ENROLLMENTS LARGER THAN EVER

People More Interested in Education—High Schools Have a Brighter Outlook

Asheboro Graded Schools opened on September 12 with an enrollment of 465 in all grades. Of this number 82 are in the high school department. A teacher has been added in the high school making one teacher for each grade in the entire school. Supt. Geo. W. Bradshaw has the school well in hand and is assisted by most able corps of teachers. The school does three years high school work.

Ramseur Graded School opened the 22nd with an enrollment of 240, with 26 in the high school department. The school has five teachers with Prof. W. P. White as principal.

Franklinville school has an enrollment of 151, with 25 in the high school department. The enrollment was 20 per cent. better than at any previous opening. The school is better equipped with teachers, having four at present. Another room will be added in a short while to supply proper accommodations. Prof. D. M. Weatherly has charge of the school.

Trinity Public School opened with an enrollment of 160, with 52 in the high school. This enrollment is 35 better than last year; the high school is nearly 20 per cent. better. The faculty expects at least 20 or 30 more by Christmas; which will tax the school to its utmost capacity. Trinity has the same faculty it had last year. Prof. T. J. Covington is principal. The school does four years work with two teachers.

Farmer Public High School opens with an enrollment of 120, with 44 in the high school. Miss Maud Dickens, of Asheboro, has been added as a fourth teacher taking charge of the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades. Prof. H. W. Smith has charge of the school. The school does three years work with one and one-half teachers.

I have not heard from Randleman and Liberty, but the opening of these schools promises to exceed any previous record.

Shiloh under Prof. Wright and Why Not under Prof. Garner have opened with larger enrollments than herebefore, although I have not learned their numbers.

These five schools represent a total enrollment of 1136 pupils, with 223 in the high school, also a total of 27 teachers.

Other schools will be reported as they open. I will thank any teacher or committeeman to report to me any school news that might be of interest to other schools and the general public.

SENATOR SIMMONS AT ASHEBORO

Large and Enthusiastic Crowd of Randolph Democrats Attend Rally.

At the Democratic rally Saturday night, Dr. S. A. Henley called the meeting to order and asked Dr. F. H. Wood, of Trinity, to take the chair.

Dr. Wood expressed his appreciation for the honor of presiding over the meeting. He said he was a native of Randolph county, "to the manner born," and that while he was no politician, his fifty years as a Methodist minister had not deprived him of citizenship and the right to express his opinion on politics.

Dr. Wood said that, having retired from the active ministry, he had returned to Randolph county to spend the remainder of his life. He said that in the house where he had lived at old Trinity, there were written on the walls the names of F. M. Simmons and Lee S. Overman; and that ever since their graduation he had watched with interest the careers of these two young men until they were both United States Senators.

Dr. Wood expressed his belief that a great wave of Democracy, such as has never before been seen, is now sweeping over the land. He said that this is a good time for those who have not been voting the Democratic ticket to come out of the dark into the open, and that by so doing a man will feel better, have more self-respect than ever before, and will do his country good.

Dr. Wood then gave place to Mr. J. A. Spence, who introduced the speaker of the evening.

Mr. J. A. Spence introduced Senator Simmons in a few well chosen words, praising his loyalty and devotion to the people's interests and to Democratic principles by general Democratic approval.

The Senator began his speech by expressing his gratitude for the cordial greeting given him by the people of Randolph, and the loyal support accorded him in the past.

He said that in addition to discussing political questions, he would have something to say about his own record. He did not claim that during the twelve years he had been in the Senate he had made no mistakes, but said that on the whole he stood on his past record.

The Senator further declared that he was not running from that record, but upon it. He said that no apology would be offered for that record, but that he only wished to explain it in order to guard against misrepresentation.

Senator Simmons declared that he placed the interests of the Democratic party ever and above any personal interest and that with this consideration he would enter into no joint debate with another Democrat and thus destroy party harmony.

The Senator called attention to the fact that the Democracy of the "pure and knightly Craig" had been impeached in time past, and that he is now the victim of "a Craig" in other days. He said that he presumed his character would be re-examined when this contest is over.

Mr. Simmons said "I am obnoxious with being the tool of the trusts and their friends and special interests. It is true that I have not abused their interests by day and night with them by night, but my record shows that when the interests of the people have conflicted with those of the railroads, trusts, or special interests, I have been on the side of the people not with the service and on the hustling alone."

The Senator, answering the charges that he is not a progressive Democrat, challenged any adversary to point out one progressive measure named in the Baltimore platform, the chart of progressive Democracy, for which he does not stand.

He told of his work in the interest of tariff revision, the income tax, direct election of Senators, parcels post, and for the waterways of eastern Carolina, for the park reserve in western Carolina and the protection of the waterpower of the Piedmont. He denied the charge of trading in votes, even for his State's interest. "The vote of a Senator is a sacred thing," he said.

Out of a total river and harbor bill appropriation of $34,000,000, North Carolina gets $1,400,000. The average duty imposed on lumber for which he voted, was 7 per cent, whereas an average of 30 per cent is imposed by the bill for which all Democrats voted the other day. The Senator reviewed his tariff record to show his fidelity to the interests of the farmer to whose interests he dramatically pledged himself as forever devoted.

Sovereign-Parks

A beautiful marriage was solemnized in the First Baptist Church in Lake City, S. C. Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock when Mr. Ira Clarence Parks led to the hymeneal altar Mrs. Lena Rivers Sovereign.

Before the hour for the marriage had arrived, quite a concourse of friends had gathered to witness the important event.

When the organ pealed forth the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march sweetly rendered by Mrs. C. D. Rollins, the bride party entered in the following order:

First came the ushers, Messrs. H. L. Blizard, Talimage Askins, J. L. Richardson and Tracy Askins, taking positions on either side of the chancel. Next came the bridesmaids and groom's-men, Miss Violet Askins with Mr. H. E. Green, Miss Ruth Sovereign with Mr. T. B. Dove, Miss Mayme Green with Mr. H. L. McKenzie.

The maid of honor came next preceding the bride, who entered the church leaning upon the arm of her brother who gave her in marriage.

They were met at the altar by the groom with his best man, Mr. Hugh Parks, where they were united as man and wife by the bride's pastor, Rev. E. P. Esterling, the beautiful and impressive ring ceremony being used.

The bride's-maid wore crown veil dresses with green sashes and carried bouquets of pink asters.

The maid of honor wore green lingerie and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The bride wore a beautiful travelling suit of brown and wore hat and gloves to match and carried a lovely sherry bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Mrs. Parks left immediately after the ceremony for Washington, Baltimore and other northern points where they will spend a week or ten days.

The bride is the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Mrs. E. E. Sovereign and numbers her friends by the score.

The groom is a popular young business man and holds a position of responsibility with the Randolph Manufacturing Company at Franklinville, N. C.

Their many friends wish for them a smooth sail on the sea of life and one of great usefulness.

Many beautiful and valuable presents attested their popularity.

Mr. and Mrs. Parks will be at home to their friends after October 1st in Franklinville.

Mr. Cooper Host

On last Saturday night Mr. J. T. Cooper entertained about fifty of his friends at the beautiful new country home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Kearns. The guests were ushered into the parlor and games and social conversation was engaged in, but the moonlight was too inviting for them to stay indoors, so they were invited out on the spacious lawn where some games were played. About half past ten delicious refreshments were served. The guests departed about twelve o'clock declaring Mr. Cooper to be an ideal host.
