KING TUT'S TOMB TO BE OPENED TO PUBLIC

The Egyptian Government announced last Thursday that the tomb of King Tut would be opened by the Egyptian Government for a period of ten days so that the public may visit it.

A guard of soldiers was drawn up and many tourists were present, the minister of the works yesterday ordered Pierre Lacau of the Egyptian antiquities department, to open the tomb today and great excitement prevailed at Luxor. It was known to every one that Howard Carter, representing the Carnarvon expedition, would not surrender the keys to the locks which secured the doors of the tomb and that the government officers must cut the locks to gain entrance.

Mr. Carter not having replied to the ultimatum of the government within the 48 hours specified, inviting him to open the tomb and resume work under certain conditions, the cabinet cancelled the license originally granted to Lord Carnarvon and ordered the reopening of the tomb immediately, as it was feared great damage might result through the ropes breaking and allowing the heavy granite lid suspended over the sarcophagus to fall, and perhaps irreparably damage the magnificent gold-covered coffin within.

M. Lacau, accompanied by M. Englebach, inspector of antiquities of Upper Egypt, the governor of Kenah province, the mayor of Luxor, the chief of police of the district and native workmen with chisels, crowbars and hack saws, arrived at the tomb at 2:30 o'clock. The workmen sawed off the locks of the outer and inner doors, thus permitting entrance to the tomb.

The electric lights were turned on and a careful inspection showed that no damage had been done. After covering several of the objects to prevent dust settling, the top of the sarcophagus was covered with thin boards, supports were placed under the lid and new locks were attached to the doors, which were again closed.

The party then went to the tomb of Seti II, which is being used at a laboratory and storehouse for the objects taken from the tomb. Here also the locks were removed and pieces of the shrine, which were more or less exposed to the weather were wrapped in protective covers.

Neither Mr. Carter nor any member of his staff was present. It is understood he has placed the matter in the hands of the courts to determine his rights, until which time nothing in the tomb can be removed.

The tomb will be closed after the public view, which it is stated the government will permit during the next ten days, when about 2,000 persons will be admitted. In the event of the failure of the government to adjust its differences with Carter, it considers the antiquities department capable of completing the work.

CREAMERY WORK IN COUNTY GROWING

Although the weather was very unfavorable last week the meetings held over the county in the interest of the creamery work were fairly well attended by the farmers, and the farmers who braved the weather to hear Mr. Kimery were well repaid. Mr. Kimery knows his subject, and has the ability to tell it. I wish that every farmer in the county could have been present at these meetings. I have been convinced in my own mind that we had a great county for dairy cattle work, but I was very much helped up to hear what Mr. Kimery had to say about it. He stated that he had several times visited the great dairy state of Wisconsin, and he assured me that Randolph had better natural advantages than they have in Wisconsin.

I hope that all who did not get to hear him will have the chance a little later and for that reason I have asked him to come again later in the spring.

The main things stressed in these meetings were the importance of better feeds and pasture, and better handling of the dairy products. Prepare better pastures, which we can easily do here in this county, as grass will grow if we will only give it a chance. Get a few permanent acres of permanent pastures started this spring.

And then prepare to have better winter feeds next year, and more of it. Now is the time to be looking out for your soy beans. We can easily have good legume hay by growing soybeans and it takes very little work to get it. Order your beans at once to get it. Order your beans to get them from someone who keeps them for sale. Several parties are carrying them this spring and are selling them at reasonable prices. You cannot afford not to grow them. The plant food value in a ton of soybean hay is over $11.00 not to count the food value to the cow, and the plant food will go back to the soil if fed on the farm.

Figures shown by Mr. Kimery at these meetings show that a cow that will average two gallons of milk per day will pay market prices for the feed that she eats and then pay the farmer a profit of from fifty to sixty dollars per year. Almost enough to pay for herself each year in clear profit. Do you want a better investment? I think not. We ought to be satisfied with that. Then lets get busy and prepare the pastures and next winter's feed.

Also prepare to feed some hogs along with the cows in order to market the skim milk. The hogs if run on soybeans, and fed a little corn meal and skim milk, will show nine profit. Lets plan to market our feeds to the best advantage. If we cannot sell corn and wheat then lets feed it to the livestock, and put the plant food back on the farm to enrich the soil.

E. S. MILLSAPS, Jr., County Agent.

Another Reason Why — Buick Cushions Are Comfortable On All Roads The cushions on Buick open cars are supported on double-deck springs. The upper springs, light and easy acting, smooth out slight road irregularities, while the larger and stronger lowers absorb the bumps that cause the ordinary seat to "strike bottom". Two pads of curled hair between springs and French plaited upholstery give that final softness and assure the purchaser a cushion that will stand up.
