

Watch the Tongue of your Young! Your little Pets need Cascarets

Children think Cascarets just dandy,
They are safe and mild cathartic candy.
Sell for a dime—"work" every time.

MOTHERS! Clean the clogged-up places. Do away with the bile sour fermentations and constipation poison which is keeping your little one cross, feverish and sick. Children love Cascarets because to them it is like eating candy. Cascarets act better than castor oil, calomel or pills on the tender stomach, liver and bowels. Cascarets never gripe, never injure, and do not disappoint the worried mother. Give harmless Cascarets to children one year old and upwards. Each ten cent box contains full directions.

That Wicked Taste

Paroxysms—as it is popularly called—is a bad taste in the mouth. It is generally attributed to some disturbance of the digestion, but in reality is rarely due to digestive disturbance as "stomach trouble" is due to the "food disagreeing." Doctors know that "stomach trouble" nine times out of ten, is due to some organic or functional condition not dependent upon the diet, and that a bad taste in the mouth is a symptom of many conditions apart from dyspepsia.

For instance, Dr. T. F. Kelly observed that many patients with high blood pressure complained of a peculiar and persistent bad taste. It was about the only symptom complained of at all in several cases.

In the earlier stages of chronic Bright's disease, which generally begins insidiously and is therefore neglected or misinterpreted by the patient, the patient often notices a bad taste in the mouth upon rising in the morning, due, perhaps, to a compensatory effort to eliminate toxic material in the saliva. It is a familiar observation that headache in the back of the head or neck is felt early in the morning in certain cases of Bright's disease, with or without the bad taste, and this, too, is probably toxic.

Chronic trouble in the gall-bladder (inflammation of gall-bladder) is not rarely the explanation of a bitter taste which troubles the patient. Sometimes this taste is compared with that of raw eggs. In several instances the peculiar taste was noted by the patient week before the appearance of jaundice.

Intestinal worms in the great accessory glands, with relations of matter and excretions to the skin and through the mucous canals, an intestinal taste of which the patient is conscious, as well as an odor of which may be quite his chief complaint. Diagnose these great intestinal causes of bad taste.

In pulmonary tuberculosis the patient often complains of a bad taste which is noticed from about seven o'clock in the morning until noon, in spite of which he continues to eat and drink.

Questions and Answers

"Medicated Cotton" Not Medicated.

A. D. L.—What is the difference between cotton batting and medicated cotton used by doctors and nurses?

ANSWER: Cotton containing more or less oil or other oil-like substance, especially if "medicated cotton," is usually of oil-blended, and whitened by heat, but otherwise, it is just plain cotton.

Constipation.

Mrs. W. W. B.—What is the best remedy for habitual constipation?

ANSWER: There is no one cause in the case of the constipated person, so there will be no one receipt or remedy. Individual analysis is the best way to find the cause.

Human and Bovine Tuberculosis.

A. B.—Will you kindly inform me whether there is any possibility of a human being's having tuberculosis by drinking milk from tuberculosis patients?

ANSWER: I am glad to assure you that there is no danger in this.

But I do feel it cowardly and silly,

for fear of what might fall, as to prevent.

The time of life; arming myself with patience.

To stay, the providence of some high power.

That governs us below."

Always right in front of us, locusts

the stumps and forward figure of our newer world (that which we are not yet, but none shall be) and it is not so shrouded in darkness but is being bathed with the light.

"Let us then be up and doing,

With a heart for any fate."

Pocket-Book Edition.

Some years ago a dear old minister was examining a candidate for admission into the church. The man had answered all the questions very satisfactorily, so the minister said, "Come again, but finding the present safe."

Another time a dear old man said, "How your pocket-book looks now!"

"It has not, then, I have not lost sight in the conversation of your every man professing to be an American, and living freely and happily and childhood, comes the old man, who has been converted at a late period, that you will not lose your pocket-book, Mr. ——"

"I don't care about my pocket-book,

but I care about you, Mr. ——"

"I care about my pocket-book, Mr. ——"

"I care about you, Mr. ——"

"I care about my pocket-book, Mr. ——"

"I care about you, Mr. ——"

"I care about my pocket-book, Mr. ——"

"I care about you, Mr. ——"

"I care about my pocket-book, Mr. ——"

"I care about you, Mr. ——"

"I care about my pocket-book, Mr. ——"

"I care about you, Mr. ——"

"I care about my pocket-book, Mr. ——"

"I care about you, Mr. ——"

"I care about my pocket-book, Mr. ——"

"I care about you, Mr. ——"

"I care about my pocket-book, Mr. ——"

"I care about you, Mr. ——"

"I care about my pocket-book, Mr. ——"

"I care about you, Mr. ——"

"I care about my pocket-book, Mr. ——"

"I care about you, Mr. ——"

"I care about my pocket-book, Mr. ——"

"I care about you, Mr. ——"