

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. R. C. Kelly went to Franklinton on legal business last Monday.

The Asheboro Graded School opens today.

Miss Esther Ross is at Jackson Springs for a stay of several days.

Mr. H. M. McGee, of Cole's Store, was a caller at The Courier office last Friday.

Mr. W. H. Ragan, of High Point, was one of the visitors in town for the Unveiling last Saturday.

Messrs. Herbert Howard and Hal Lassiter, of Mechanic, were guests of Mr. Gus Hayworth last Sunday.

Messrs. W. F. Wood and B. M. Pierce, of Western Randolph, were in town on business last Monday.

Mr. George R. Ross attended the State Farmer's Convention in Raleigh last week.

Mrs. M. A. Moffitt visited relatives at Pittsboro several days last week.

Miss Hazel Kivett was the guest of Miss Marie Ferguson in Randleman several days last week.

Miss Alice Ingold, of Randleman is visiting her father, Mr. F. Ingold this week.

Mr. John F. Jarrell, of Caraway, was a caller at the Courier office last Monday.

Miss Kate Walker visited the family of Dr. W. I. Sumner in Randleman Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Miss Eugenia Tysor left last week for the northern markets, to select her stock of fall and winter Millinery.

Miss Agnes Moring is to teach in the graded schools of Greenville, North Carolina, the coming school year.

Mr. C. W. Jennings, of Greensboro, spent Sunday in Asheboro with his daughter, Mrs. John M. Hammer.

Mr. George B. Craven, of the Greensboro News, was in Asheboro last Saturday reporting the Unveiling for his paper.

Miss Lucy Bowden, of Randleman, was the guest of Miss Bess Scarborough from Saturday until Monday.

The County Commissioners were in regular session last Monday. An account of their proceedings will be published next week.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Hayworth left last Monday for Mineral Wells, Texas, where they will visit relatives for several weeks.

Misses Donna Pugh and Clara Ward, of Millboro, visited at the home of Mr. A. L. Vancannon last Saturday and Sunday returning to their home Monday.

Mrs. Ohas. M. Hauser and little daughter, of High Point, returned to their home Monday after having attended the unveiling exercises last Saturday.

Mr. Paul B. Henley left Monday for Greensboro where he goes to resume his work after spending a few days at home on account of illness.

Mrs. J. M. Hancock came down from Greensboro Friday to be present at the unveiling Saturday and to visit her daughter, Mrs. W. C. Hammer.

Rev. John Hurley, of Central Falls, will preach at Neighbor's Grove next Sunday morning at eleven o'clock, and Mr. Charles Reddick, of Randleman, will make an address Sunday night.

Miss Georgia Whitfield left Monday for Lumberton after a fortnight's visit to her sister, Mrs. W. C. Hammond. Miss Georgia was accompanied by her sister, Miss Irma.

"Unveiling Day" was a great success. One of the largest crowds that has ever been in Asheboro attended the unveiling exercises. The crowd has been estimated all the way from three to five thousand.

The fire alarm sounded from the Asheboro Chair Factory last Thursday morning and the firemen rushed toward the scene. It was soon learned that some shavings had caught fire and danger had threatened the plant, but the blaze had been extinguished by the factory's force before the firemen reached the scene.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Nance, of Concord town, attended the unveiling in Asheboro last Saturday and visited their son, Mr. I. M. Nance for a day or two. Mrs. Nance had not been in town in twenty years, and was surprised and delighted to see how the little village of former days had grown into the prosperous Twentieth century town.

Mr. Guy Fox, a son of Dr. L. M. Fox, has been elected a teacher in the Randleman Graded School.

Miss Enlah Yow returned one day last week from a visit to house folks at Why Not.

Miss Swanna Lawdermilk, of Why Not, attended the Unveiling last Saturday.

Dr. D. K. Lockhart, who has been ill in a Richmond hospital for a week or two, has recovered and returned to Asheboro and is again in his office.

Mr. Will Hinshaw returned home last Thursday from Oak Ridge, where he has just completed a course in the Oak Ridge Automobile School.

For want of space Mr. E. L. Moffitt's presentation speech of the monument is crowded out, also Mayor Spence's acceptance for the town, and Hon. Robt. N. Page's eulogy to the Confederate veterans. All of these are splendid addresses and will appear in next week's Courier.

Judge Walter Clark's address was one of the finest ever delivered in Asheboro. It is printed elsewhere in this "Unveiling Number" of The Courier and should be preserved in every home. It tells a great deal of the history of Randolph county's soldiers which should be handed down from generation to generation.

Col. Jas. T. Morehead in introducing Judge Walter Clark on "Unveiling Day" said he was the busiest man in the State; that he had done more to preserve the history of the State than any other man; that he was brave, honest and true, but he did not say that the Judge had political aspirations in the direction of United States Senator.

The many friends of Mrs. E. E. Moffitt, of Richmond, will regret that she was unable to attend the unveiling exercises of the Confederate monument. She has always been interested in improvements in Randolph and has kept up with them more closely than many know of, having subscribed to several, such as the monument, park, etc. A telegram the day before announced regrets at her inability to attend.

RANDOLPH CHAPTER OF U. D. C.

Brief History of Organization

The Randolph Chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy was organized in September 1906 at the suggestions of Mrs. E. E. Moffitt, of Raleigh, a former Randolph county woman and of Mrs. Henry London, of Pittsboro, who was then State President of the U.D.C. The following officers were elected:

President, Miss May McAlister; 1st Vice President, Mrs. Wm. C. Hammer; 2nd Vice President Mrs. J. V. Hunter; Recording Sec. Miss Treva Rush; Cor. Sec. Mrs. W. A. Underwood; Treasurer, Mrs. J. D. Ross.

Charter Members in addition to above named: Mrs. Ella Burwell McAlister, Mrs. M. W. Parrish, Mrs. O. W. Rich, Mrs. Annie Moring Robins, Miss Irma Whitfield, Mrs. J. M. Lassiter, Mrs. Margaret Whitfield Hammond, Mrs. J. O. Redding, Mrs. Myrtle M. Moffitt, Miss Lillian Bunch, Miss Daisy Crowson, Mrs. H. E. Moffitt.

The object was benevolent memorial and historical. Regular meetings have been held on the first of October, December, January and May, since the chapter was organized.

On the tenth of each May the veterans have been given dinner and the graves of those who lie in the Asheboro cemetery have been decorated with Confederate flags and flowers. The graves have also been marked with neat little stones. Crosses of honor have been presented from time to time. The Chapter has made the following contributions outside of Randolph county:

To Confederate Arch in Raleigh, $20. For Henry Wyatt Monument, $10. For Chapel Hill Monument, in honor of boys who left school to enter army, $5 To Texas Monument, $1. For Ransom's portrait in Confederate Room in Richmond, $1. In 1907 $10 was pledged annually for scholarship in State Normal and Industrial College. This to be for a daughter of a Confederate veteran.

The paramount interest of the organization has been the beautiful monument just erected as a memorial to the Confederate veterans of Randolph county. The committee for this work has been: Mrs. Wm. C. Hammer, Chm'n; Mrs. J. D. Ross, Treas; Mrs. Jno. T. Moffitt, Mrs. W. D. Stedman, Mrs. L. F. Ross, Mrs. Jean Rush.

About four years ago Queen Esther, a Biblical cantata, was given and $83.53 was realized, from this $50.00 was set aside for the monument fund. In the next two years little was done though small sums were added. Two years ago active work began, different entertainments were given. The Old Maids Convention, Spinners Return, Bachelors Congress and home talent concerts. With each court has come a refreshment room for the benefit of the Monument. Tags were sold one day in Asheboro and one day in Randleman from the former about $100.00 was raised the latter about $50.00. Postal cards of the monument were sold last court. Subscriptions were solicited from time to time. Each veteran was asked to collect $5.00 for the monument; a few of them went far beyond that as may be seen from list which is printed elsewhere in The Courier this week. A large number of people who have formerly lived in Randolph have sent in subscriptions.

The Chapter as a whole has left no stones unturned in aiding to erect this magnificent monument which commemorates the memory of Randolph's brave Confederate veterans. It reflects honor and credit to the Chapter, the town, the county and State. It was purchased of The Blue Pearl Granite Company, Winston. The figure is of bronze and was made by the W. H. Mullins Co. Salem, Ohio. It stands 25 feet 10 inches high, base 9 feet 6 inches square. Cost $1700.

During the life of the organization of the Randolph Chapter of U. D. C., the members have tried to respond to the various calls for help, outside of the county, have tried to lend comfort and cheer to those who compose the "Thim gray line" in the county and have as their reward been instrumental in erecting a monument on which they look with pride and pleasure and for which they are exceeding grateful to all who in any way cooperated with them in its erection.

Pure drugs and medicines and prescriptions carefully compounded at the Standard Drug Co.

Col Morehead's Speech

Daughters of the Confederacy, Comrades, Ladies and Gentlemen: It is an honor greatly to be esteemed to have been selected by the Randolph Daughters of the Confederacy to introduce the orator of the day.

The pleasure to me is greatly enhanced in that the gentleman whom I shall present was not only one of our comrades in the war between the states and bore himself gallantly both in battle and in bearing the privation and discomforts of the camp and the march, but who has, in my opinion, without disparagement of any done more to "keep history straight" not only by his editing our Regimental Histories but by his written communications to the periodicals of the country north and south correcting many errors honestly made and refuting slanders circulated through envy and with malice aforethought, thereby presenting an approximately true version of the part taken by North Carolina and her soldiers in the great struggle.

I have ever thought that it was unjust to the orator of the day and in fact bad taste for one selected to introduce him to do more than simply announce his name, but I know you will pardon me if inspired by this presence and this occasion I shall say a few words without trenching upon the subjects upon which he will address you.

It is almost impossible to refrain when I look upon these scarred and grizzled veterans and recall that under great privation and amid great disasters and facing almost certain death with eyes bright with patriotism and state pride they followed the "starry cross" wherever their standards pointed and by their courage, gallantry and brilliant performances electrified the brave and patriotic of every civilized nation upon earth.

Comrades, it has been our good fortune to arrive until this present day when not only your motives and your daring achievements have been fully recognized by the people of all foreign countries but by the whole people of this republic, north and south, and by none more heartily than by the survivors of the great and gallant armies with whom you grappled in the conflict. We have lived to see the day when the statue of our great leader is placed with those of the immortals in the Capital of the United States and when the son of the authoress of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" has publicly declared in an address heard and read by thousands that the State of North Carolina and her sister confederated states had upon their side the constitutional right to take the positions they did.

Occasions of this kind recall what we read about when the veteran soldiers of France assembled at the Capitol of their country to receive and deposit in a magnificent mausoleum the remains of their great commander and Emperor who years after the close of their historic wars had died in exile a prisoner upon a distant and lonely island. Then I have no doubt the soldiers of the old guard fought their battles over again, told of Morengo Austerlitz, Jenna and the Conquest of Italy with exultation, and with tear stained cheeks, sorrowed over Waterloo.

I have no doubt that the names of Ney, Murat Lannes, Victor and scores of other brave and honored chieftains were mentioned with pride and affection. And so when those of us North Carolinians especially, who are still waiting "The appointed time" for us to cross "over the river and rest in the shade of the trees" meet at reunions, and especially when our noble women invite us to the unveiling of monuments erected to teach generations yet to come, that the Confederate soldier was a patriot who served his country in its extreme peril without counting the cost, it is but natural that we should talk of Bethel, Winchester, Manassas, Fredericksburg, Sharpsburg, Spottsylvania Court House, Cold Harbor, Shiloh and Chancellorsville and glory in the fact that North Carolina Soldiers went "Furthest to the front" at both Gettysburg and Chancellorsville and fired the last shot at Appomattox, and that with pride and affection we call the name of Rameur, the brilliant, Gordon, the dashing cavalryman, Pettigrew, Pender, Hoke and many other gallant leaders and comrades.

The French soldiers had a "lost cause" and the Confederacy had a lost cause, but the Confederate soldier since his cause was lost, has made over again, his beloved country, and if the promises of the present are fulfilled there are those now living who will see the Confederate States the richest and most prosperous of the American Union.

Your victories of peace equal your victories of war.

When I look upon these fair women I am greatly tempted to voice the feeling and sentiment of every surviving veteran in approbation of their patriotic and loving efforts not only to commemorate the virtues of our departed comrades, but for their care for the comfort and well being of the living, though language would fail me to give adequate expression of our gratitude and assurance that our declining days are made happier and brighter by their loving kindness and sympathy.

To the Daughters of the Confederacy the whole southland owes a debt it can never pay. Upon every recurring springtime when mother earth wakes from her death of winter and is clothed with fresh and beautiful verdure, symbolic of the great resurrection when "Time shall be no more" the "Daughters" strew the graves of the departed heroes with May's brightest and freshest flowers and present an object lesson which recalls the great Feast of the Passover and unleavened bread, which for thirty centuries has been celebrated by the Hebrews as commanded, for the purpose of teaching generation after generation the story of the exodus from Egypt, so that that story is fresh in the mind of the Hebrew child today, and by these tenth of May festivals the youth of this country for generations yet to come, will be taught the story of the victories of the field and the toils and sufferings of camp and march of their ancestors who followed the "starry cross" in all the vicissitudes of glory and defeat.

It affords me great pleasure to see this day for the first time on any similar occasion that the Daughters of the Randolph Chapter have brought into service, the little "Children of the Confederacy" a wreath-bearers whose wreaths are today to be deposited on the most accurate artistic and beautiful monument to the soldiers of 1861-65 which it has been my fortune yet to see.

I suspect that you begin to think that I am doing the very thing which I have said was in bad taste. I now have the great pleasure of presenting to you as the orator of this occasion the busiest and hardest worked citizen of the State, the great "defender of the Faith", Walter Clark.
