GOVERNOR JAMES M. COX NOMINATED AT SAN FRANCISCO FOR PRESIDENT

Ohio Man Wins on the 44th Ballot—Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt Nominated for Vice President

The National Democratic Convention, in session at San Francisco, Monday, June 28, finally nominated Governor James M. Cox, of Ohio, for President of the United States Tuesday morning of this week.

The nomination was made on the 44th ballot. During the entire 44 ballots, the three leading candidates were McAdoo, Cox, and Palmer. On the opening ballot, Friday, Governor Cox had third place. However, he soon passed Palmer, and on the twelfth ballot, went ahead of McAdoo. Then began the real battle between Cox and McAdoo. At the end of the 39th roll call, Saturday at midnight, the strength of the two was virtually the same. On the 38th Attorney General Palmer withdrew from the race, and by the 42nd, Cox was well ahead. Then the delegations from the big and little states rapidly joined the procession, giving the Ohio man a majority on the 43d ballot. Colorado changed its vote to him on the 44th, giving the necessary two-thirds, and the nomination was then made unanimous on the forty-four ballots, two were taken last Friday night; fourteen at the first session Saturday and six at the Saturday night session. There were 22 recorded Monday, 14 at the all day session, and eight at night.

After the nomination of Governor Cox, early Tuesday morning, adjourned since Monday, June 28, finally nominated Governor James M. Cox, of Ohio, for President of the United States Tuesday morning of this week.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, was nominated at the afternoon session. A band wagon movement for him got under way soon after the convention assembled; and although other candidates, among them, Governor Stewart, of Montana, and Major General L. D. Tyson, of Tennessee, were presented there was no doubt from the first that Mr. Roosevelt would be named. The convention adjourned at 3:29 p. m. Tuesday, just fourteen minutes after the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt.

The Democratic national convention of 1920 narrowly missed equalling in balloting the one of 1912, that nominated Woodrow Wilson. At the Baltimore convention, 46 ballots were required for President Wilson to come out victorious over Speaker Champ Clark; and in the Frisco convention 44, or only two less were necessary to decide the fight between William G. McAdoo and Governor Cox, the latter winning out after the Palmer delegates swung into his column following their release by the attorney general.

MR. GARDNER CONGRATULATES MR. MORRISON

COUNTY SUMMER SCHOOL WILL BEGIN JULY THE 19

Lieutenant Governor O. Max Gardner last Tuesday wired his congratulations to Cameron Morrison who defeated him in the second primary for the Democratic nomination for governor Saturday and assured the nominee of loyal support.

"I wish to repeat," said Mr. Gardner in a statement issued at Shelby Tuesday, "that I conducted a clean, fair fight and I accept the results without bitterness and without resentment."

With the Gardner forces conceding defeat, the interest in the vote which will be canvassed by the State Board of Elections in due form is purely academic. In returns from ninety-seven counties compiled by The News and Observer the vote stood: Morrison, 66,347; Gardner, 57,567.

Mr. Morrison also received congratulations and assurances of aid in his campaign from Congressman Clyde R. Hoey, of Shelby.

Heriot Clarkson, Morrison campaign manager, Tuesday, received a telegram of congratulations from Judge J. Crawford Biggs, campaign manager for Mr. Gardner, to which Mr. Clarkson replied.

Mr. Gardner's telegram to Mr. Morrison follows:

"I extend my congratulations and assure you of my loyal support."

Mr. Morrison's Reply

"Deeply appreciate your message of congratulations and assurances of support. The pleasure of my victory is marred by the fact that it could only come through the defeat of you and the thousands of patriotic Democrats who supported you."

Mr. Hoey's telegram

Congressman Hoey's telegram reads as follows:

"I extend congratulations and my services shall be freely given to aid in rolling up a great Democratic majority for you and the entire state and national tickets."

Judge Biggs' telegram

Judge Biggs' telegram to Mr. Clarkson and the reply are as follows:

"Permit me to extend my congratulations to you and to assure you I appreciate the cordial expressions in your statement today."

Mr. Clarkson's Reply

"Thanks for telegram. We have had our family differences. Now all together against our ancient foe."

Mr. Gardner's Statement

Shelby, July 5.—Lieutenant Governor O. Max Gardner, after sending Hon. Cameron Morrison a telegram of congratulations, today gave out the following statement:

"The unofficial returns indicate that my opponent, Hon. Cameron Morrison, was nominated for governor in the primary last Saturday. I shall not attempt any review of the campaign nor any discussion of the causes leading to my defeat. However, I wish to repeat that I conducted a clean, fair fight, and I accept the results without bitterness and without resentment. No candidate ever had truer, more loyal or devoted friends, and I tender to each and every one of them the sincere gratitude of my heart for the heroic and unselfish service which they so rendered me in the contest, and my chief regret is for them, rather than for myself.

"It is needless to say that I shall give my hearty support to my opponent and the entire Democratic ticket in state and nation."

MORRISON NOMINATED

Majority From Eight to Ten Thousand

The result of the second primary in which Cameron Morrison and O. Max Gardner were candidates for Governor resulted in the nomination of Mr. Morrison by a majority of from eight to ten thousand. Mr. Morrison has carried all the five Congressional districts.

Judge W. P. Stacy is nominated for Supreme Court Justice over Judge Long by a majority of more than was supposed to be at first, the majority being about seven thousand out of fifteen thousand as was first published.

Baxter Durham leads Jas. P. Cook by about the same majority. Mr. Morrison carried the Seventh Congressional district by nearly two to one, carrying every one of the thirteen counties except two.

"All Together," Says Clarkson

The manager of Cameron Morrison for Governor, Mr. Heriot Clarkson has closed the headquarters at Raleigh and exerts all party men everywhere to unite now and present a solid front to the foe. He has given out the following statement:

"The battle of ballots between Democrats is over, and it is now the duty of us all to forget differences, buckle on our armor, unfurl our flags and go forward a united party against a common foe—the Republican party. The Democrats have nominated their standard bearer by the people, the Republicans by a coterie, a favored few—one represents the people, the other a political oligarchy. We must maintain the great principles of the great Democratic party—equal and exact justice to all; equal rights to all; special privileges to none; equality of opportunity to all. These principles are immortal as the ideal of the Golden Rule, 'Do unto others as you would have them do unto you.'"

"These principles have been illustrated in practice in recent years by the Democratic party in enactment of the monetary system, by establishing all over the nation twelve regional banks, thus destroying the monopoly of the few in controlling the money of our country; by the farm loan bank, giving to the farmers an opportunity of home ownership, and by many other beneficial laws in the interest of the people. We have had no class trouble in the beloved southland, and we want none. The time has come when, in a spirit of fairness, we must look into the needs of the toiler and breadwinner and see that righteous laws are enacted in his favor.

"I appreciate sincerely the courtesies shown me by the people of Raleigh and the Raleigh reporters and the press of the state. I desire to publicly express my hearty appreciation of the courtesies shown me by Mr. Charles Ross, manager of the campaign of that Christian gentleman and statesman, Hon. Robert N. Page. I desire heartily to thank Mr. Thad S. Page, a worthy son of a noble sire, for many kindnesses and courtesies shown me.

"The relations existing between Judge Crawford Biggs, manager for Hon. O. Max Gardner and myself have been cordial and pleasant, and I appreciate his many courtesies. I have known Hon. O. Max Gardner since early manhood. A virile, splendid North Carolinian.

"The contest is over. Let us forgive and forget. By the partisans on both sides, I know much has been said in the heat of contest that is regretted.

"I appeal to both sides to make amends. A gentleman cannot afford to do otherwise.

"I thank with all my heart the supporters of Hon. Cameron Morrison

BIG DAY AT THOMASVILLE ORPHANAGE

"Orphanage Day" Wednesday of last week drew a large crowd to Thomasville and at 10 o'clock that morning the spacious auditorium was filled with interested spectators when the exercises began.

The first hour was devoted to exercises by children of the orphanage. The next hour was given to the annual address, which was delivered by Raymond Dunn, of Enfield. In his address, Mr. Dunn insisted on sounding a note of optimism by catching up the spirit of occasions like this and singing it and talking it everywhere. The speaker expressed the opinion that Thomasville Baptist Orphanage is the greatest institution in North Carolina.

General Manager M. L. Kesler then announced the winning of diplomas by girls and one boy. The medals were presented in a neat speech by Gerald Johnson, of the Greensboro News.

Afterwards the trustees made their report through their president, F. P. Hobgood, who stated that $16 per month is now required per capita whereas about five years ago it was just half this amount. He stated further that the general contribution fund has run $65,000 more the past year than the year previous, which it should be in view of increasing expenses. Dr. Hobgood further stated that Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Haywood, of Durham, had given $10,000 for the equipment of a kindergarten for the Miles Durham nursery.

It was learned privately that a fund of $25,000 is in sight for the erection of a girl's building, the donor's name being withheld.

The board of trustees voted $250 to Archibald Johnson, editor of Charity and Children, as a present after 25 years of faithful service for the orphanage. The trustees also voted a present of $250 to Miss Annie Hall, who has spent more than 25 years of service for the orphanage, and who is at present convalescing in a hospital after undergoing an operation.

According to reports received by the trustees from the various working departments of the orphanage, the farm under the management of J. R. Black, and the printing shop under the management of C. E. Howell, each pays a dividend to the institution.

Five hundred and twelve children were enrolled at the orphanage the past year.

son for the unselfish, self-sacrificing devotion to his cause. I never expect to again see such an army of fighters in anyone's behalf. Their trust and kindness to me can never be forgotten.

"May God bless and prosper North Carolina."

WORTHVILLE GETS NEXT SINGERS' CONVENTION

The call meeting of the Singers' Union at Pleasant Garden, N. C., church, Sunday, June 13, was quite a success, attended by a large crowd of both singers and visitors. There were singers from Alamance, Rockingham, Guilford, and Randolph counties. The songs were principally taken from "The Gleaner" and "Victory," which will be the convention books this year.

Invitations came from a number of places for the annual convention to meet in their churches; but since 1902 the island had been cleaned up and Havana, where previously from 200 to 1,200 had annually succumbed to yellow fever, since "has been virtually free from the disease."

Soon after the United States entered the world war General Gorgas announced the organization of the extensive system devised for the "reconstruction" for soldiers crippled in the war which included the establishment of orthopedic hospitals behind the firing lines in France, the construction hospitals in the great centers of America and the retaining of crippled men and preparation for resuming their vocations or learning new ones.

General Gorgas reached the age limit while still on duty in France in 1918. When the war was over he was retired from active service in the army.

General Gorgas was born in Mobile, Ala., October 3, 1854, the son of a Confederate general. He was graduated from the University of the South in 1875. He was appointed a surgeon in the United States army in 1880.

Col. T. L. Kirkpatrick, president of the Wilmington, Charlotte highway, wired Hon. A. W. McLean, national committeeman at San Francisco, asking that he invite Governor Cox to address a mass meeting in Raleigh on the first day of the extra session of the legislature, in the interest of good roads, it was announced from Charlotte yesterday.

Congratulations from President Wilson were received by Governor Cox upon his nomination. The message from the White House received at the governor's office in Columbus and transmitted to his home at Dayton read:

"Please accept my hearty congratulations and cordial best wishes."

GENERAL GORGAS DIED IN LONDON

Former Surgeon-General of the United States Army—Was One of World's Greatest Authorities

Major General William C. Gorgas, former surgeon general of the United States army, died in London, last Sunday morning, after an illness or three weeks, following a stroke or apoplexy. Although his condition had been critical, some improvement had been shown, and quite recently the announcement had been made that he might be able to return home.

General Gorgas went to London preparatory to a mission to West Africa in behalf of the British government to investigate sanitary conditions, but suffered a stroke of apoplexy and was sent to a hospital for treatment.

Several American officers have been with General Gorgas during his illness, including Brigadier General Robert Noble, assistant surgeon general of the United States army, who is now head of the mission.

Major General Gorgas was considered one of the world's foremost authorities on military medicine and surgery. He fought and defeated the malarial mosquito in Panama and thus made possible the building of that great waterway. He dislodged yellow fever from its century-old stronghold in Havana and under the direction of the United States government and the Rockefeller Foundation supervised the campaigns against that dread disease in Central America, Peru and Ecuador.

At the invitation of the British government he went to South Africa in 1913 to establish sanitary conditions in the Rand, as a result of which he received high honors from the medical profession in London and Oxford University conferred a degree upon him.

In the last ten years his services were sought to give battle to plagues in many parts of the world. When the typhus epidemic began in Serbia in the war an effort was made to have him undertake the campaign against it, but at that time he was needed to direct the medical and surgical work for the American army in France.

He was decorated by the French government and made a commander of the Legion of Honor and knighted by King George of England, the latter for, as the King expressed it to him, making possible the construction of the great canal.

In the days of the old French company which attempted to build the canal, tropical diseases annually claimed one-fourth of all its workers. The French were powerless before this pestilence.

In nine years, by a systematic campaign for the destruction of the mosquito, General Gorgas virtually drove these diseases from the Isthmus. When he gave up the work to accept the post of surgeon-general in the army in 1914 deaths among the canal workers had been reduced to 5 per thousand annually. Congress in recognition of his achievement made him a major-general and the world hailed him as one of the great men of medical science.

His work in combatting yellow fever in Havana began when he went to Cuba with the rank of major in the Spanish war. When he left Cuba in 1902 the island had been cleaned up and Havana, where previously from 200 to 1,200 had annually succumbed to yellow fever, since "has been virtually free from the disease."
