GIRLS' TOMATO CLUBS.

Much Money in Tomato Culture—Why Not Have Clubs in Randolph?

While tomato clubs are adding hundreds of dollars to the income of counties where they are active it is not well to neglect them in Randolph. Our county superintendent of education, Mr. Lassiter, Mr. Coyle, the county farm demonstrator, and Mrs. Wm. C. Hammer, of Asheboro are in the beginning of an active and aggressive effort to establish tomato clubs in this county. They have taken upon themselves the task to see to it that our county keeps step in the march of progress.

A letter by Mrs. J. G. Boylin, in the Wadesboro Messenger and Intelligence on a tomato club demonstration in Catawba county, is both instructive and interesting. Among other things she says: "One of the most interesting institutes held by the agricultural department of North Carolina was held in Catawba county. This meeting was held in the court house, which was filled to overflowing with farmers and their wives who had come to hear the State lecturers, and, too, Mrs. Charles McKimmon, of Raleigh, who is in charge of the tomato clubs of the State, was to meet her 'tomato club girls' on this day.

On all the streets of Newton were girls ranging in years from twelve to sixteen, dressed in bright red cheese cloth. These were the 'tomato girls'. In the afternoon the girls were grouped around something from which smoke was boiling out. I edged my way in. There was a canner, made by a manufacturing firm just ten miles away, which held twenty-four cans, for which they received nine dollars regularly, but from the tomato girls seventy dollars was the price. A boy sixteen years old was demonstrating in the manner. The county collaborator was there with her can soldering tools and tomatoes to assist the girls in giving a demonstration.

One girl 12 years old, who was the youngest of the tomato girls, had canned 240 cans up to July 15th. The State lecturer promised these girls to sell their products for them at ten cents per can. These tomato girls had bought wrappers for their cans, through the collaborator, with their motto printed on it, "To make the best better." A blank was left on the name and number of the club and the name of the canner.

The demonstration proved that a woman could can of omeaga weighed twenty-eight ounces, while a tomato can could weigh forty ounces. One girl had water, the other fruit. It takes ten good sized tomatoes to fill a can. The rules were: On tenth acre of ground; 1 rental fee; 10 cents per acre for mother's help; two acres land of stable manure, $2. The girl was to be allowed full market price for any tomatoes the family used; she is to have all of the proceeds from this one-tenth acre of ground. Prizes were offered by the county and State for the girl who canned the most from her one-tenth acre.

Mrs. McKimmon installed these principles to the girls: "Quality, quantity, variety, knowledge and history. Hawking, spitting, foul breath, discharge of yellow matter permanently cured with pure Botanical ingredients. To prove it we will send you a sample Treatment Free."

According to a report of the public health service, pellagra is spreading in the United States, and in the six weeks it has been known to medical authorities has claimed not less than 20,000 victims. The report for the period 1907-11 gives North Carolina 2,122 cases with 1,067 deaths, death rate 44 per cent. The figures show pellagra prevalent in the greater part of the United States, but particularly notorious in the South.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Texas Woman Saved Her Boy by Using Great Kidney Remedy

My boy at about thirteen years of age had a very severe attack of Swamp Fever, which left him with hemorrhages of the kidneys. He would have from two to four attacks a year. We had several physicians attending him for three years. The doctors told my family we would not raise him to be 21 years old.

I saw your advertisement in the papers. As a last resort I gave up the doctors and tried Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. After using several bottles, we were well pleased with the result, we stuck to it and he is now 21 years old and a perfect and stout man. We can highly recommend Swamp-Root for kidney trouble.

Very truly yours, MRS. RITCHIE PATTERSON, 428 23rd St. Paris, Texas. Sworn and subscribed to before me, this February 19th, A. D., 1912. CHAS. S. NEOTHERY, Justice of the Peace and Ex-Officio, Notary Public in and for Lamar Co., Texas.

Letter to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Free What Swamp-Root Will Do for You.

Sent to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling all about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention The Asheboro Weekly Courier. Regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

Song of Courier Contestants.

Of contests great and contests small, The Courier contest was best of all; W. C. Hammer was the kind of man Who handed out the prizes with a generous hand. The auto and the cooking range, Furniture and two diamond rings, The buggy and sewing machines, These were the prizes to be seen. There were 82 contestants in this race.

All trying for the highest place, But when they found work had to be done Lots of them their duty did shun. Contestants did travel over hills and dales And never gave up that they would fail. The story of the lucky ones now let us rate, The prices numbered only eight. Sewing machines are useful things, Beautiful are the diamond rings; And its not so bad when you are certain and sure Of winning a range or suit of furniture.

White in a buggy or automobile You can ride to fast you can't see the wheels. Mrs. Underwood and Miss Gallimore Did win the machines when counted over. While Miss Whately and Mr. Rich Came across in the very same pitch, Miss Daley Osborne the buggy did win.

When all her votes were counted in And in Miss Smith we saw no change When told she had won the range, Miss Cheek now feels her work is done. Since the furniture she easily won, And Mrs. Corneillon her work does feel, For the world loves a winner of a Ford mobile.

A Des Moines man had an attack of muscular rheumatism in his shoulder. A friend advised him to go to Hot Springs. That meant an expense of $150.00 or more. He sought for a quicker and cheaper way to cure and found it in Chamberlain's Liniment. Three days after the first application of this liniment he was well. For sale by all dealers.

Melancthon Honor Roll.

The following students have neither been absent nor tardy during the month of November, and therefore are entitled to see their names placed on the honor roll: First grade—Howard Thomas, Rosie Aldridge. Second grade—Cavey Aldridge. Second grade—Cavey Aldridge. Bessie Amick. Fourth grade—Lily Kirkman, Eula Thomas. Fifth grade—Lucy Amick.

Man Coughs and Sneezes

After a frightful coughing fit, man in Neenah, Wis., felt his chest pains in his side and his doctor found two ribs had been broken. What agony Dr. King's New Discovery would have saved him. A few teaspoonfuls ends a late cough, while persistent use routes obstinate bronchitis, cures stubborn colds or influenza, cures lung. It is a God-send to humanity. For sale by Dr. H. H. Morton, Columbia, Mo. I believe I would have consumption today if I had not used this great remedy. Its guaranteed to satisfy, and you can get a free trial bottle for 50-cent or $1.00 size at Asheboro Drug Co.

Col. McRae Dead.

Col. E. E. McRae, former State Senator and president of the State Fair Association, died at his home in Robeson county Wednesday of last week. For sale by all dealers.

Can You Endure Ridicule?

There is much to say about ridicule, its power, the good and harm it does. Many men who can stand cruel punishment, suffer without a murmur, cannot endure the laughter and scorn of others. There are many people who live a life contrary to their nature because they fear ridicule. Millions of women dress extravagantly because they dare not let out of style and face the scorn of the masses. Ridicule has sent men to an untimely grave. Keats, the young and promising poet, was killed in his youth by harsh ridicule and criticism. Ridicule has kept many a man from being a coward; it has developed the manly qualities in both men and women. Many a man has marched to death in defense of his country and family, and has been called a hero when he was really a man so much afraid of ridicule that he had rather be killed than to undergo the derision and scorn of his fellow man.

The history of the human race and its marvellous progress is in fact a history of ridicule. The wise men of Spain laughed at Columbus and vowed he was crazy when he started on that eventful journey which ultimately meant so much for the human race. The masters by the steel and iron industry of England sneered at Bessemer when he attempted to explain a new process in the making of steel. They said that his methods were stupid and preposterous. However one man did not laugh and that man made a fortune. William H. Vanderbilt laughed at elevated railway and ultimately lost a hundred millions which went to swell the fortunes of the Gould family.

The people and the newspapers sneered at Fulton and his first steamboat. Fulton braved his ridicule for his purpose. The great Napoleon would only give Fulton a minute of his time, and even then would not listen to the American's idea of a steamboat. Fulton braved the ridicule and triumphed. The men who invented porcelain and steam rail lines were laughed at and told their ideas were all worthless, but they endured and eventually triumphed.

We are not all inventing steamboats, railroads, or porcelain. All of us are not poets slowly dying from the effects of cruel criticism. But each and every one of us would be better off by far if we only had the courage to endure the stinging criticism of others. How much of your money do you spend because you are afraid of being the object of some persons laughter? How much could you save if you had the moral courage to do what you think is right and what you ought to do? Tens of thousands of people are living a life they can not afford because they lack courage to do the right thing.

It is not wise to deny your family anything you can afford. If you can afford to let her dress so that she will look like a swell bird of Paradise and ride in a large automobile let her do libalimeans. But don't let the ridicule of others, or what others may say or think, persuade you to spend what you cannot afford, and throw away today as a sacrifice to ridicule that which you will bitterly need when old age comes along, or when the children get older and need education.

But, however, do not mistake your egotism for indifference to ridicule. There is a great difference between making a fool of yourself and conquering ridicule. The ridicule of the public is usually good in that the people as a whole ridicule that which is bad. Ridicule is a great educating force and those who are ignorant are made to learn by its power. It is necessary to distinguish between ridicule that checks growth and kills all effort and that which is necessary to hold the human race in a solid army of progress. Ridicule will keep the individual from achievement if he does not have sufficient intellect to distinguish. Think for yourself and don't let the ridicule of others stop your thinking. When others know more than you do, listen to what they have to say. Some time in your life you will have to make your mind what you will do. You will have to reach decisions and stick to them. When you can be indifferent to ridicule you can carry out your own line of work and if you can't carry out your line of work you can't get anywhere. You will find that druggists everywhere speak well of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. They know from long experience in the sale of it that it cures of coughs and colds and is always depended upon. It is so safe and safe to use. For sale by all dealers.
