"Consumption of American cotton by German mills was 622,500 bales during the season of 1922-23 as com-pared with 827,000 bales during 1921-22, a decrease of 25 per cent," says E. C. Squire, American Agricultural Commissioner at Berlin. "The pres-ent supply of cotton goods in Ger-many is almost as low as it was at the end of the war when the country was practically have of all cotton prowas practically bare of all cotton products," the Department of Agricul-ture announces, quoting Mr. Squire.

The total consumption of cotton in Germany during the year ended 31, 1923, was 853,000 bales. This was 230-000 bales less than during the preseeding year, or a reduction of 21 percent. The average annual consumption for the years 1911 to 1913 was 1,874,000 bales. Some of the decrease of consumption since the war is explained by Germany's loss of Alsace-Lorraine where before the war 17 per cent of her spindles were to be found. It is pointed out, however, that the decline in consumption during the last year is larger than the loss of territory and spindles would justify.

These losses of American trade in Germany are for the most part due to that country's political and financial instability. It is the opinion even of Republican officials that much of America's former commerse with the German people could be recovered if the United States would contribute something by way of an intelligent foreign policy to the restoration Germany's integrity and credit.

RECIPES FOR SAUSAGE

Every farmer should, have a good usage recipe. The following recipe fat meat. Mix in seasoning (22 ozs. of salt, and 10 ounces of black pepper for each 10 Pounds of meat) Run through a meat-and-food chopper and staff into casings with the sausage stuffer, lard and fruit press. (Casings may be prepared on farm or bought in nearest town.)

Other recipes are contained in Farmers' Bulletin No. 913, United States Department of Agriculture, sent free on request to any farmer.

The plans for the day are to visit en masse the site of the new home, leaving the Hotel March at 10:30 a. M. At 7 p. m. there will be a public mass meeting and reception to the national and state officers in the Lexington theater which has a capacity of 1,400 people. At this time there will be short addresses by the officers and an interesting program has been arranged.

The Juniors are planning to make this the biggest celebration of their order ever held in North Carolina. There will be thirty-five or more in the national officer's party, composed of prominent Juniors and their wives from every section of the

HELP THE BIRDS

Million of dollars are lost to agri-culture every year through harmful insects. The birds are their natural enemies. They also destroy the seeds of weeds, act as scavengers, and in the winter eat the eggs and grubs of

Most states having ornithologists have requested that persons kindly disposed towards birds place food in their usual haunts. The cold season is here and, with regular supply of food cut off, the birds are now facing the period in which there is great danger of extermination by starvation. Although the songsters have migrated, the ones remaining deserve attention.

A little grain will do much to re-lieve the birds' distress during the winter. Or, if this is too much trouble, table crumbs thrown to them will be welcome. Watching the cat will also be appreciated, and this is small enough compensation for services rendered.—Wheeling, West Va. Intelligencer.

LEXINGTON PREPARING TO WELCOME THE JUNIORS

The town of Lexington is making elaborate preparations for the re-ception and celebration there on January 16, when National and State officials of the Junior Order go there to view formally the site of the new Orphan's Home and accept the title to the same.

The program committee is composed of Rev. W. L. Hutchins, chair-man, Wade H. Phillips, J. R. Mc-Crary, Fred O. Sink, and Mrs. W. H Mendenhall.
