

SILER CITY LOSES TO ASHEBORO; SCORE 3 to 1

Siler City Saved From a Shut Out By Lindley's Triple Followed By a Hit By Curtis
Asheboro won an exciting game from Siler City here last Thursday afternoon, 3 to 1. The game was a not pitchers' battle between Jenkins and Lindley, with the odds favoring the former, Jenkins having the visitors eating out of his hand all the way. With the exception of the fourth inning when three hits and an error gave Asheboro three runs, Lindley had the locals guessing. Siler City was saved from a shut out in the 7th inning, when Lindley tripled and scored on D. Curtis' single. The playing of Neece on short for the locals was one of the features of the game. Carthage Boy Has Odd Experience
Carthage, June 10.—Stepping on top of a milk can from a chair while at play on the back porch, Charles, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Barringer, caused his mother a half hour of mental anguish, as his little body slipped through the opening in the top and he became wedged. His screams attracted his mother, and when she found him only his head and left arm were visible, his body and right arm being inside the can. After vain efforts to release him she summoned several neighbors and after working several minutes he was released from the can none the worse for his experience.—Exchange.

WANTS HIS MONEY BACK

"I can thank Mr. O'Brien, a neighbor, for my recovery from severe colic attacks and stomach trouble that nearly forced me to cross the river Jordan. I spent thousands of dollars in the past nine years for doctors and medicine and would have died but for my neighbor's advice to use Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. I wish I had the money back I spent for other medicine." When Lincoln Refused to Rise

A capital story of Lincoln's early political life is told in John Wesley Hill's new book, "Abraham Lincoln, Man of God" (Putnam). It seems that in 1846, during a canvass for Congress, Lincoln attended a preaching service of Peter Cartwright's. Cartwright called on all desiring to go to Heaven to stand up. All arose but Lincoln. Then he asked all to rise who did not want to go to hell. Lincoln remained still seated. "I am surprised," said Cartwright, "to see Abe Lincoln sitting back there unmoved by these appeals. If Mr. Lincoln does not want to go to Heaven and does not want to escape hell, perhaps he will tell us where he does want to go. Lincoln slowly arose and replied, "I am going to Congress."

Much Fishing Along Yadkin

Cotton mill strikers from Kannapolis, Concord and other points adjoining with large numbers of other folks, including many out of work at Badin, are employing much of their time fishing along the banks of the Yadkin River and tributary streams and around the edge of the Badin lake. Large numbers of automobiles come daily to the southern part of this county and the northern part of Montgomery and many camp there for as long as a week, it is reported.

Around Stokes Ferry, in this county, many are putting in the time fishing, while at Chandler's, along the back waters in Beaver Dam Creek and all around the Badin lake hundreds are fishing daily, it is said.

More fish are reported this year in these waters than ever before and conditions for the past couple weeks in particular are said to have been ideal for fishing there. Another source of profitable sport is gigging and shooting frogs at night and many are taking part in this pastime.

The Yadkin is fast becoming the sporting ground of this part of the state and this is taken as but a foretaste of what will probably be the situation in coming years after the new big dam near High Rock has been built and all southern Davidson will be one great fish pond.—The Dispatch.
