TEN MOTOR COMMANDMENTS FOR GREATER ROAD SAFETY

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, believing that the careful observation of a few simple traffic rules will materially help in making travel safer on the highways, has prepared the following "ten commandments." They have been printed on tags, to be attached to the steering wheel, so that the purchaser may have the maxims in mind when he buys his car. They will also be printed in automobile instruction books.

- I. Always remember you are an engineer, fully responsible.
- II. Always test your brakes when starting, and have them inspected frequently.
- III. Never pass a street car when it is stopping, or, if the law permits proceed very slowly past it at the legal distance.
- IV. Exercise special care in crossing in front of a street car or in passing it, as you cannot tell what may be coming on the other side.
- V. Always signal with hand when slowing down, turning or stopping, even though you have an automatic or mechanical warning device.
- VI. Look before you back, and sound the horn three times.
- VII. Try to drive with using the horn as little as possible. A sudden noise may stop pedestrians in their tracks rather than warning them.
- VIII. Don't count too much on the common sense of the other fellow. No one is 100 per cent. alert all the time.
- IX. Drive slowly in streets where children are playing. Remember your own childhood.
- X. Cross crossings cautiously. Warning bells may be out of order, watchmen or gate operators may be off duty. Trains cannot stop as quickly as you can. Shift into second to avoid stalling on tracks.

Following a brief illness, Thomas Duggs, field secretary of the Virginia Sunday school association and former secretary in several North Carolina towns, died in a Richmond hospital last Tuesday.

It is true notwithstanding the ravages of the boll weevil, North Carolina will raise more cotton this year than Georgia and the increased price that will be obtained for cotton will be due in a large measure to the co-operative Marketing Association.

Half the value of the North Carolina cotton crop goes to feed the farm work animals of the State, finds Earl Hostetter of the Experiment Station.

NEW PAPER FOR HIGH POINT

High Point Publishing Company is the name of the new corporation of High Point which will publish the "Morning Herald" in that city. The president is Mr. H. A. Mills. Mr. John Beasley is Vice President and Dr. M. C. McClellan is secretary. The first edition of the paper will come out on the first Sunday in October. High Point now has one of the best afternoon papers and it is a distinct credit to the city to realize that its population, its industries and its enterprise will support a morning as well as an afternoon and several weekly newspapers. Mr. Beasley is connected with the Monroe Journal, a semi-weekly paper published in Monroe and also with the Goldsboro Daily News.

LETTER SENT OUT BY CLERK OF COURT

Professor D. M. Weatherly, Clerk of the Superior Court of this County, has succeeded in collecting nearly a thousand dollars of fines and penalties collected by mayors and justices of the peace in Randolph county, due to the following letter prepared by Solicitor Zeb V. Long and sent out before the last term of court by Professor Weatherly.

The letter is published in full for the benefit of any who may not have received a letter.

I quote herewith a letter from Mr. Zeb V. Long, Solicitor of the Fifteenth Judicial District to this office, which is self-explanatory. I wish to ask that you please forward to me at your earliest convenience a list containing the names of all the justices of the peace of your county, together with the names of the mayors of all the towns and municipalities of your county, to be of course, with the post office address of each justice of the peace and mayor.

I wish to further advise Mr. Clerk and to implore your hearty official cooperation with me to the end that all justices of the peace and mayors of towns and municipalities shall promptly and diligently make returns to you in your offices of all criminal cases which they try. I wish you would make it a point to personally talk with these justices of the peace and mayors as you may have chance to see them, and inform them of the importance of their so returning their proceedings in all criminal cases before them. It matters not whether it be cases which they assume jurisdiction and dispose of, whether it be cases which they hand over to court. Point out to these officials that the statute mandatory commands and requires of them that they shall make full and complete returns of all these matters, and that they shall also attach with their returns in each case, a brief statement and summary of the states evidence. It is necessary that they make a return of cases which they dispose of for the reasons, that sometimes through error they assume jurisdiction where they have no jurisdiction and there is never a court but that people come to me to bring indictments, and I frequently find the case has already been sometimes properly, and sometimes improperly and illegally, by reason of a misunderstanding of the law, disposed of, and these returns are further necessary in order that you can keep a strict check and know that all fines and costs are properly turned into the county that are due to be turned in. This is absolutely necessary to enable the Superior Court to properly function, in order to promote justice, law and order. I am going to forward a circular letter to each of these officials and I earnestly crave the cooperation of the Clerks of the Court to help me to carry out this very important and mandatory provision of the law. "Judge B. F. Long, with whom I am now serving, is especially insisting upon this course, and I would do it, and I have been trying to get it done anyway, whether he insists upon it or not, because it is mandatory upon the Judge, the Clerk of the Court and myself as well, to do this thing, in order that the defendants may not be dragged to court, where they should not be, and for the great purpose of seeing to it, that cases officials have no right to dispose of."

"For your convenience you are advised that the fee bill for Justices of the Peace passed by the last legislature is found in Chapter 113, page 370, Public Laws of N. C., Session 1921 and Chapter 67, page 103, Public Laws of N. C., Extra Session 1921.

I also suggest that in all cases that you bind over to court that you be very careful and see that all your fees are properly entered in the proper place on the warrant in order that your fees may be included in the final bill of cost and collected by this office.

Yours very truly,
D. M. WEATHERLY,
Clerk Superior Court.

IN RICHMOND--

You find the markets of the world

Shopping in the Women's Apparel Section is a revelation to the woman who has not visited them. The showings of new gowns, suits and wraps are simultaneous with smart Fifth Avenue presentations, and reflect the modes of both New York and Paris.

IT'S a delight just to walk through Miller & Rhoads Store in Richmond. It's a joy to the eyes just to see the beautiful array of merchandise gathered from every corner of the world. Like a great bazaar in its variety!

Here are the very things you want, but just a little different and a little better than you find them elsewhere. Many articles cannot be duplicated anywhere. For instance, the exquisite bits of jewelry and leather goods from Czecho-Slovakia. These are made by expert craftsmen in the small shops of their native country. They work by hand and they make only one article of each design.

There are smart dresses. Many of them from New York, Fifth Avenue, of course, and then there are some from Paris, fashion center of the world. There are charming frocks for children, beautifully hand-made by the peasant workers of France; fine linens from Belfast; dainty laces from Belgium, Leipzig and Austria; pearls and lovely embroidered negligees from Japan; colorful rugs from the Orient.

You must wonder how we can reach out into the markets of the world and gather together such an array of wonderful merchandise and values. We have buying connections everywhere. The head of each department makes frequent trips to New York for the purpose of selecting large stocks of merchandise. And one of our representatives journeys to Europe in search of even better things.

Nowhere will you find better values than at Miller & Rhoads. We are constantly reaching out for new and better sources of merchandise. Buying in large quantities enables us to sell to you at remarkably low prices. That, in a few words, is our aim.

Pay Miller & Rhoads a visit on your next trip to Richmond, and judge for yourself the values you find here. There is a quality to suit every taste and a price to fit every purse.

Paris and New York have sent some of the loveliest of the new costume jewelry to our Jewelry Section. Here you will find necklaces and bracelets to match your frocks; charming novelties for your adornment—or for gifts.

The State Capitol—a place dear to the hearts of southern people. It was designed by Thomas Jefferson, third President of our country, while that eminent statesman was minister to France. It served as the Capital of the Confederacy from 1861 to 1865.
