Health screenings offered for seniors

Free health screenings for older adults offered by the Center for Successful Aging at New Hanover Regional Medical Center will be held at the Long Beach Recreation Center on Wednesday, November 1, and at the Southport Senior Citizens Center on November 27.

A screening also will be held November 13 at the Leland Community Building. All screenings will be conducted between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The following screenings will be offered: Blood pressure/pulse, blood sugar test, nutrition counseling, dehydration assessment, flexibility/grip assessment, adjustment of assistive devices (such as walkers and canes), stress management counseling, depression/anxiety screening, information on advance directives.

The geriatric team from the Center for Successful Aging will conduct the screenings. Included on the team are a geriatrician, nurses, a pharmacist, nutritionist and social worker.

Business of art to be discussed

Artists, craftsmen and small business owners can learn more about "The Business of Art" in a day-long workshop Thursday, November 9, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., at Brunswick Community College's Small Business Center.

Arts marketing consultant Libby Platus will cover topics such as goals, attitude, marketing tools, image, pricing, locating sales outlets, publicity, marketing action plans and identifying customers.

"Marketing your art can be as creative as making art," Platus said. "These presentations are designed to show how to market a work and how to get maximum publicity from a small budget with a little imagination and effort."

Pre-registration is required for the workshop and the registration fee is $5.

To register or for further information, persons may call BCC toll-free at 800-754-1050.
