

THE ASHEBORO COURIER

Asheboro, N. C., Sept. 15, 1910.

Local and Personal.

Miss Callie Holt, of Guilford College, was in town Friday. Miss Cora Stowe is visiting relatives in Lexington and Weaverville. Mr. C. B. Webb, of Greensboro, was in Asheboro Monday on business. Miss Mittie Lovett has accepted a position with Miss Esther Auman. Miss Jessie Birkhead went to Randleman shopping Monday. Mr. E. L. Auman, of Biscoe, was a visitor in Asheboro Sunday. Mr. M. H. Davis, of Troy, was a business visitor in Asheboro Saturday. Miss Margaret Wood left Tuesday for G. F. College, Greensboro, N. C. Mr. J. R. Blair, of Troy, was a visitor in Asheboro last Sunday. Mr. Lewis, of Greensboro, was in town on business several days this week. Miss Gler Starbuck, of the Greensboro News, was in town a few days last week. Mr. David W. Davidson, of High Point, was in town on business Monday. Miss Florence Blair left Monday for Red Springs, where she will teach this winter. Mr. Arthur Bunting and wife, of Greensboro, are visiting relatives in Asheboro this week. Miss Louise Lambeth, of Thomasville, is visiting Miss Kate Brittain on South Fayetteville Street. Miss Bera Scarboro left Tuesday for Greensboro, where she enters school at the Normal. Miss Clara Hayes, of Randleman came to Asheboro Monday to enter school. Mrs. Curry, who has been visiting Rev. J. H. Stowe, returned to her home at Weaverville Friday. Mrs. E. A. Wiles and family, of Greensboro, are visiting Mrs. George Hunsucker. Miss Gladys Smythe, of Mt. Olive, came to Asheboro Saturday where she will be in school this winter. Mr. Ferree Ross returned Friday from Denton where he had been on business. Messrs. J. W. and June Kirkman, of Liberty, were in town Thursday on business. Col. J. E. Walker is now spinning around town in a new run-about, which he recently purchased. Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Vuncannon returned to their home at Elise Saturday after a visit to relatives in Asheboro. Misses Bertha and Blanche Cox left Tuesday for Winston-Salem where they will enter Salem Female College. Dr. W. B. Page made a most interesting and helpful talk to the school in Chapel Friday morning on the hookworm disease. Mrs. Ivy Clark, of Greensboro, who has been visiting relatives in Asheboro, returned to her home Friday. Mr. Elbert Moffitt, who has had a position in Siler City for some time returned to Asheboro Friday where he will be in school this winter. Mr. J. Will Hunter, of Raleigh, N. C., special agent for the Webb and Skinner Fire Insurance Co., was a business visitor in Asheboro the first of the week. Misses Esther Auman and Mamie Armstrong have returned from a trip North, where they have been doing the fall shopping for Miss Auman. Mr. Wise, of Salisbury, has been in town several days in the interest of the installation of a camp of the order of the "Woodmen of the World." This order is the second largest fraternal benefit association in the United States. We notice that the grade of watermelons being brought on the Asheboro market within the past few days are of an inferior quality. Probably the season is fast passing, and soon the delicious melons will be a thing of the past for the present season. Several nights during the first of the week quite a number of our people drove out to West Bend, two miles out of town, to attend a protracted meeting that is being conducted there. They report a splendid meeting, with a large number of conversions. Rev. O. A. Wood, of the Asheboro M. E. Church, is conducting the meeting.

Dr. A. H. Redding, of Cedar Falls, was in Asheboro Monday. Mr. R. D. Palmer, of Liberty, was in town Tuesday. Mr. P. H. Morris was in Troy Monday on business. Mr. Will Hinchaw left Monday for a visit to Indianapolis, Ind. Mr. Eugene McNairy, of Greensboro, was a business visitor in Asheboro Friday. Miss Frances Walker left last week for Shelby, where she will be in school this winter. Mrs. Will Miller of Greensboro, is visiting Mr. J. M. Betts on South Fayetteville Street. Work is being pushed on the new M. P. parsonage on South Fayetteville Street. Mr. R. W. Fuller, of Farmer, was in town Monday and visited The Courier office. A little baby girl arrived at the home of Mr. J. A. Holden one day last week. The store of Messrs. Wood and Moring is just now receiving a fresh coat of paint. Randolph farmers are in the midst of the fodder pulling season, and it is quite a busy time of year. Mr. Jack Lowe visited his sister, Miss Pat Lowe, in High Point for a day or two last week. Mr. C. E. McCulloch and wife, of Wilmington, are visiting relatives in town. Mr. H. A. Murbeson, special agent for the Piedmont Fire Insurance Co., of Charlotte, was in Asheboro last Tuesday. Miss Myrtle Rich, of Greensboro, spent Saturday night and Sunday with her little daughter, Rana Belle, at the home of Mrs. W. J. McBride. Miss Florine Corethers, of Rock Hill, S. C., came to Asheboro Saturday where she will teach in the school this year. Miss Nannie Bulla returned to Asheboro the first of the week from Blowing Rock, where she has been teaching music during the summer. Mrs. Fannie Neff, of St. Louis, Mo., who has been spending some time with relatives here, left Monday for a month's visit to Maxton, before returning to St. Louis. Mr. Albion Millie, of High Point, came down to Asheboro one day last week to visit his sister, Mrs. W. J. Armfield, for a few days. Mr. Millie is recuperating from his recent severe illness of sixteen weeks duration. Mrs. Frank Bulla, of Spero, presented the editor last week with one of the largest pears that has been seen hereabouts in quite awhile. By actual weight it was found to tip the scales at 1 pound and 5 1-2 ounces. Mr. John Bulla, of Newport News, Va., but more recently of this place, is having erected a two-story dwelling house on Academy Street. The foundation has been laid and the structure will go up rapidly. Among those from out of town who entered the Asheboro Graded School last week were Mr. Harris Birkhead, of Hills Store; Misses Gladys Smith, of Mt. Olive; Lula Turner, of near Yadkin College; Frances Whitley, of Greensboro; and Mollie Yow, of Central Falls. The readers of The Courier are missing a rare treat if they fail to read the series of letters that are running weekly under the caption of "Mike Writes to Pat." These are not only interesting reading matter, but they paint a pretty good picture of the Republican conditions as viewed from a standpoint of one who is onto the ropes of Republican maneuvers. As Bacon would say, read and digest. As the result of a cutting scrape between two negroes on the work train, that is stationed in Asheboro, Dave Carnac and Matthew Fuller were brought before his Honor, Mayor Worth, and bound over to court in default of bond on Tuesday afternoon. It seems that the altercation arose out of a dispute between the two and a knife and stick was brought into play, and Fuller received a severe cut on the arm. The disturbance occurred on Monday night in a car while the captain of the gang was away. Brick has been placed on the grounds and work will be under way shortly for the construction of a 50x75 building on North Fayetteville Street across the street from McCrary Redding Hardware Co. The parties interested in the erection of the structure are Messrs. McCrary and Redding, and Mr. W. J. Armfield. When erected, several of the rooms will be converted into store rooms and the remaining portions of the building used for a hotel. All necessary material will soon be ordered and the building go up within a short time.

Mr. Homer Hayworth, of High Point, was in town Sunday. Mr. Robt. Fields, of Randleman, entered the Graded School last week. Mr. Connie Palmer, of Liberty, was in town Tuesday on business. Mr. N. B. Kirkman, of High Point, was in town Sunday. Miss Kate Lowe is visiting Miss Leona Parrish in the country. Mr. Crawford Cooper, Jr., of Oxford, was in town on business yesterday. Mr. E. A. Clark and family, of Randleman, have moved to Asheboro. Mr. J. Hoffman, of High Point, passed through Asheboro Tuesday. Mr. Reid Hannah made a business trip to Greensboro Monday. Mr. A. R. Hix spent Sunday at High Point. Master Unis Shaw, of Denton, spent a few days in town last week. Misses Nellie Spoon and Jewel Glasgow went to Flag Springs, Sunday. Several Asheboro people attended protracted meeting at Flag Springs last Sunday. Mr. Walter Bulla left Wednesday for Virginia to enter a military school. Mrs. O. W. Rich and little son, Hal, returned Tuesday from a visit to High Point and Thomasville. Miss Alma Ferree left Tuesday for Cincinnati, where she goes to enter the Conservatory of Music. Miss Maggie Davis went to Greensboro Tuesday to enter G. F. College. Mr. J. P. Boroughs, of Why Not, was a business visitor in town last Monday. Mr. J. M. Varner, of New Hope Academy, who has been seriously ill for some time is improving. Attention is called to Miss Eugenia Tysor's new ad in another column. Mrs. T. H. Carrick, of Candor, is visiting her mother, Mrs. W. K. Dickens, this week. Misses Jessie and Fannie Birkhead and Miss Ula Yow visited friends at Spero Sunday. Mr. Kenneth Craven, of Lee county, returned to his home Tuesday after a visit to the family of Mr. W. D. Spoon in South Asheboro. Mrs. E. R. Michaux, of Greensboro, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. O. V. Wooley, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Moffitt yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lassiter have moved into the residence recently vacated by Mr. W. A. Underwood and family. Misses Lena Johnson and Lynette Swain left Tuesday for Greensboro, where they will enter the State Normal College. Miss Annie Brewer, of McColl, S. C., who has been visiting Miss Fannie Hannah on Park Street, returned to her home Tuesday. Mr. Sam Healey left Wednesday for Greensboro to attend the Page Quiz School, after a few days visit to his father, Dr. S. A. Henley. Rev. and Mrs. T. M. Johnson and family went to Flag Springs Tuesday. Rev. Johnson is helping in a meeting there this week. Misses Annie Moring and Edna Hill go to High Point today, where they will teach in the graded schools this winter. The infant of Mr. and Mrs. Jethro Jarrel, of near Asheboro, died last Thursday and was buried the following day. The infant of Mr. and Mrs. Adolphus Johnson, of Asheboro, died September 8, and was laid to rest in the Asheboro cemetery the following day. Mr. O. R. Cox went to Winston-Salem Tuesday to accompany his daughters, Misses Blanche and Bertha, who will be students of Salem Female College this term. The annual protracted meeting at the M. E. Church in Asheboro will begin next Sunday. The pastor, Rev. O. A. Wood, will be assisted in the meeting by Rev. S. T. Barber, of Greensboro. Mrs. G. W. Potts and children came down from Summerfield one day last week and joined her husband in Asheboro. Mr. Potts and family are living in the house belonging to Mr. Ed. Ingram in South Asheboro. Mr. Laurin Cranford will go to Biscoe in a few weeks to take a position in the A. & A. depot at that place. Mr. Cranford will be succeeded as agent for the A. & A. at Asheboro by Mr. E. L. Auman, of Biscoe.

Mr. Roy Russell, of Troy, spent a few days in town last week visiting friends. Mr. J. R. Parks, of Salisbury, is visiting at the home of Mrs. M. A. Moffitt. Miss Marion Moring went to Lumberton one day last week, where she will teach music this winter. Mr. J. Birkhead, Democratic candidate for Sheriff of Randolph county, was in Asheboro Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Mr. R. Varner, of New Hope Academy, was in Asheboro Wednesday. Mrs. Clarence Hughes left Wednesday for Jackson Springs where she will visit friends. Mrs. R. S. Winn and daughter returned to their home at Guilford College Tuesday accompanied by Mrs. A. A. Spenser, of Asheboro. Miss Mary Belle Kivett returned Wednesday from Pocomo Lake, Penn., where she has been this summer. A brief sketch of the life of Mr. Hugh Parks, Sr., will appear in next week's Courier. Owing to lack of space this article is crowded out this week. Mrs. W. B. McIlwaine and daughter, Miss Lucy, of Petersburg, Pa., are in Asheboro to visit Mrs. McIlwaine's son, Rev. W. B. McIlwaine Jr., and the family of Col. A. C. McAlister. Mr. Bunyan Lambert, who has been foreman of the mechanical department of The Courier for several months, went to Greensboro last Monday to accept a position with the Christian Advocate. Mr. Potts of Winston-Salem, has filled the vacancy. Mr. Joe Vickery, of Bloomingdale, Ind., was in Asheboro Tuesday. He has relatives and friends in the country who are always glad to welcome him to his native home. Mr. Vickery left Randolph in 1859 and went to his present home in Indiana, where he engaged in contracting and building. He now owns a farm on the Colorado river in Arizona. He is a loyal Democrat and has the distinction of being among the half dozen men who voted the Democratic ticket in his township when he first went to Indiana. He says Democracy is in fine shape in Indiana. Dr. P. Vickory, a brother of Emporia Kwass, is visiting in the county.

A DELUSION EXPOSED.

What if Foreign Competition Should Leave Us All Idle? "Without the Republican tariff policy the wheels of Pennsylvania industry would be motionless, its stacks smokeless, its forges silent, the hum of its prosperity hushed." This piece of pathetic balderdash appeared in a Pennsylvania paper recently and doubtless expresses the belief of many thousands of deluded people not only in Pennsylvania, but in most other states. It therefore deserves a little examination. Frankly, we must contend that it would be an excellent thing if the smokestacks of Pittsburgh were put out of business, its forges cold and its wheels silent, if the comfort and prosperity of the people could be attained without them. There is nothing in their appearance nor in the industrial enslavement which they tend to promote for humanity to crow over, if we consider them as an end in themselves. It is only as a means of procuring employment, and consequently the comforts of life, for such a large industrial population that their existence is to be tolerated. However, serving the purpose that they do, the only way that these wheels could be set idle is by the foreigner supplying us with the goods which the wheels now produce. But would not the foreigner take something from us in return? And would not the Bethlehem blast furnace men be as well employed in making that something as in roasting for seven days a week at 12 1/2 cents an hour? At any rate, they could not well be worse off.

The only way the foreigner can leave us idle is to supply us with the goods which we now obtain only through labor. If he takes from us other goods in return, let us be content to make those goods instead of persisting in doing what he can do for us cheaper. But if, as some muddle-headed protectionists think, he takes nothing from us in return, so much the better for us. We would then be getting the means of living without working for them, and that is surely the workingman's millennium. But what is the use of discussing the above proposition when the steel and iron industry, in the opinion of men like Mr. Carnegie, is able to hold its own under free competition? Without the tariff Pennsylvania's prosperity would be just as great as it is now and far more pure. Watered stock would not be so profitable, but legitimate capital and labor would get their honest return.

STEALING BY LAW.

Only the Silly Thieves Commit Petty Theft. The cashier who robs the city bank in which he has till then been a trusted employee is as shortsighted as he is wicked. He should have known that if he wants to possess himself of the property of others there are in these days plenty of ways of accomplishing his object which do not involve the risk to liberty and to reputation which are inseparable from vulgar and old fashioned forms of theft. For example, he might have gone into business, or better still, gone into politics, become interested in some kind of manufacture, got a tariff on his products and robbed the consumers through the high prices which he exacted from them. It is a roundabout way of robbery, to be sure, and it lacks the picturesque sensationalism of the old fashioned method. But it has incomparable advantages. The tariff robber robs according to law, whereas the vulgar bank robber robs against the law. The tariff robber may, it is true, have helped to make the law which enables him to rob. For instance, we read of the cotton ring and the woolen ring being permitted by congress to "write their own schedules"—in other words, say how much they shall steal. Therefore there is no necessity for him to sin against the law and no cry of "Stop, thief!" to remind him that he is not a thoroughly respectable and patriotic citizen.

The lesson of this state of things is that would-be thieves ought not to waste their time breaking laws which forbid theft, but to set about making laws which permit theft. Indeed, every intelligent robber has long since discovered this fact. Only the idiotic and imbecile thieves rob banks and are guilty of petty larcenies nowadays. The intellectual members of the tribe must be sought for elsewhere—when ever there is a tariff hearing at Washington or a land grab in Alaska or in Oklahoma. T. SCANLON.

60 - HORSES - 60

AT FIELD'S STABLE, HIGH POINT, N. C.

We have 60 head of the cleanest, finest, best shaped horses and mares that have ever been in my stable. They are from 3 to 5 years old, weigh from 800 to 1000 pounds. Good heads, flat legs, solid coats. All halter broke, and stall fed in winter. These horses are sired by a Registered Thoroughbred Stallion. Look and set like Kentucky horses. They are not pot-bellies, but well bred pasture raised horses, and are different from anything ever seen on this market before. Come an look them over, you will never see another bunch like these. A grand opportunity to buy some money makers. E. E. C. Field, P. K. Trogdon. Sept. 6th, 1910.
