Many Small Land Holders Essential to Progress

Every agency of rural betterment becomes possible when instead of a small number of large landowners there is a large number of small landowners, who occupy and till the farms they own. Tenancy and isolation disappear with their attendant train of social ills. Better farming follows, along with better business and better living on the farm. The burdens of taxation are widely distributed. The few do not feel that their purses are milked by the tax-gatherer for the benefit of the many. Community effort is easily centered upon better roads, better schools, and better churches. And so, when we are struggling in our counties with all our might and main for better home and school conditions, we are saying to the landless man: "With all thy getting, get land. Multiplied home ownership is a bed-rock of safety for home, or community, and country. It is still possible to get under your own vine and fig tree. Good land is still cheap in the South. Do not sin away your day of economic grace."

We are saying to the owner of large estates: "With all thy getting, get at least the wisdom of intelligent self-interest. Sell small farms to likely tenants at reasonable prices. Multiply the small farmers of your county and increase the value of your remaining acres. Put money in your purse meanwhile, if you will; but consider the poor and lowly and leave a place in the earth for them. Farm your own land. Consider the present, and apparently the permanent, high prices of farm products. Invest liberally in the means and agencies of community progress. The return to you is inevitably greater than the outlay."—President E. C. Branson, of Georgia State Normal College.

Mr. Branson is a son of the late Levi Branson and is a native of Randolph county.

Moonshiner Born in Randolph Tells Truth

Clayton Chrisco, the Moore county moonshiner who was last week sentenced to the Atlanta penitentiary, for a year and a day and fined $10 and costs for illicit distilling, wrote the following sketch of his life and handed it to Mrs. C. G. Petty, wife of Sheriff Petty, of Lee, as given by the Express.

My name is Clayton Chrisco, I was born in Randolph county May 23rd, 1859. I have never been before the courts, not even as a witness. Had one little fight seven years ago. I have no money and have a wife and one child who are living at the mercy of other people. I have been in jail two months and have read the Bible through although I have but little education. Am convinced that I have done wrong; but the Bible teaches me not to tell a lie, so I shall tell the truth let the consequences be what they may. I pray God and His people to help me that I may from now on lead a better life. I wish that you would explain this to the court and ask its mercy for me please."—Moore County News.

To Put The Courier in Every Home in Randolph County

We have commenced a campaign to put The Courier in every home in Randolph county, and we want every person in this section of the state to begin to make ready to be waited on to this end. We have secured the services of Mr. W. F. Finnsucker to work this field for us, and when he calls upon you don't consider anything else but coming to some arrangement whereby you may give him your order. At the same time he is canvassing to place The Courier in every home, we are giving him our old lists with all datings, and having him call on all our old subscribers that those who are in arrears may have the convenience of settling at their home the little that is due. However, we don't want you to feel unpleasant about this as we are only including this feature as a case of necessity. We are not afraid of you and want you to feel that it is a pleasure for us to do everything that we can to make all of our transactions pleasant and congenial. You may not know it, but our running expenses are in the neighborhood of $500 per month, and you can readily see where every dollar we can get hold of is needed. Now if you can make any arrangements to help us to the extent of your arrears, it will help us much, and we will appreciate it, but if you can not don't think we will think hard of you. We will not. When you are in Asheboro, we want you to come in and make our office your headquarters. We want you to come in to see us.

Make The Home Life Beautiful

Let me say to parents,—Make the home life beautiful, without and within. The memory of the beautiful and happy home of childhood is the richest legacy parents can bequeath to their children. The heart will never forget its hallowed influences, and it will be a joy to which the years will only add new sweetness.

Such a home is a constant inspiration to good, and is a constant restraint from evil.

If by taste and culture we adorn our homes and grounds and add to their charms our children will find the quiet pleasures of rural homes more attractive than the whirl of city life. Such attractions and enjoyments will invest home-life, school-life the whole future of life, with new interests and with new dignity and joyousness, for life is just what we make it. We may by our blindness live in a world of darkness and gloom, or in a world full of sunlight and beauty and joy, for the world without only reflects the world within.

The tasteful improvement of grounds and home exerts a good influence not only upon the inmates, but upon the community. An elegant dwelling, surrounded by a garden, a contribution to the refinement, the good order, the taste and prosperity of every community, improving the public taste and ministering to every enjoyment.
