TAKE THE BROADER VIEW.

The following, from the Washington correspondent of the Charlotte Observer, appeared in that newspaper Monday morning:

I asked a well known Republican manufacturer from North Carolina what he thought of political conditions in the state. "It seems to me that conditions are more favorable for Republican success than I have ever seen in North Carolina before," he said, "though I do not make it a rule to mix my drinks and I am here on business and not politics."

"On what do you base your claim?"

"Oh, this is not a claim, but merely the trend of matters as I see it and hear from the business element with which I am thrown. This element seems to be satisfied with business conditions from the political standpoint."

"What are the conditions which you think have produced this feeling of satisfaction?"

"Well, primarily the financial situation, predicated upon sound money and freedom from the many isms which formerly beclouded the sky."

"As a matter of fact, our people are more thoroughly studying and understanding the great issues before them. Business men are practically agreed upon a protective tariff which allows us to turn our raw material into a finished product and thereby bring us this double profit is thus making our people prosperous and it takes prosperity to enable us to see the brighter side of life. We are practically unanimous, too, in our support of the Panama canal and ship subsidy, which is sure to follow, and why should we not be with the immense traffic it will bring to the eastern section of our state?"

"But the proposition will be put to your party that the tariff is increased the cost of living."

"True, in fact, too true, but ours are an agricultural people and all producers are reaping great benefits from stiff prices and you can hardly expect these beneficiaries to vote to lessen their profits—I was about to say to vote for Democracy and the unsettled conditions which would certainly follow Democratic success. Furthermore, farm products demand such a price that every one who can will begin to do a little farming on the side. Even the man who lives in town will have his garden, his chickens and keep a cow and, it may be even raise a pig. While on this subject, I may say that I encourage all our mill employes to do all of these and their increasing saving deposits will answer whether it is successful."

"But you are speaking mostly of national policies; how can these benefit your party in a rock-ribbed Democratic state?"

"Easy—success makes all see things in a broad view and prosperity and happiness will uproot the most deep-seated prejudice. The negro is out of politics and the white man can choose along the line of principles; which ever party wins, the white man rules and there is no longer any incentive to violence or fraud at elections and the morals of our state is so greatly improved that gentlemen will no longer wink at dishonesty and this precludes the advisability of any federal election law. We are getting an element from the opposite party who believe in principles and are honest enough to declare this belief."

"But how about the man who deserts his party to join yours; do you not turn a suspicious eye upon him?"

"Not at all; on the other hand, we receive him with open arms and the welcome which should await the convert who sees the light at the eleventh hour. We not only welcome him; we exalt him; for mark you, we are rapidly becoming a party in which the office seeks the man and manhood alone should count. We are not living in the past, and by-gones are by-gones."

"I shall have to illustrate this with a tale of frontier days. In a new camp there were many and fatal encounters which caused the people to assemble to make some laws to avoid trouble. It was ascertained that the shootings always followed some reference to a fellow's past history. One of the elder statesmen arose and moved accordingly that 'all past history be abolished' and immediately there was no more strife."

"And so with us, all past history is abolished, if the erring brother will join in making his state prosperous and giving the prominence that its diversified interest merit. Our colleges are turning out young men who are too anxious to enter the race to listen to the traditions and prejudices and hatreds of the past. These young giants, instead of throwing away their time and opportunity in reading calamity-howling newspapers, are pushing onward and overtaking, aye, leading, these great modern combinations while most of our press are crying to them that they are poisonous trusts. Our young bankers are too busy investing the large deposits entrusted to them to listen to harpies."

"You may say, without being intelligently disputed, that 70 per cent. of your young men who cast their first vote last election joined the Republican ranks."

"What will be the policies your party present to the voters in the next election?"

"Protective tariff, ship subsidy absolute local self-government in all matters, and lastly, men who know the worth of our state and will make it greater; men who dare and do; men who will be satisfied only with seeing their state the greatest in a greater south; men who will not stand for dictation; men who know not how to fail."

"The Republican party will ask every intelligent voter to adopt the motto, 'Take the broader view,' because our state will never come into its own until every one of its sons can 'Take the broader view.'"

REV. L. H. HATLEY "POUNDED"

On Saturday April 2d about 2 P. M. the people of Richland circuit (except New Union) accompanied by a number of people of Asheboro of the different denominations, rode in one long procession to the home of Rev. L. H. Hatley in West Asheboro where they proceeded to "pound" him with over a month's supplies of groceries and a purse of several dollars. The presentation was made by Mr. I. F. Pritchard of Giles and responded to by the pastor. He thanked the people for their liberality, and spoke in feeling terms of the spirit manifested by the several contributors. Next remarks were made by Bros. Geo. Laughlin of Cedar Falls, John Trogdon of Browers, Joel Trogdon and I. F. Pritchard of Giles. The hour was one much enjoyed by all present. After a hearty hand shaking, singing by the audience, and prayer by the pastor, the hour was closed and all returned to their homes delighted.

GRANT RE-NOMINATED.

Enthusiastic and Harmonious Convention in the 10th Congressional District.

A special from Asheville to the Greensboro Daily News April 2d says:—Congressman Jonn G. Grant was today renominated by the Tenth district Republican convention, which met here. The nomination was made by acclamation, no other candidate being in the field.

The convention was remarkably harmonious, all factionalism having died out, and the program was quickly carried through.

The courthouse was crowded to hear Mr. Grant, Representative McKinlay, of California, and Adna R. Johnson, of Ohio, speak. The speakers were enthusiastically greeted by one of the best conventions ever held here.

C. J. Harris, of Dillsboro, was made permanent chairman.

T. F. Roland who, as chairman of the Buncombe county Republican executive committee, did such effective work for the party in the last campaign, was elected chairman of the congressional executive committee. He announced he would begin campaigning at once. The expected opposition to the adoption of resolutions did not appear, and the following were unanimously adopted:

"The Republicans of the Tenth district of North Carolina, in convention assembled, resolve as follows:

"We reaffirm our allegiance and devotion to the principles of the National Republican party. "That we congratulate the country on its progress and prosperity under Republicans rule, showing that the policies of the Republican party have brought prosperity to the nation."

"That we cordially commend the zeal and sincerity of President Taft in his efforts to enact into law the promises of our national platform.

"Resolved, That we endorse the course of our representative in Congress, the Hon. John G. Grant, and recognize in him an efficient public servant and we hereby pledge ourselves to do all in our power to secure his re-election."

Representative Johnson, in his speech, defended the tariff, which he declared all right. He declared that the Republican party was responsible for prosperity and good prices, prices being better even in the darkest days of Republican rule than in the brightest days of Democratic administration. He declared that the people should forget, for a time, the name of Republican party, "that they should call it the American party, for America first, last and all the time."

Regarding tariff enactments, he said the Democrats declared for free lumber and free pulp wood, but when it came to vote in Congress, every man from North Carolina voted for the tariff except Kitchin.

Congressman McKinley followed with a speech in which he enlarged upon the idea of an American party and expressed a desire to see the party grow in the south, even having candidates of the Republican party for President from North Carolina, which he declared would receive his support.

Both speakers highly complimented Mr. Grant's course and urged the people to return him. Congressman Grant is enthusiastic and in convention pledged himself to carry the district, saying he would make a strenuous campaign from county to county, district to district, and would not rest until the district remains safely Republican.

NEGROES REGISTERED BY DEMOCRATS

The following from the Raleigh State Democrat is an honest confession of who is responsible for registering negroes. Says the Democrat:

"Once when a certain minister wanted to get up against his congregation good and hard, and was looking for a suitable topic upon which to base his castigation, one of his deacons suggested that Judas Iscariot would be a good subject, as he had no friends in the church. The republican party is regarding in much the same light by many in the State. And so we frequently see it stated that one of the things which the party has in view is the giving back to the negroes the ballot they have lost. Passing by any discussion on this point, when the truth is told, it will be seen that most negroes who have been allowed to register and become voters since the passage of the amendment have done so through the efforts of Democrats and not Republicans. We dislike to say this, but it is true, and it's now a matter of record. And this is the unfortunate part, that it is a matter of record. The negroes who were put on the books for the sake of carrying some local matter are now on the books, and are there for all time, except some who may commit crime which shall disqualify them. The allowing of negroes to vote in prohibition elections in order to record a local victory has been the entering wedge, which, if pursued far enough, will destroy the safeguards and the blessings which came as the result of the Constitutional Amendment. A negro can well afford to vote any way, once, in a local election, provided by this he becomes a voter in all subsequent elections. A negro who is qualified to vote ought to be allowed to do so, but to make an effort to have them come to the ballot box will lead to voting them indiscriminately, which simply means a return to former conditions.

We dislike to make a reference in this or any other matter to ourself, for when an editor begins to print something about himself, he is about out of copy. But we simply want to say that in Raleigh a few years ago this writer, through the medium of another paper, made the best fight he could for the extension of the city limits; and while the effort failed; it was expressly stated that no effort would be made by the friends of extension to register negro voters. Those who have done so in the past, or do so in the future, will find they are "playing with fire."
