Bonds.

Bonds—$123,625.00 Strong!

And an interest account to foot that would operate a small size county.

What is the price of a ticket to Troy and New Market?

A right nice piece of politics is being worked on High Point on a little road deal. It's in Randolph's favor, too, but certainly High Point is entitled to what she pays for.

The Democratic party, according to Victor Murdock, is due to blow up by March, 1916. There's no doubt that the party leaders, especially Mr. Bryan, are loaded with political dynamite.

The people were opposed to a bond issue, yet the fact is sure that $80,000 has already been issued. Seems rather singular that the interest account of the county is in two-thirds the whole operating expense prior to 1900. No wonder the tax rate was raised. No wonder the assessment was raised 10 per cent. How long fellow countrymen will you stand it?

In a few days the tax books will be out. Now fellow citizens look at your tax receipts, compare with last year; also compare with your 1900 receipts and report the result to the Bulletin it will be a revelation as the extravagance of the spending of the peoples money.

More than $200, has been spent for merchandise at the poorhouse in the last two months, according to figures taken from the allowance by the County Commissioners, while the steward draws a salary of $25 a month from the county treasury and rides the county soliciting subscriptions for the ring organ.

The County Commissioners built a jail costing over $16,000 a veritable palace for the 'criminal', but what do they do for the county's worthy poor? Go my fellow countryman and look at it for yourselves not fit for a convict camp. Is there a premium on the criminal?

Senator Hoke Smith denies that a "moonshine" still has been discovered on his Georgia plantation. Then where in the world does Hoke get all the moonshine he has been so copiously dispensing of late?

Well might the board of Commissioners jump on the $5,000.00 of buried money found on the premises of the late Asenith Cox and tax it for 5 years and levy a fine of 5 per cent for failure to list. In this they may be right but why do they not go after some of their political pets whose property is listed way under value. There's a reason. Dead people tell no tales.

The New York Tribune has been depicting in cartoon American history as it would be if interpreted in terms of present-day currency in politics. The first cartoon represented George Washington refusing command of the Continental army because he was "too proud to fight;" and other subjects are: Patrick Henry delivering his famous speech: "Give me liberty or give me 'strict accountability;'" Benjamin Franklin informing George III that the Declaration of Independence was for home consumption only; General Grant writing his memorable dispatch: "I intend to talk it out on this line if it takes all summer."

A wedding of much interest in this county was that of Mr. Walter Kearns and Miss Ollie Meador, at Thomasville, last week. The groom is a native of this county having been born and reared at Farmer.

HIGH POINT AGAIN TO TRY DIPLOMACY Are Hot Against Chairman Boren For Order For Removal of Convicts

High Point, Nov. 2.—"Guilford's red-headed step-child," as High Point is sometimes called, has again received the proverbial treatment accorded such children at the hands of the county commissioners, or rather the chairman of the commissioners, according to the way the citizens of the Furniture City view the order just issued withdrawing the road force from the High Point-Archdale road.

So strong is the feeling that a meeting attended by a large number of the leading citizens was held in the rooms of the Manufacturers Club Saturday night to discuss ways and means of dealing with the situation. After considerable discussion, in which at times considerable feeling cropped out, the meeting appointed a committee of five to go before the board Tuesday morning and see if something cannot be done to secure the completion of the road.

For more than six months the citizens of High Point say they have been pleading in every known manner for better roads. Time after time they have sent delegations to the commissioners, and time after time they come home with certain promises from Chairman Boren. Finally they say, they got Mr. Boren to promise to sand clay the road between High Point and the Randolph line at Archdale. They also got a promise for two miles of high-class road leading towards Greensboro.

Some weeks ago High Point was made happy by the appearance of squads of the county road force on both the Archdale road and Greensboro road, and it was believed that when the bad weather of winter set in the city of High Point would have a good road to bring the Randolph people here; also a better road towards Greensboro.

Friday night came the thunderbolt. Chairman Boren announced that this week he would withdraw the squad from the Archdale road entirely and put it on another highway. He also is quoted as saying that he was going to pull the motor trucks from the Greensboro road and let the work be completed with mule teams. High Point people then arose. They saw the winter fast approaching with an impassable road from Archdale and an incomplete road towards Greensboro. They contend that at least three-fourths of the Archdale road had been worked and that in two more weeks it would be completed. They further asserted that the work that had been done was on the best part of the road and that the portion that was impassable last winter had not been touched.

ARBOR AND BIRD DAY Set Out a Tree on November 5th—The Need of Conservation

"Trees are the handiwork of God. We are banded together in their defense."—Shade Tree Commission, Newark, N. J.

The man who plants a tree has done some good in the world even if he never does anything else worth mentioning.—Hamilton Herald.

Justice to posterity requires that two young trees should be planted for every old one chopped down.—New York Evening Mail.

There is a fine opportunity for the man who wants to do something for prosperity. He can plant a tree.—Chicago News.

The best that man has is drawn from the trees of the forest, and we cannot get far from the trees without deterioration of our civilization. Even our word "Bible," as someone has pointed out, is from the Greek for bark of a tree.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

Let every man, woman and child who is in a position to be with and help the trees do something worth while for their welfare. The trees have enemies enough nowadays. Their friends should rally to their defense.—Boston Post.

Progressive cities are awakened to the importance of caring for their trees in the interest of both hygiene and beauty. It is coming to be more and more generally recognized that trees have practical as well as aesthetic value.—Troy Times.

There is no spot on earth which may not be made more beautiful by the help of trees and flowers.—Holmes.

There is no more certain sign, no better evidence of the intelligence and culture of a community, the good taste of a people of public spirit and domestic virtue, than is afforded by the trees, planted and maintained by the public on a public highway.—Burrell.

It is certainly to be hoped that the people of the community will respond to the opportunity to do something for conservation of the trees to beautify Asheboro. The students of the tenth grade of the graded school will plant several trees on the school grounds and other organizations might follow the plan.

To Double Amount for State Militia. Practically doubled Federal appropriations for the State militia and opening of the proposed continental army to any organization or individual of the National Guard desiring to enter and free to do so, are contemplated in the Army side of the Administration's National defense program, according to Washington dispatches.
