A TRIBUTE OF LOVE

We, the members of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Protestant church of Worthville, N. C., desire to offer a tribute of love and esteem to the memory of our dear sister, Mrs. M. J. Myrick who died at her home January 30th, 1924.

Whereas: It has pleased our Heavenly Father in His love and tender mercy to remove from our midst an esteemed and loyal member who was ever willing to do what she could to carry on the Master's work, we shall miss her cheerful smiles, but feel that our loss is her eternal gain. Therefore, be it resolved,

FIRST: That in her death we have lost a true friend and co-worker in Christ. She will be missed by the children, for like Dorcas of old, she made garments for and was ever helpful to the motherless children. She will be missed too in the Sunday school. She was helpful in all departments and in the Church work.

SECOND: That we extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved husband and loved ones, and commend them to the care of One who doeth all things well.

THIRD: That a copy of these resolutions be given to the husband; be recorded in the minutes of the Missionary Society; be published in the Methodist Protestant Herald and the local county paper.

MRS. C. E. DURHAM,
MRS. L. P. FOUST,
MRS. J. K. FARLOW,
MISS ROSE MYRICK,
Committee.

The people of Charlotte are offering a reward of $700 for the arrest of an unidentified negro who shot and killed John Fesperman, 21 year old son of Deputy Sheriff Victor Fesperman, during a raid near Charlotte.

City and county officials from Winston-Salem are looking for a negro man said to have assaulted a ten year old white girl near Winston last Tuesday. The assault is said to have taken place within 100 yards of the girls home. Blood hounds are being used in the hunt.

Social Column

Mrs. Cranford Gives Tea.

Pleasing in detail was the elaborate tea given by Mrs. Edwin Cranford at her home on Sunset avenue Saturday afternoon, February 16th, announcing the marriage of Miss Vivian Cranford to Mr. Sam Story. Receiving graciously at the front door was Mrs. M. G. Edwards who pointed the way to the receiving line in the East parlor. With her stood little Maxwell Cranford receiving cards in a silver basket. At the head of the receiving line stood the hostess in a broad fawn afternoon gown. After greeting her guests she presented them to the bride, Mrs. Story, who was lovely in a Chinese blue afternoon gown trimmed with bands of fur, and wearing a corsage of pink roses. Her mother, Mrs. C. C. Cranford, was next. Mrs. Cranford wore a handsome black dress with a corsage of valley lilies and narcissi. Next was Mrs. A. J. Maxwell, of Raleigh, mother of the hostess, wearing a dinner gown of black lace. Next was Mrs. J. W. Maxwell, who wore a pretty sand dress, and Mrs. J. M. Neely, aunt of the groom, in a black afternoon dress.

Mrs. Laurin Cranford and Mrs. Fowle Birkhead directed the guests into the beautifully appointed dining room. Here Mrs. C. L. Cranford by Mrs. C. Rush, Mrs. Lacy Lewis, Mrs. Arthur Birkhead, and Mrs. James Crutchfield served an ice course. On each plate was tiny hand painted bride favors, with the date of the wedding. The color motif in this room as well as in the other rooms was yellow and white. The lights were shaded with yellow, casting a soft glow over the table with its cluny lace cover with the centerpiece a crystal bowl of frezias. At the four corners of the table were yellow candles in silver candle sticks. Throughout the other rooms were large bowls of frezias and yellow jonquils.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cranford, of this place, and one of the most charming young girls of the town with a host of friends. She was a student at Greensboro College. The wedding, coming at this time, was a surprise to the friends of both the young couple, but was most fitting that the announcement should come at the Valentine season.

Mr. Story is the son of Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Story, of Marion, and also has many friends in the town, as well as throughout the State. He is at present principal of the school at Hemp.

Mrs. Presnell Hostess.

Mrs. O. L. Presnell entertained the members of her bridge club and a few other guests Friday afternoon at her home on Salisbury street. Play took place at three tables were Mrs. Joe T. Lewallen, Mrs. Arthur Birkhead, Mrs. James O. Walker, Jr., Miss Ruth Cox, Mrs. I. C. Moser, Miss Ethel Lovett, Mrs. Hal W. Walker, Mrs. Roy Hodgins, Miss Mabel Parrish, Mrs. E. A. Wiles, and Mrs. Henry Ingram. When scores were counted the first prize went to Mrs. J. T. Lewallen, and second prize, a pair of salt and pepper shakers, went to Mrs. Roy Hodgins. Pressed chicken, on lettuce, with aspic, sandwiches, wafers, pickles and hot chocolate and fudge cake were served. Valentine favors were on each plate.

Valentine Bridge.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Ernest Wiles was hostess at a pleasant Valentine Bridge party in the Ashlyn hotel parlor. The game was enjoyed at three tables for an hour or more until the cards were collected and the scores added. Mrs. I. C. Moser received the first prize, a lovely Vanity and the second prize, a buffet set went to Mrs. W. A. Underwood. The booby went to Mrs. J. S. Alexander. Mrs. Henry Ingram assisted in serving a delectable fruit salad course, with wafers, turkey and relish sandwiches, pimento-cheese loaf, and hot tea. Valentine decorations made the room attractive for this pleasant occasion.

Randolph Book Club.

The Valentine meeting of the Randolph Book club was held at the home of Mrs. E. L. Moffitt, on Sunset avenue Friday afternoon. Mrs. John K. Wood read the chapter from the book, "Life and Letters of Walter Hines Page", and Mrs. J. D. Ross read Mrs. Hammer's paper on Judge Ben Lindsay, as she was away. After the current events, Mrs. Rhodes Moffitt and Miss Dick Rhodes assisted in serving chicken salad, heart shaped sandwiches, wafers, pickles, coffee, and mints in Valentine baskets were passed, the Valentine colors predominating.

Two Showers For Mrs. Story.

Two lovely "showers" were given for Mrs. Sam Story Tuesday, the first being at the home of Mrs. C. L. Cranford Tuesday morning. The entire lower floor of the handsome home was bright with blooming flowers making a pretty setting for the games. Rook was played for an hour, and when the scores were counted the prize, a string of amber beads, went to Mrs. Correll Suggs, and to the honoree was given a handsome silver compote. This shower was in the form of a "Kitchen Shower" and the articles given were most useful. Later fruit cocktail in grape fruit cups, followed by a chicken salad course was served. About twenty guests were present on this occasion.

The shower Tuesday afternoon was given at the home of Mrs. Mack Ridge, with Mrs. Ridge and Mrs. Correll Suggs joint hostesses. Five tables were arranged for games, heart dice and bridge played. After the games were concluded, the honoree was asked to wind a long string which led her to a basket filled with lovely gifts. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Laurin Cranford, and Mrs. Russell served assorted sandwiches, coffee, whipped cream and candies.

Celebrate Birthday.

Delightful to a score of little folks was the celebration of Mary Harrison Redding's fourth birthday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Redding on South Fayetteville street. After the little folks had assembled Mrs. Redding and Miss Carrie Brittain assisted in playing games until the dining room doors were opened and the young guests invited in.

In the center of the table was a large cake with four lighted candles. The cake was cut, and brick cream and wafers were served. Afterwards little red Valentine favors filled with salted nuts were passed. The little honoree received many lovely gifts from her friends.
