Miss Chloe Callicott and Mr. Everett Nance were visitors in High Point and Greensboro last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Crowell, who have been confined to their home with measles are out again.

Mrs. Bruce Craven, of Trinity, delighted a large audience at the Women's Club in High Point with a splendid lecture on "Landscape Gardening". Mrs. Craven has recently made an extensive study on this subject, having graduated from the American School of Architecture and Gardening in Newark, N. J. Her lecture on this occasion was especially practical as she stressed the beautifying of home grounds.

One of the new Radio sets in the county is that of Mr. J. R. Jordan, of Trinity. The set is a good one, and furnishes much pleasure and entertainment to the family and a large number of their friends.

Very few cases of small pox have developed in the county, perhaps due to the fact that a large number of the citizens of the town and county have been vaccinated. The four cases at the Jail are about entirely recovered, and the jailor, Duke Lowe, who has also had a rather severe case is again able to be out on the streets.

The biggest land sale yet is to be on April 19. See the posters and circulars for detailed information.

Mr. Herbert Hammond, who has been in High Point hospital, returned home last Sunday much improved.

Mrs. A. R. Callicott, of Strieby, is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. A. S. Callicott, this week.
