected chemical engineering as her major. She excelled in her classes and was selected as recipient of the Chancellor's Academic Scholarship. She told the group how ROCAME had been a major influence in her life. Winners at the annual jamboree held on the UNC-Wilmington campus in April were recognized. At the middle school level, Jerris Fullwood won first place in the mousetrap competition. The team of Corey McCoy, Jeremy Johnson and Tre Grant won second place with its straw tower. The scrapbook committee consisting of Shanetta and Tiffany McCoy, Adrienne Smith, Tasha Brown, Joy Scott, Shavonne Joyner, Alexis Vaught and Thania Hargrove won second place. Daimion Davis, Timothy Grissett and Thomas Lowe were members of the county industrial engineering team that won second place.
