

LETTER OF APPRECIATION FROM FARM FEDERATION

The following letter from Mr. Samuel R. Guard, director of American Farm Bureau Federation, is much appreciated.

"The Courier, Asheboro, N. C. Dear Sirs: "Mr. R. C. Pollock has brought to my attention the Farm Bureau edition of The Courier. I write to express the sincere appreciation of the American Farm Bureau Federation for the Farm Bureau edition of The Courier.

"The Randolph County Farm Bureau, North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation, and the American Farm Bureau Federation will all be greatly benefitted by this work which you have done. We hope that the special edition will strike a responsive cord among your people and that you will benefit materially as well as those whose cause you have served.

"With earnest wishes for your enlarging success and assuring you that this department is at your command whenever it can be of service, I am

"Very sincerely yours, "AMERICAN FARM BUREAU FEDERATION,

"SAMUEL R. GUARD, Director Department of Information."

RECEIVING POINTS FOR COTTON IN MONTGOMERY

Candor, Mt. Gilead and Troy have been fixed as receiving points for the cotton that has been signed into the Co-operative Marketing Association in Montgomery county. The cotton received at Troy and Candor will be shipped to the central warehouse, but that at Mt. Gilead will be warehoused there.

RANDOLPH COUNTY MAN DIES IN GREENSBORO

Jesse Clarkson Wilson, formerly of this county, died at his home in Greensboro last Friday morning following a protracted illness.

Mr. Wilson was born in Randolph county, near the old Friends meeting house of Providence, October 13, 1852. He has been a life-long Friend, as were his parents. He was educated at New Garden boarding school and was for 49 years a successful teacher in the public schools of North and South Carolina. Among the places where he has taught in this state are: Guilford, Tabernacle, Alamance, Spring, Providence, Seagrave, Saxon, Kamsaur and Groomtown.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, Floyd Wilson, of High Point, and O. D. Wilson, of Hamlet; and two daughters, Misses Ruth and Lois Wilson, of Greensboro.

The burial took place at the cemetery at Tabernacle church.

Shooting at Mt. Gilead.

Clara Parker, a colored woman, was killed at the home of Baxter Rush, also colored, about three miles from Mt. Gilead last Sunday. It is said that Dirk Lindsay went to the home of Rush where Clara Parker was staying, and that Clara had not gotten up. Rush called her at the window and when she raised up to answer, he shot, blowing the whole top of her head off. Both men escaped in a car, but Rush was caught several hours later and brought to jail to await trial. Lindsay is still at large. It is said jealousy was the cause of the shooting. Both men were drinking at the time.

Community Fairs in Moore.

During October there will be a round of community fairs in Moore county. The Vass fair will cover the dates October 26th and 27th. Prizes numbering some 150 are offered as general premiums, and the management calculates that with the experience of last year the interest shown will be far greater, and that more exhibits will be on hand and a much larger attendance may be expected.

CAPTURE THREE STILLS IN MONTGOMERY LAST WEEK

Federal prohibition officers captured three stills in Montgomery county last week and arrested three men as well. Two of the stills were found in operation near the home of Robert Williams at Harrisville. No one was at the place when the officers arrived, but Williams was plowing close by. He was arrested, and placed under a $300 bond for appearance at the next term of federal court in Greensboro. One still was copper and one was of tin. A third still, also in operation, was found at Biscoe near the home of Pete Goins, colored. The officers found another colored man leaving the home of Goins with a pint of liquor. Both negroes were brought before Commissioner Ewing. Goins, who the man said gave him the whiskey, was placed under a $300 bond, and as he was unable to pay it, was placed in jail to await trial.

Fishing in Deep River.

Some days ago quite a number of the people in the community of Walker's Mill, on Deep river met at the mill for a day's fishing. It was one of those days that come occasionally in life that makes us feel glad that we are permitted to be present. "The day was lovely, and there was that unmistakable evidence of hospitality and good will among the entire number present that caused those of us out of the community to know that we were welcome. Some time near 12 o'clock the ladies began to fry fish as they were brought in from the men handling the seines. This was kept up till near three o'clock when they quit fishing, after having caught more than two bushels of fish, some of them weighing as much as six pounds.

Under a table groaning with other good things to eat, and then piled up with fried fish it was all that a human could ask.

In looking around the place I was told by one of the citizens there that this place was once known as the Bell Mill, it then quickly dawned on me that this was the place where Cornwallis marched his army the next day after the hard-fought battle at Guilford Courthouse. The effect of which was to break down the English power in our state, subdue the Tories and was the blow that broke the chain of tyranny which bound our country to England. For a month the American people had been in breathless anxiety. Cornwallis had sought eagerly a trail by battle with Gen. Greene, but after this he avoided any other conflict with the American army.

I would not help but compare in my mind, the happy and peaceful spirit which characterized the social gathering on that day, with the troublesome times, which the people must have undergone, when there was encamped on the very same ground that well trained and dangerous foe to American freedom, the British army under control of the skilled and brave Lord Cornwallis.

It was a pleasure to be with these people on the day first referred to, and to know that they have in their veins the same blood that marked their ancestors, as people of pure patriotism, unsullied devotion to liberty, and unyielding opposition to every form of tyranny. The Bell mill has been replaced by an up to date roller mill, which now is owned by Mr. Will Coletrane, Mr. Routh and I think one other.

May the people of that section live long and happy, and again meet at their annual fishing place.

—VISITOR.

Six Killed When Plane Falls.

Six occupants of a Martin bombing plane were killed Saturday night while participating in a flying circus at Mineola, N. Y., after a course of instruction for reserve and regular army officers. The machine fell in a nose dive, and burst into flames immediately upon hitting the ground. It was a twin motor bomber, and the heaviest machine in the field.

WADESBORO WOMAN WRITES POEMS ON MEN AND WOMEN

Mrs. Mary Rose Thompson has written for Pithy Paragraphs in the Charlotte Observer, the following lines on women and men.

Women.

Of all the girls that ever I knew, I never saw one that I thought would do. I wanted a wife that was nice and neat. That was up to date and that had small feet. I wanted a wife that was loving and kind. And that hadn't too much original mind. I wanted a wife that could cook and sew. And that wasn't eternally on the go. I wanted a wife that just loved to keep house. And that wasn't too timid to milk the cows. I wanted a wife that was strikingly beautiful. Intelligent, rich, and exceedingly dutiful. That isn't so much to demand in a wife. But still she's not found, though I've looked all my life.

Men.

I too, go slow. When it comes to the men. Though they've tried to persuade me Again and again. Now Billy, he was handsome, With hair like jet, But he always was smoking A vile cigarette. You may think them as meek As ever was Moses, Or equally as sweet As a garden of roses Yet whatever they seem To be, or have been, Still you just can't tell, One thing about men.

Liberty to Have Electric Lights.

The Liberty electric light system is to be vastly improved by current furnished by the Sand Hill Light and Power Co. At present there are 25 street lights. Business houses and private homes are taking current liberally.
