In the last issue of The Randleman Times the editor takes occasion to fire one shot from a small bean shooter at us and one at our Randleman correspondent. As to the article referring to us we pass that by as unworthy of notice, but we feel called upon to defend our correspondent against such an uncalled-for and senseless array of vile epithets as was hurled against him. We are not personally acquainted with our worthy correspondent, but will venture the assertion that he is a man of good character and good standing in his own town, and a man who has the courage to denounce social degeneracy wherever found. Our correspondent said, "Shame on the hotel proprietors of the country," not of Randleman. There is quite a large territory outside of Randleman where hotels may be found, and we do not doubt that our correspondent has seen the evil spoken of, and had the courage to condemn it. Our correspondent did specify one evil in Randleman, namely selling beerine, and according to The Times, "The Town Commissioners have instituted an ordinance against the sale within corporate limits, of the trashy decoction known as 'Beerine,' the ordinance goes into effect at noon on Saturday. We decidedly approve of the act—not, indeed, because the stuff is alcoholic, but simply because it ISN'T." There you are. Why didn't our co-temporary stand up and denounce the evil of selling beerine because it didn't contain the proper amount of alcohol before the council voted it out, and before our correspondent denounced selling it in any form? Why didn't The Times stand up and expose the liquor wagons that are peddling the vile stuff over the town, debauching the young, and demoralizing society generally? Our correspondent denounced it and yet The Times points him out as a fit subject for the fool-killer. The Times has arrested our correspondent on suspicion, tried him before an incompetent jury (of one) and condemned him as charged. There may be work for the fool-killer in Randleman, but he will not begin on our correspondent.

RECORD BREAKING ENROLLMENT.

The public schools of Asheboro opened last Thursday under more favorable auspices than ever before in its history. The instructional force is one of unusual ability and experience in teaching. The first two days were consumed in enrollment and organization, arranging of lessons and other preliminaries. The enrollment is a record breaker, as it is 25 per cent. larger than for the first week of last year.

The different grades are all full of eager learners whose educational guidance is in most competent hands. Directing them all is an able and experienced superintendent, who has had experience in the Asheville graded schools and in South Carolina schools, and therefore will bring new life and new thought into our school. Each of the teachers under Prof. Staley is fitted for her particular work, and all working together in harmony will insure success.

Some of the children are at a great disadvantage this week, owing to the fact that they have not been able to procure books.

It is to be hoped that the parents will enter into a hearty cooperation with the teachers in making this year the greatest success in the history of the school.

The editor of The American Boy ask for an article on the subject "Why young Americans today should interest themselves in politics." The reasons are so numerous that it would be difficult to furnish a complete answer.

The young Americans of today will be the acting, governing force of tomorrow, and only by interesting themselves in politics—not only before maturity, but all their lives—can American citizens hope to do their full duty to their country; Free government is a responsibility as well as a privilege—a grave responsibility—for when one has the privilege of participating in the government he must share in the responsibility for bad government as well as in the credit for good government.

Whether one ever becomes a candidate for office may depend upon circumstances, but every one—regardless of his occupation—should study the science of government, acquaint himself with public questions and give to his country his conscience and his best judgment on every question that arises.

In the study of public questions the most important thing is to get hold of the controlling principle. Only when one understands the principles, which govern a subject does he understand the subject, and the fundamental principles applicable to politics are really everyday principles with which all are familiar.

"Thou shalt not bear false witness," "Thou shalt not steal," and "Thou shalt not kill"—these will be found to cover most of the question, and of the three the second, "Thou shalt not steal," is probably the broadest in its applications, for every pecuniary injustice done by one man to another—whether directly or indirectly, whether in violation of law or in the absence of law—partakes of that character of larceny. One is never too young to begin to interest himself in the principles of government, and there is no age however advanced at which one can afford to be indifferent.—W. J. Bryan in American Boy.

The city council of Houston, Texas, has adopted the following ordinance:

"That hereafter any male person in the city of Houston who shall stare at, or make what is commonly called 'googoo' eyes at or in any other manner look at or make remarks to or concerning, or cough or whistle at or do any other act to attract the attention of any women or female person upon or traveling the streets of Houston, with the intent or in a manner calculated to attempt to flirt with any such woman or female person, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof in the corporation court of the city of Houston shall be fined in any sum not to exceed $100."

Now will the male persons of Houston be good?—Ex.

Success is simply the ability to put foundation under your air castles.

TARIFF AND POLITICS.

There was a lot of hard-headed sense in the remarks of an Indiana delegate when the subject of a permanent Tariff commission was under discussion at the Chicago conference. Said he: My name's Jim Bingham. I'm from Indiana, and I want to say that down in my State we are not afraid of our Congressmen. Furthermore, we don't believe that they will hand over any of their dower to a lot of outsiders. Neither are we afraid of our Senators. If you men from other States think your Senators are grafters, the thing for you to do is to get rid of them. Get them out of Congress. That's the body that will have to deal with Tariff questions.

Not until the Tariff is taken out of politics will there ever be a permanent Tariff commission in this country. And the tariff will not be taken out of politics so long as the Free-Traders and scheming politicians like Cummins and Gross keep on stirring up things by clamoring for tariff reduction, Tariff revision and Tariff-emasulation, reciprocity. The men who are constantly keeping up an uproar for taking the Tariff out of politics are the very men who are doing the most to continue the Tariff in politics. Jim Bingham is right. Congress is the body that will deal with Tariff question, for the very good reason, that Tariff questions are and must always be political questions.—Economist.

Pan Beaters Fined.

High Point, Sept. 11.

The "Burning Bush" street preachers have been arrested here again, and, refusing to give bond, Squire W. E. Johns, before whom the case was tried committed two of them to jail, Mr. Ragsdale and wife.

Citizens of the town, who were unmercifully annoyed the entire summer by their screaming beating of pans and other uproarious noise, sued out a writ against them. These are the same people who cut such a wide swath in court here some time ago, and who were finally released. They refused positively and stubbornly to desist from their unbearable noise and also to give bond, showing little respect for court. Their arrest is not a religious persecution by any means, the people of High Point are very patient in such cases, but patience has ceased to be a virtue. The result is sanctioned by all good citizens.

Plenty of Closets.

The average house contains too few closets, especially those built a score of years ago. The modern house, if comfort and convenience are the two essentials considered in its construction will contain many, says the Country Gentleman. Each bed chamber ought to have its closets, while kitchen and dining room will have closets galore. A hall closet is one of the handiest places imaginable; many articles which do not properly belong on the hall table or rack may be relegated to its seclusion. A closet in the parlor is a luxury. I know of only two houses having closets in parlors. The architect planned one in the home of a friend very cunningly. It was unnoticed among panelings, ect. Besides the closets enumerated, a general closet will be found very convenient, especially if the family be large. This closet should be fitted with shelves, hooks, ect. upon which articles belonging to different members of the family can be stored, those that do not belong or cannot be placed in the private closet. Boxes and parcels should be labeled with owner's name and list of contents.

The time to revise the Tariff is when revision is really needed to promote the business, industrial and farming interests of the country. That condition does not exist now. And revision may safely come when Protection is so universally recognized as the settled policy of the United States that the Democrats, or Free-Traders, will not make it a party issue.—Ex.

J. Pierpoint Morgan, who has already received a number of decorations, is about to be created a commander of the Legion of Honor by the French Government. This is in acknowledgment of his recent presentation to Paris of a fine bronze statue of Benjamin Franklin, who not only spent eight years in Paris as the envoy of the United States, but likewise erected on the house which he occupied the first lightning conductor ever seen in France.

CLIPPINGS FROM OUR EXCHANGES.

An inmate of the Raleigh Insane Asylum was beaten to death the other day and none of the machine democratic papers have said anything about it. It is alright for the Democratic officers to beat crazy people to death and many of the democratic papers refuse to mention the matter. "There is retribution in history" and the democratic party in North Carolina will find it out some day.—North State.

Mr. E. G. Cheek of this place says he has the longest vine he has ever seen or herd of. It is a Moon Flower vine and is 300 feet in length. Two seeds of this flower were planted the day before last Easter and in a very short time it was necessary to put up lattice work for the vines to run on. Later a wire was extended from the lattice work to a tree about 25 feet away, and now the vines have reached the top of the tree and branching out on the limbs, and still they grow. Who has a longer vine?—Siler City Grit.

Last Thursday night lightning struck the home of Robert Levy, who lives near Mt. Tabor church, this county. The house was almost entirely demolished and a number of chickens under the building were killed. Mr Levy and family, consisting of his wife and three children, were in bed at the time and escaped injury. Our informant says escape is considered miraculous as the rooms they were occupying were wrecked and the furniture badly torn up by the lightning.—Davison Dispatch.

An accident which was a little dangerous occurred at the crossing near the depot last Thursday morning. Mr Henry Smitherman, driving a team, attempted to cross the railroad track just after the engine with a box car had passed, but the engineer not seeing him reversed his engine and began running backwards. Before he could be signaled the car had pushed the team and wagon several feet, breaking the wagon but only slightly bruising the mules. The wagon was broken up considerably but Henry came out without a scratch.—Troy montgomeryian.

"South Carolina has done one more important service to the country," says The Richmond News-Leader, explaining that "she has tested the dispensary system of dealing with the liquor question on herself and has demonstrated its violence and weakness so thoroughly that it is not likely that any other State will undertake it. North Carolina has not undertaken to have a Sate dispensary, a Great Moral Institution for the uplifting of the people of the whole State, but we have been experimenting with the dispensary in smaller way on our own hook. Fortunately there is an escape a country does not have to have a dispensary if it does not want it. As the educational stump speakers sometimes say in reference to illiteracy statistics, Thank God for South Carolina.—Charlotte Observer.
