Society

Randolph Book Club

The Randolph Book Club met with Mrs. D. B. McCrary on Worth street Friday afternoon. The home on this occasion was made lovely with fall flowers, and the meeting proved one of interest. Mrs. Annie Robins read from the study book and Mrs. W. A. Underwood read an interesting extract from the book Boudoir Mirrors of Washington. Current event and the discussion of interesting topics of the day concluded the program. Chicken salad, wafers, coffee and stuffed dates were the refreshments.

Hostess To Friday Afternoon Club

Mrs. James Burns was hostess to the Friday Afternoon Club and a few other guests at her home on Salisbury Street. The program for this meeting was The Federal System of Government. Mrs. Edwards read a paper dealing with the "Limitations of the Constitution" and Mrs. Justin Maxwell read a paper on the "Relation of the Federal and State Government". A discussion of the topic followed the reading of the papers. The hostess then invited her guests to the dining room where a lovely three course luncheon was served. The entertainment rooms were decorated with lovely white chrysanthemums, while in the dining room the table decorations were yellow and white with Thanksgiving baskets holding the mints.

Mrs. Smith Honored

One of the most delightful teas of the fall was given at the home of Mrs. L. L. Whitaker Monday afternoon with Mrs. Whitaker, Mrs. J. M. Neely and Mrs. Harris Burkhead hostesses. The affair was complimenting Mrs. Cothran G. Smith a bride of this month. Receiving the guests at the front door was Mrs. Henry Robins, and inside the living room the receiving line was formed as follows: Mrs. Whitaker, Mrs. Cothran G. Smith, Mrs. Chas. Pugh, of Greensboro, mother of the honoree, Mrs. Harris Burkhead, Mrs. Harris Green, Mrs. Wade Smith, of Greensboro, Mrs. J. M. Neely, Mrs. James C. Storey, of Marion, Mrs. Charles Fox, and Mrs. A. A. Spencer, of Carthage, mother of the hostess. At the door of the sun room Mrs. J. V. Hunter received and Mrs. Sam Storey stood at the dining room door. In the dining room Mrs. Hugh Parks and Mrs. J. W. Wolff, mother of Mrs. Harris Burkhead cut green and white cream at a beautifully appointed table. The decorations in this room were in green and white, lovely silver vases of chrysanthemums were used throughout the entire lower floor for decoration as well as in the living room. At the dining room door Mrs. Ed. Hedrick and Mrs. Curry Liffin directed the guests to the living room where Mrs. J. W. Burkhead and Miss May McAlister received. At the music room door Miss Bertie May received and Mrs. Hal M. Worth and Miss Esther Ross said good-byes. A large number of friends of the hostesses called during the tea hours and met Mrs. Smith and the guests.

OPENING OF THE GIFT SHOP

Already many minds are turning to the holiday season and those who are to be made happy with an appropriate remembrance at this time. Many will hear with pleasure that the Gift Shop and Woman's Exchange, conducted by Mrs. John K. Wood for several years will be opened December 1st, in a room back of the Standard Drug Co. on the first floor. This shop is for the use of the clever women who have made many pretty articles for sale at this time and there will be no end of pretty things to select a gift from. Besides these hand-made articles, Mrs. Wood will have an sale an attractive assortment of novelties of a gift nature, which will solve the problem of individual gift for one's friends. The Gift Shop will be in charge of Mrs. John K. Wood and Mrs. J. G. Crutchfield this season.

TRINITY NEWS

Mrs. Nannie Craven is spending some time in Charlotte. George Craven's place on School avenue is being remodeled. It is much improved. The roof is being put on the new school building. It is a much larger building than most of us expected to see. It seems as if it might be ready for use by February anyway. Mrs. George Hendrix, who is residing for the present near here, fell some time ago and was hurt right badly, one foot was hurt so she can hardly use it. The chrysanthemums are looking beautiful about here now. We can almost imagine ourselves in Japan at some great flower show. Some are like giant sunflowers, and so many colors. Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso Cox, of Greensboro, visited Misses Rose and Emma Johnson, on Johnson street Sunday evening.
