There has been no response from the chairman of the Republican executive committee to the challenge that was made by Mr. C. C. Cranford, chairman of the Democratic executive committee for a joint campaign this fall.

A joint campaign this fall would be fair for the people of the county as they would hear the political issues of the day discussed. We believe if it were voted upon, that the majority of the women and men would prefer a joint discussion. Many of the people do not have the time to acquaint themselves with some of the issues, in which every one should be interested, but having some one make a study of the problems and present them, should be of much benefit.

SIGNIFICANCE OF RECENT PRIMARIES

Efforts to minimize the significance of recent Republican primaries are not wholly convincing to the thoughtful voter interested in the trend of things political. Republican newspapers smile at the idea of Pinchot's victory over the Old Guard in Pennsylvania being a slap at the administration; they sneered at the same claim when Beveridge defeated New in Indiana, and they tried to appear unconcerned over Brookhart's victory in Iowa.

Each of these primaries indicated the overwhelming dissatisfaction of Republicans who are heartily disgusted with the present administration and Congress, but none of them carries such utter and complete repudiation, as exemplified in the Senate today, as does the defeat of Senator Porter J. McCumber.

Through the operation of the seniority rule the senior Senator from North Dakota had become chairman of the finance committee, a distinction never before held by a western states representative. It is almost inconceivable that a state should relinquish the honor and power which goes with the most important post in congress, yet McCumber was defeated for re-nomination.

It is a waste of time to search for the reason. Since his elevation to his present post Senator McCumber has been in the limelight constantly as the chief proponent of the tariff bill which bears his name. The name of McCumber is associated with the high tariff. The high tariff is the chief concern of the Republican party. Republican voters, obviously, do not subscribe to the tariff views of party leaders. Administration apologists are finding it difficult to explain these things. You can't fool all the people all the time.

LET'S HAVE WINTER GARDENS

Why should we feel that because we "live in the country" we must needs look forward to winter as the time when we must live out of cans and paper bags? The reason is we have not aroused ourselves sufficiently as a community to have "winter gardens." Some of the very best vegetables grow and thrive in winter. Some few people of the town and county already have a good stand of carrots, parsnips, salsify, with turnip seeds either in the ground, or the "patch" mellowing waiting to sow the seed the first of September, as is a custom with some of our older ancestors, in order to have "sweet turnips." There are many kinds of greens that make delicious meals in winter and stay green if they have a slight covering of leaves or pine boughs. Some of these are spinach, Chinese petan, kale and rape and various other species of the green family. Food specialists tell us we need something green or fresh, and it is possible for most of us to have a "cabbage patch" or "turnip patch" or "winter garden."

FRANKLINVILLE NEWS

As was stated in The Courier last week Aunt Lovie Ann Pugh died at her home on Walnut street August 14, after a short illness of about a week. The funeral was conducted at the Baptist church August 15 by the pastor, Rev. James Morgan, after which the remains were tenderly laid to rest in the Baptist church cemetery. Deceased was born April 22, 1835, being 87 years old. She was a daughter of the late Jessie Jugh, who for several years lived near Marley's Mill, moving to Cedar Falls soon after the first cotton factory was built at that place, but soon afterwards moved to this place, purchased a truck farm from the late Phillip Horney and built the residence which still stands and where the deceased had lived for 29 or 30 years. She was one of 12 children; only one survives her, Mrs. W. C. Jordan, but is survived by quite a number of other relatives and friends.

She professed faith in Christ when quite young at Salem Church about midway between Franklinville and Ramseur and joined the Baptist church at Cedar Falls where she remained a faithful member. The deceased was one of our best citizens, having taught school for a number of years in this community and engaged in any work for the uplift of the people. She will be sadly missed.

CENTRIFUGAL AMALGAMATOR

W. P. JOBSON, INVENTOR, MINING MACHINERY, HERE

Mr. W. P. Jobson, who spent several months in this section of North Carolina during the past winter, has returned to Asheboro after an extended trip through the western states in the interest of the Centrifugal Amalgamator. Mr. Jobson installed two machines at the Iola gold mine at Candor last winter which are proving most satisfactory. It will no doubt be a matter of interest to our readers to see the picture of the Centrifugal Amalgamator and know what it is.

The Centrifugal Amalgamator is considered the best and most up to date free gold saving device of the day, having a capacity of from 3 to 5 tons per hour.

The weight fully equipped is 700 pounds, it can be knocked down so that the largest piece will weigh 150 pounds, making it convenient to transport over rough country and mountains. The workmanship is first class in every respect. The material in this machine is the finest grade of bronze and a high grade of carbon steel, the cast iron is chilled grey. The bearings are all bronze and steel throughout.

The inside of the bowl is constructed so that there is a band of mercury 4 inches in width and 42 inches in circumference which makes it impossible for the gold to get by when proper speed is used. The pulp is fed in the top of the machine by means of a 3/4 inch centrifugal pump, forcing the pulp down by the mercury. With the centrifugal motion and specific gravity throwing the gold into the mercury, which grabs the gold and retains it in the machine, the pulp passes down the outside bowl and then up through the inside and out through the hollow shaft to the pump. It requires 10 horsepower to drive the machine and two pumps. For a mill tailing proposition this entire plant can be assembled on two round poles 25 feet long and 8 inches in diameter. This will enable the operator to skid the entire plant up to the work saving conveyor system, two men can operate this outfit. The machine can be locked up making it impossible for any one to get to the amalgam but the man who has the key for same.

This machine with from 10 to 20 pounds of mercury, will collect $2,000 worth of gold. A clean up can be made in from five to eight minutes and have it running again. It will take the output from a ten stamp mill, remove the amalgam plates and feed into the machine, and run the mill two days longer each week, instead of stopping to clean up. This device is not an experiment, but has been put through the most severe tests and it has never failed to recover gold when it was in the ore. It is guaranteed to recover 95 per cent of free gold with a 20 per cent mixture.

Much interest has been manifested in the installation of the machines at the Iola mine.

Miss Yow to Go to Danville.

The friends of Miss Annie Yow, of Thomasville, will be interested to know that she has been appointed superintendent of the Danville General Hospital. Miss Yow will assume charge of her new duties about the first of September. She is at present superintendent of the Guilford General Hospital in High Point.
