TELEPHONE OPERATOR PREVENTS BANK ROBBERY

Four men were caught early last Thursday morning almost red handed when they tried to enter the Kernersville Bank, by Mrs. Dewey Mustin, telephone operator. The telephone exchange of Kernersville is directly over the bank, also the apartment occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Mustin. While two men were trying to enter the bank, two came up the steps armed with pistols and ropes, supposed to tie Mr. and Mrs. Mustin. While the men were working with the lock, Mr. Mustin who had been awakened by his wife, made several telephone connections in the town summoning assistance. Then as the two men below succeeded in forcing open the window of the bank below Mr. Mustin rang the telephone bell of the bank violently which must have given the impression to the robbers of an alarm. They all fled but were overtaken soon after on the Winston-Salem road by officers and placed in jail.

Metts Brigadier of Reserves

Adjutant General John B. Metts has been appointed a general officer in the reserve corps. Eight officers were appointed at the same time.

General Metts commanded the 119 Infantry during the World War and was with this organization constantly from its training days to the day of muster out. He was in the Somme offensive and assisted in the assault on the Hindenburg line near Bellicourt, France. His entire war record was highly commendable, and he deserves the promotion thus given him.

The snow and sleet of last week again hit Virginia hard, crippling the telephone and telegraph service and it was with difficulty that the trains ran.

HISTORY OF THE GROWING TOWN OF BENNETT

Mr. A. D. Phillips has in a recent issue of The Carolina Banner written an article on Bennett and we copy extracts from it:

Some people in adjoining counties want to know where Bennett is and what the people are doing there for a living.

Bennett is in the extreme portion of western Chatham county, and eastern Randolph county—a section of country which in bygone days, 25 entire years ago, was considered a dark corner, inhabited by wild hogs, sheep and turkeys. It is said that at that time there were a many turkey blinds and blooded stiffs as they were dwelling houses in the entire flat-woods country.

Some 15 or more years ago the Bennett place was built on the something for growing Bennett which Maj. H. A. London predicted years ago—that the dark corner of Chatham and Randolph counties would be the garden spot of the two counties.

Lands are very fertile and adapted to the growth of all growing crops such as wheat, corn and yellow tobacco. Society good, and all doors stand wide open with the latch string on both sides welcoming all good people to settle among us, and especially capitalists who are contemplating building and operating hosiery or cotton mills, etc.

Deputy Lemons Captures Still

A large copper still was captured in the southern part of Randolph county in Richland township Monday afternoon. It was captured by Deputy Sheriff Lemons, who also captured several gallons of whisky.
