ASHEBORO, N. C., THURSDAY, JULY 14, 1910.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

Hear Hon. A. E. Holton at the Courthouse, Saturday July 16th.

Mr. Holton has a message which every Republican in Randolph county should hear.

OUR RALEIGH LETTER.

Raleigh, July 9th—The Wake County Democratic Convention met in the Court house in Raleigh on Saturday last. Though heralded as the militant democracy of Wake and reported in the columns of the News & Observer as the "unterrified Democracy" of the metropolitan County of the State, it was apparent to all on-lookers that something had come over the spirit of the dream of the dominant party. Occasional hand-clapping was the extent of applause; not a cheer was heard, and old time enthusiasm was entirely lacking. When one of the defeated office holders was asked why the Convention was so tame and so lacking in enthusiasm his answer was "Did you ever hear of being struck dumb with enthusiasm? This is a sample of it."

Hon. Armistead Jones, Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, called the Convention to order, stated the business to come before the Convention, but nowhere in his remarks did he make any reference to a united party or the hope of success and victory in the coming election.

Hon. R. W. Winston was made permanent Chairman of the Convention and in his speech made reference to the fact that the Democracy of Wake County was divided; had two wings—and stated that no bird could fly unless it had two wings. The primary vote was canvassed by the Convention and the result declared. Delegates were named for the State, Congressional and Judicial Conventions.

Hon. R. H. Battle, nominee for the House of Representatives was called upon for a speech and introduced as the next Speaker of the House of Representatives. Mr. Battle stated that those who voted in the recent Democratic Primary were not legally bound to support the nominees but were morally bound to do so, and begged the Democrats of Wake to support the ticket nominated, saying that this ticket had been placed in the field by the vote of the recent primary, and if the voters did not support it in November he would then be opposed to the legalized primary system.

Mr. Alf. A. Thompson was called upon for a speech, and he spoke of the fact that it was said that many of the defeated wing of the Democratic party would not support the ticket in November. He urged the Democrats to stand together and elect the ticket.

Mr. J. N. Holding, who was aligned with the defeated ring was called upon for a speech but decided, saying that he was too unwell to speak and had only come to the Convention as an on-looker.

After the report of the platform Committee Dr. Sykes, nominee for the Senate, had the platform amended so as to authorize the members of the Legislature to make investigation and determine whether they should recommend the creation of the office of Commissioner of Agriculture for Wake County.

On July 6th, the Fourth District Congressional Convention met in Raleigh and declared Edward W. Pou the nominee of the Democratic Party. This Convention was another tame affair.

There has never been a time in Wake County when Democrats were so outspoken regarding their disgust and dissatisfaction with their party affairs. There

The Dairy Industry of the United States.

According to the last year book of the Department of Agriculture, there are 21,720,000 milch cows in the United States, and these are worth $702,945,000.00. The magnitude of the industry can perhaps be best understood when it is considered that these cows produce yearly about $1,000,000,000.00 worth of dairy products.

There is no other branch of diversified agriculture so important to the progress of a community. The fertility of the soil can best be maintained by the liberal use of barnyard manure and the dairy herd not only makes this possible, but dairying is also more remunerative than other branches of farming when properly carried on.

Dairying has made wonderful progress since the advent of the modern creamery and the consumer of butter has not only been benefitted by being furnished a more wholesome and palatable article of food, but the wife in the farm home has been relieved of the drudgery incident to making butter on the farm. Where formerly the cream was ripened and churned into butter under conditions not conducive to fine quality in the finished product and in the majority of cases by unskilled hands, now the most of the milk or cream is delivered to a modern creamery where conditions are suited to the purpose of making butter, and the result has been a wonderful improvement in the quality of our dairy products. As the quality has improved consumption has increased and the progress of dairying has been remarkable during the past decade.

The perpetuity of the country's greatness depends upon increasing the production of farm products from year to year, a result which not only furnishes our people with food but maintains the prosperity of our farming communities. Increase in production can only come through improved methods of Agriculture and soil improvement. When it is considered that the dairy cow is the foundation for soil improvement and farming prosperity, her importance is best understood, and interest in her should not be confined to her owner. See is an important factor in the development and prosperity of our country.

IN PLAIN ENGLISH

Modern scientific farming requires a knowledge of Chemistry, Physics, Biology, Agronomy, and a few other sciences little understood by men who farm for a living, but The Progressive Farmer and Gazette explains modern farming methods so simply and clearly that the plain people can understand.

is a chorus of voices in the Democratic camp demanding that the Republican party put out a good ticket and these Democrats promise to support the Republican ticket from top to bottom. So bitter was the fight waged by Daniels and Bailey that the good women of Raleigh were disgusted, though heretofore Democratic supporters, and they are now urging Republicans to nominate a winning ticket and administer a rebuke to those who made use of such disgraceful campaign methods.

Our Chief Asset.

"The first wealth is health," is a profound saying, whose truth is so apparent that it does not halt the imagination long enough to permit of complete assimilation.

Progress is initiated by quality rather than by quantity of thought. Originality is the made-to-order suit of a mind that won't wear second-hand stuff, and invention is the headlight of progress. These qualities of thought are attained only when the mind reaches full development, and mature development depends upon perfect health. A nation or a State whose average mind has the highest content of these qualities is the most progressive nation. Backward nations—China, for example—are characterized by an absence of modern inventions. Financial, social, and intellectual advancement are conditioned ultimately on health. The value of health is the value of man.

And what is the value of the average man? Man, like any other animal—like the sheep, or cow, or horse—has an economic value. A half century ago men capable of furnishing only the cheapest labor—unskilled labor—were bought and sold at from $750 to $1,000 apiece. The average immigrant pays taxes, and produces property on which others pay taxes, thereby increasing the Government's revenue to the extent of an amount equal to the interest on a principal of $875. The value, therefore, of the newly landed immigrant is $875. Experts on fixing values, basing their estimates on statistics applying to hundreds of thousands of individual lives, have found that the average American produces $2,900 more than he consumes. The vital assets of the United States would be 85,000,000 lives x $2,900, the value of each, or $250,000,000,000. The material wealth of our country, estimated by a Government expert, amounts to $108,000,000,000.

But, "Is not the body more than raiment, and life more than meat?" Man is more than an animal; man has, in addition to his economic value, a higher value—a humanitarian value. Surely, the value existing in all, but in such quality as to stand out in bold relief in the lives of Washington, Lincoln, Franklin, Lee, Pasteur, Shakespeare and Tennyson, cannot be reduced to cold, dead metal. Who can estimate the world's loss had any of these made one of the deaths from preventable disease which destroys 25 per cent of all people before their twentieth year is reached? Who can compute the world's loss when untimely and preventable tuberculosis cut off in their prime John Paul Jones, Robert Louis Stevenson, John Keats, Schiller, Von Weber, Chapin, Bichat, Laennec, Timrod, Artemus Ward, Thoreau, and many others? And yet how many of such as these do we bury every year with the forty thousand babies dead of preventable disease—the sacrifice of our boasted civilization to the Moloch of ignorance and indifference! Think of the unnecessary infant graves over which might truthfully be inscribed,

"Some mute, inglorious Milton here may rest,
Some Cromwell guiltless of his country's blood."

MR. WM. THAYER CELEBRATES 59TH BIRTHDAY.

Large Number of Friends and Neighbors Meet and Enjoy the Day.

On July 2d 1910, a large number of the friends and neighbors of William Thayer met to celebrate his fifty ninth birthday. Mr. Thayer is one of Tabernacle's best farmers and saw mill men. The crowd began to gather about 10 o'clock and continued coming till noon. After seeing such a concourse of people and so many baskets and boxes of fine things to eat, a table was prepared 50 feet long. Two large silver maples furnished the shade for the crowd. The table was spread with all kinds of good things to eat, a fine chair was elevated on a large box at the head of the table and Mr. Thayer was placed in it by his friends.

At a tap of the farm bell the people marched to the table, the ladies in line on one side and the men on the other. Rev. Evens Hunt returned thanks to the Lord for the bountiful supply while the heads of all the people were bowed, then everybody were made welcome and one hundred and twenty-eight people were filled and plenty left. Dinner being over Mr. Hunt and W. H. Lawrence called the ladies in line on one side of the table and the gentlemen on the other side. Mr. Hunt numbered the ladies 68, W. H. Lawrence, Esq. numbered the men 60, total number 128. The writer never saw a more congenial and orderly crowd, no smell or signs of intoxicants and people of all religious beliefs and political faith mingled together and enjoyed the day as neighbors should.

After dinner was over the assembly repaired to the parlor where they enjoyed some fine music rendered by Misses Anna and Mattie Thayer and others. After enjoying the music for a season the guests went down to a river bottom to witness a game of baseball between Pleasant Hill and Mt. Pleasant teams. Some of the married men joined the boys in the game and distinguished themselves to the surprise of everybody. While the game was in progress a steam thresher was at work near by, turning out wheat at the rate of 2 1/2 bushels per minute. Taken as a whole it was a fine day for Tabernacle town ship.

Among the oldest guests who attended the celebration were:

John Davis 85, Rev. Evens Hunt, 83, and Azor Walker 71. Mr. Thayer was showered by hearty congratulations and was the recipient of a number of handsome and valuable presents. After wishing their host the return of many more birthdays, the guests departed feeling that the day was well spent.

Nearly Everybody TAKES SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR WHY NOT YOU?

WHAT LIQUOR DID FOR HIM.

A writer in the current number of the American Magazine, gives his experience with the liquor habit as follows:

I especially appreciate your articles on people's personal experience with liquor drinking, as I have had some experience in that line myself.

About seven years ago I had a wife and one child and held a civil position which would have insured me a good salary the rest of my days if I had not gone to drinking. I lost my position on account of drink, was suspended from my lodge for misconduct while intoxicated and finally got to where I could not even get work as a common laborer. I tried to reform but found it possible if I stayed in my home town; I tried to persuade my wife to move somewhere else or let me go and then come to me after I had become established somewhere else. She refused to leave or let me do so and finally I ran away from them in order to get away from the drink.

I have been spending the past three years in the extreme "backwoods" sections of this state (Florida), guarding prisoners on turpentine farms and absolutely away from liquor—yet when I had occasions to make a short trip to one of our larger cities a few weeks ago it was one tremendous and continual struggle to keep out of the bar-rooms, and I hope never to be obliged to spend another twenty-four hours in a "wet" town.

This is the situation after a three year's trial at overcoming the liquor habit:—My wife secured a divorce as soon after I left home as possible, and thirty-five years of age I am obliged to stay away out in the woods, cut off from everything I consider makes life worth living, following an uncongenial occupation and afraid to go among the people I was used to for fear of again falling. If you can, through your magazine, create a sentiment that will make this country safe for those of us who have fallen, it will certainly be appreciated by me at any rate.
