GROCER THANKFUL

"I had been sick nearly 20 years with stomach trouble and was slowly starving to death as everything I ate caused terrible gas and pain and my food did not digest. I was reduced to 115 pounds. A friend advised me to take Mayr's Wonderful Remedy about 4 months ago, which I did and now 151 lbs., and can eat anything. I am very thankful for Mayr's Wonderful Remedy." It removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract, and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver, and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at Standard Drug Company, and Druggist everywhere.

SUGGESTIONS ON DAIRY CALF

Great Care and Attention is Necessary to Raise Animal Successfully on Skim Milk.

In dairying the farmer should raise his own calves. Many farmers are not successful in raising them on skim milk. Whole milk may produce the best calf, but not necessarily the best cow. As good an animal can be produced on skim milk as can be produced on whole milk, but greater care and attention is required in producing the former.

The calf should nurse its mother for the first few days, after which it should be removed and fed by hand. Whole milk, warm and fresh from the mother, should be given for ten days or two weeks at least. Ten to twelve pounds per day in two or three feeds should be given at first, and the length of time that it should be continued depends upon the strength of the calf. Ordinarily ten days to two weeks will be required to make the change from whole milk to skim milk.

Gradually substitute skim milk for whole milk, increasing the former until the whole milk is entirely replaced. This may be a week, or it may be a month. Skim milk should be warm and sweet when fed, as cold, sour milk is the greatest cause of scour. It may be fed for six or seven months, depending mainly upon the supply. It should be given until the calf is five months of age at least.—Extension Service, Colorado Agricultural College.

SMUTTY SILAGE FED SAFELY

No Harm Follows Test Made by Expert in Feeding Tainted Material to Holstein Heifer.

Smutty silage can be fed to live stock with no danger of ill consequences, says T. W. Gullikson of the dairy husbandry division at University farm at St. Paul. Not so long ago many inquiries were being received at the dairy division headquarters regarding the advisability of feeding smut-infested corn in the form of ensilage. To answer these questions authoritatively Mr. Gullikson had collected some 800 pounds of pure corn smut which he ran through the ensilage cutter and put in sacks which he placed in the silo and covered with about ten feet of ensilage. A few months later the corn smut in the bags was substituted for the regular silage ration and fed to a Holstein heifer at the rate of 18 to 30 pounds a day. The heifer was not forewarned of the abrupt change in her diet, but took no exceptions to the corn-smut menu, appearing in fact to relish it. Mr. Gullikson says the feeding of the smut was continued for three weeks, during which the heifer remained normal in every respect.

PUMPKIN SEEDS NUTRITIOUS

Mistaken Idea to Think That Material Will Increase Kidney Secretions in Cows.

There is a tradition among some farmers that pumpkin seeds increase kidney secretions, lead to dry up cows, and therefore should not be fed. There is no real foundation for such an opinion. Pumpkin seeds are nutritious and should not be wasted. There is no danger whatsoever in feeding them to dairy cows.

CAREFULLY WATCH ALL COWS

Animal Losing Flesh Rapidly Probably Needs More Feed, or More Balanced Ration.

Watch the cows. The animal that loses flesh rapidly probably needs more feed, or a more perfectly balanced ration. When a cow takes on fat instead of giving a full flow of milk, it is probable she needs more protein and less carbohydrates in her ration.

Lacking in Cow Ration.

It is a well-known fact that lime and phosphorus are the ash conditions that are frequently lacking in the ration of the average dairy cow and especially during the dry period.

Keep Quarters Clean.

Dairy cattle quarters must be kept clean and the manure removed daily from the stalls.

Adds to Productivity.

Lime will add to the productivity of many pastures.
