MUTINY NOW OVER IN NORTH CAROLINA

The Last Act in Tragedy of Russian Rebel Warship

Russian Admiral Arrives With His Fleet and Takes Over the Possession of the Kniaz Potemkin From the Rumanian Authorities.

Kustenji, Rumania, By Cable.—Admiral Kruger boarded and took possession of the Russian battleship Kniaz Potemkin, King Charles of Rumania having sent instructions to the commander of the Rumanian squadron that the vessel be delivered to the Russian authorities without raising difficulties.

The torpedo boat which accompanied the Kniaz Potemkin, however, left for Odessa without surrendering, declaring that she had not mutinied, but that the Kniaz Potemkin had forced her to follow.

Admiral Kruger arrived with his squadron Sunday morning, and after exchanging the customary salutes, intimated that he had come to arrange for the transfer of the Kniaz Potemkin.

Admiral Kollinsky, commander of the Rumanian squadron, boarded the Russian battleship Tchesme and informed Admiral Kruger that King Charles had ordered him to turn the vessel over to the Russian admiral.

The formalities of the transfer were completed this afternoon, and Admiral Kruger boarded the Kniaz Potemkin.

The press representative inspected the Kniaz Potemkin after the withdrawal of the Rumanian guard.

Despite the efforts of the Rumanians to get things in ship-shape, everything aboard the battleship was still in a state of wild disorder.

The officers' cabins were stripped of everything of any value, and blood stains were everywhere. There was sufficient ammunition aboard the Kniaz Potemkin to have enabled the mutineers to make a desperate resistance.

It is said that during the last few days the vessel was navigated by two engineers and an officer with revolvers at their heads.

All of the sailors were to surrender with the exception of Matuschenko, the leader of the mutiny, who was released for some time, and wanted to blow up the ship.

Seven officers were prisoners aboard the battleship, and a military commission is a probable condition for all treatment.

It is reported that Matuschenko himself killed ten officers of the battleship.

All the papers and books belonging to the vessel were destroyed, and the Russian government is expected to surrender the Kniaz Potemkin to the British.

It is reported that Matuschenko himself killed ten officers of the battleship.
