REFINER SHOWS
MAY'S DISTORTION OF FACTS IN REDUCTION.

A form of intellectual dishonesty that persuades those it afflicts that every one else in the world is wrong. Representative Nicholas Smith, of Ohio, seems to be one of them. In speaking to a Republican Club in Washington of the Federal expenditures between 1918 and 1921, Mr. Longworth stated that the national debt had in eight months increased from $1,000,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 and the cost of operation of the Government had increased. The purpose of this statement was to create the impression that the income tax was wasteful and that the Democratic administration was responsible for the increase and to leave the impression that Republicans would have better managers in the same office.

The gross debt of the United States on June 30, 1914, at the end of the first fiscal year of the first administration, was $1,186,235,000, which, by the way, was $5,000,000 less than it was at the end of the second administration. On July 1, 1915, the gross debt was $1,225,145,000, which was an increase of about $38,910,000 a year. By July 1, 1917, the gross debt was $1,517,000,000, an increase of $291,855,000 in two years. At the end of the fiscal year 1918-19, during the months of which America participated in the war was at its maximum, the debt was $2,976,618,654. At the end of the fiscal year 1919-20, during the months of which America participated in the war was at its maximum, the debt was $2,853,984,418. The debt reached its "peak" on February 28, 1919, when it stood at $26,000,000. On February 28, four days after the Harding administration began, the debt was $24,051,000,000. The debt was $24,051,000,000 at the end of the first administration in eighteen months was $2,643,000,000. In the first six months of the Harding administration the debt was diminished by $1,239,000,000. These are the figures of the Department's own official statement.

There was a rise of $24,000,000,000 public debt between 1916 and 1917. What explains this increase? The country's successful part in the war, of course. Excluding the cost of pensions, and including interest on the public debt, a large part of the cost was due to the war, the disbursements chargeable to the achievement of victory for the United States in 1918-19 alone.

Mr. Longworth did not mention the expenditures made for the war in defeating Germany. He has no reason to believe that it was the extravagance and mismanagement that caused the enormous cost of the public debt. In this he is stating the disingenuousness of John T. Adams of the Republican National Committee, who repeats the same trick. But whatever the cause of the Washington Republican Club may be it is certain that the cause in the remainder of the States are too intelligent to be deceived by any such distortion and misstatement of facts.

Shows Sugar Growers Do Not Mind In Price Robbing

Growers of sugar beets are not angry by the profiteering through manipulators and exploiters, but by the advantage of the Fordney-McCumber tariff, have gouged some $200,000,000 or $300,000,000 from consumers of sugar, it is declared by the Farmers' Union.

For every cent the Republican tariff has been worth to the grower of sugar beets—if it has had any value to him it has been worth ten to the profiteers and stockjobbers.

IT STARTED SOMETHING

"I have not said anything to you but have been saying to others and have induced many to take your medicine and be convinced. May's Wonderful Remedy is correctly named. It removed stuff from me. I never thought could be in a human being and I feel like a different person. The pain in my right side disappeared at once, which four doctors said would require an operation; also the bloating and indigestion." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

MRS. ORA LOWE FARLOW DEAD

Mrs. Ora Lowe Farlow, wife of J. P. Farlow died in High Point Friday morning, April 20th at a local hospital following a critical illness of pneumonia.

Mrs. Farlow, daughter of the late Levi Lowe, was 38 years of age. She was born and reared in Randolph County and taught in a number of public schools in the county. Mrs. Farlow was held in high esteem and much beloved by all who knew her. She is survived by her husband, a ten months old son, and her mother, Mrs. L. L. Lowe of High Point; two sisters, Miss Alice Ione Lowe a student of Guilford College, Miss Grace A. Lowe, of Washington, and one brother, Nathan Lowe, of Asheboro.

prices and practices of the Sugar Barons.

"The impression has gone forth that the beet and cane sugar growers of the United States are collecting for themselves a large share of the money gathered and hoarded by the gamblers and profiteers," said Mr. Barrett in a formal statement on the subject. "Of course, every farmer knows that there is no basis or even the suspicion of a basis for such an assumption," Mr. Barrett said. "Nevertheless, some of the hard pressed and goaded people of the cities are thinking that the farmer is sharing in the proceeds of the robbery. Nothing could be further from the facts. All the sugar for the past season has long since been marketed and the supplies are in the hands of men who never grew an ounce of the commodity, whether it be in the cane or in the beet."

Farmers never have been able to collect from the manufacturer or refiner of sugar a price for their beets which might fairly be regarded as their proportionate share of what their product brings on the final market.

The excessive price of sugar will have a damaging effect on the producers of fruit and sugar beets, Mr. Barrett said. Should the price continue at the present high level during the coming season the demand for fruit will be greatly restricted because the canners will not pay exorbitant figures for sugar for preserving purposes.

"When the bottom drops out of the market, (following the present orgy of profiteering) something that certainly will happen, the producers must assume the loss, or the greater part of it," Mr. Barrett said. "Contracts with farmers for beets will be made on the basis of a disastrously receding price."

As the wheels turn
so progress is measured

WHEN man invented the wheel he straightened his back and lengthened his stride. Wheels milled his grain. Wheels helped him to lift burdens. Wheels moved him from place to place. But with wheels came friction and the need for lubrication.

Friction holds back; lubrication urges forward. Today millions of motor-cars, trucks, tractors and launches would be dead machines without a lubricant such as Polarine, the "Standard" oil for motor lubrication. Polarine is made from crude petroleum specially selected for its yield of lubricating stock. It lifts the load from delicate bearings, freeing power for the work to be done. Let Polarine protect your investment in automobiles from the attacks of friction.
